BOCCHERINI'S MINUET.
"Messrs. Allan and Co. have published the piece about which so important a musical point of dispute has been raised—the famous Minuet of Boccherini. But this one is Ketten's arrangement, and is very decidedly different to that published by Nicholson and Ascherberg, which may be announced as the one not played by M. Ketten, for it is the sweet, graceful, unembellished air of Boccherini (as illustrated by Urso), not spoiled by a mass of fantastical musical extravagances. From our recollection of Ketten's playing of the Minuet we should say that this also is not the illustration he gave of it; but whether it is so or not, the generality of players will infinitely prefer the original version, by which the graceful can be exemplified without the impossible."—Sydney Evening News, July 21.

BRINSMEAD PIANOS.
SPECIAL NOTICE.
Referring to certain advertisements that have lately appeared in the daily journals, Messrs. ROYLE and HOGG desire to call the attention of the public to the following fact, viz.:—That the Judges of Musical Instruments at the recent Sydney International Exhibition ONLY awarded ONE SPECIAL MENTION for Pianofortes, and that was to Messrs. JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS. A reference to the book published under the authority of the Commissioners, and entitled Official Awards, will clearly prove this assertion.
We append letters, signed by a majority of the Judges, which establish this fact, and fully explain to the public the position of affairs.

"Sydney, 27th July, '80.
"To the Executive Commissioner.
"Dear Sir,—At the final meeting of the Judges of Pianos at the Sydney International Exhibition it was decided to award to Messrs. JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS the ONLY SPECIAL MENTION. This was duly presented, and confirmed by the Executive Commissioner. Afterwards, at the request, as we understand, of the Secretary, we drew up certain particulars for the Official Catalogue; but this was in no way intended to invalidate the distinction to Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, viz., THE HIGHEST AWARD ABOVE ALL PIANO exhibits, and as such are entitled to a higher award.
"We give you these particulars in justice to the firm entitled to special distinction, and no doubt you will see this duly carried out.
"We remain,
"Dear Sir,
"Yours obediently,
"C. J. JACKSON
"MONTAGUE YOUNGER
"EDMUND T. BLACKET
"CHARLES PACKER."

"99, Pitt-street, Sydney, 28th July, 1880.
"To H. Brinsmead, Esq.,
Dear Sir,—"I received your letter of the 19th instant, and am very much surprised at its contents.
"You are perfectly correct in saying that your pianos were the ONLY ones which received any Special Mention from the Judges of Musical Instruments.
"When it was proposed to give you this SPECIAL AWARD I objected, and divided the meeting on the subject, but was outvoted, and the Special Mention was made and I signed the report accordingly. I am not aware that any alteration was made in this report, and if it was so, it was not done with any knowledge or consent on my part, therefore it cannot be said to be the report of the Judges.
"Your statement that the ONLY SPECIAL notice among pianos was given to you by the Judges of Musical Instruments is ABSOLUTELY TRUE as the report itself will show.
"I am, dear Sir,
"Yours truly,
"EDMUND T. BLACKET."

"Organ Manufactory,
"Newtown, Sydney, 1880.
"Messrs. JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS,
"Gentlemen,—I have great pleasure in being able to vouch to the degree of perfection to which you have brought the Art of Pianoforte Manufacturing. I must say the improvements invented and patented by your firm are of such value, that the musical judges, after carefully examining the instruments, competing with about 70 or 80 other manufacturers', awarded your Pianos the first prize above them all. I am also of opinion that your Pianos, with such simple action, simplicity of mechanism, strength of construction, combined with the remarkable purity and sweetness of tone, are unrivalled, whilst your patent action produces a touch absolutely perfect.
"I am, Gentlemen,
"Yours truly,
"C. J. JACKSON."

FRAUD IN CONNECTION WITH CERTIFICATES OF TITLE.

The Supreme Court of South Australia, in its capacity of Court of Appeal from the Primary Judge, delivered last month a most important judgment—the subject being whether a certificate of title issued under the Real Property Act of that Province could be set aside on the ground of equitable fraud on the part of the applicant. We have in this Colony, up to the present time, never been called upon to consider a case so utterly destitute of merits on the part of a registered proprietor of land as was this case of Biggs and others v. M'Ellister and others. And, certainly, the officials of our Land Titles Department have never laid themselves open to such vehement condemnation as the South Australian Judges have thought fit to pass upon the conduct of their Registrar-General and Solicitor of Titles. Now and again, in the course of some score of cases in which the practice adopted by our Land Titles officers has been reviewed by the Supreme Court, a Judge may have hinted rather suggestively that the Examiners of Titles, or some of them, have exceeded their duty in the way of vigilance, or have been too microscopic in taking objections to a title, or too exacting in framing their requisitions; but no such charges of gross negligence and persistent recklessness have ever been hurled from the Supreme Court Bench of this colony against the responsible officials of our Land Titles office as Judges Boucaut and Gwynne preferred against the whole panel of Real Property Act officials who were concerned from first to last in the issue of the M'Ellister certificates. Not even does Sir Robert Torrens escape; for, although long since retired from the office of Registrar-General, he appears to have been the holder of that office when the certificate of title was issued to the elder M'Ellister, in 1860.

This South Australian case is interesting, and perhaps also instructive to ourselves, as showing how paramount to all popular notions of the "indefeasibility" of certificates of title are the established axioms of Equity. In the case of Sempill v. Jarvis, decided by our own Court in 1867, we were introduced to a class of Equities which were declared to be superior to the mere act of registration by the person to whom those Equities attached. That was a case of fraudulent preference of one creditor over his fellows, and the Court held, affirming the judgment of the Primary Judge, that notwithstanding the large terms of the 40th section of the Real Property Act, a registered proprietor will not be allowed by the mere act of registration (i. e. by putting his property under Torrens' Act, as is the phrase), to get rid of Equities residing in himself with relation to such property. In this recent case of M'Ellister's, we have, as it were, a pendant to Sempill v. Jarvis,—a declaration by the Full Court of the sister colony to the effect that "registration" is a mere nullity when procured by such acts or omissions on the part of the applicant as amount to "fraud," in the sense which a Court of Equity ascribes to that word. The value of such a declaration is made all the more tangible when we remember that our Real Property Act is a transcript from the South Australian, and that, therefore, all the material sections which were relied on in support of the certificates of the M'Ellisters would possess in our statute exact counterparts, which would be sure to be cited on a similar occasion in defence of the "indefeasibility" doctrine.

Stated as shortly as is possible consistently with intelligibility, the case Biggs v. M'Ellister stands thus:—In June of 1840, Guthrie, the then undoubted owner of the property, mortgaged it to Captain Walker to secure a sum of £161 5s. 8d. due to Whiteman Freeman. The mortgage deed vested both the legal estate and the power of sale in default of payment of the mortgage debt in Walker. In 1842 all but £20 of that debt had been paid off, and the deeds had been returned by the mortgagee to Guthrie, who retained them until the sale to the plaintiffs (about four years ago). In 1855, M'Ellister—through whom the defendants claimed—entered into negotiations with Guthrie for the purchase of the property for £250, and both the intending purchaser and his solicitors were made thoroughly acquainted with the nature of the title, and that the mortgage debt, less the £20, had been paid off by Guthrie, and that he (Guthrie) had the title deeds in his possession. But the sale was deferred on the advice of M'Ellister's solicitors, so that Guthrie might go to Tasmania in order to procure a reconveyance from the mortgagor's official assignee, Freeman having become insolvent in 1844. Accordingly Guthrie went to Tasmania, and paid the balance of the mortgage debt to that officer, from whom he received a release. Walker appears to have died intestate long before, and without any known kin. During Guthrie's absence M'Ellister was in the habit of calling at the office of Guthrie's solicitors, and inquiring whether the reconveyance had yet been obtained. However, before the missing link in Guthrie's title had been secured one of M'Ellister's solicitors (Mr. Smith) offered his partner (Mr. Cullen) £50 to get the property for him (Smith), which Cullen accordingly succeeded, as it was thought, in doing, by procuring a conveyance, in consideration of £20, from a person acting under a general power of attorney from Whiteman Freeman. Cullen transferred the property to Smith in 1856, in consideration of £50; and Smith dying in 1858, his trustees in the following year transferred this, together with other property, to M'Ellister, in consideration of a debt due by Smith to M'Ellister. Immediately after M'Ellister applied to bring the land under the Real Property Act, and made the usual declaration that he was seised for an estate in fee simple, and was not aware of any mortgage or claim affecting the land, or that any person except himself had any estate, interest, or claim in connection with it. With his application M'Ellister lodged certain documents, and among them an abstract of title, such as it was. In March, 1860, a certificate of title was issued to M'Ellister. In the following year Guthrie obtained a vesting order in his favour from the Court, under the Trustee Acts, based on the strong equitable title he was able to disclose. Having thus got in the legal estate, he commenced (unsuccessfully at first) an action of ejectment against M'Ellister. The verdict was set aside by the Full Court, and a new trial granted; which, however, was superseded by M'Ellister consenting to judgment being signed for Guthrie. Guthrie then went into possession, and remained in possession until the present suit was instituted. In 1866, M'Ellister—the registered proprietor—died, and in the year following the trustees under his will obtained a certificate of title in their names. Subsequently they transferred to the devisees under their testator's will—the defendants in the suit. Shortly before the issue of the certificate on this transfer from M'Ellister's trustees, Biggs, who had recently purchased the property from Guthrie, applied to the Court to cancel the trustees' certificate; but the Court would not entertain the application, apparently on the ground of the inconclusive effect of a judgment in ejectment. Failing in their attempt to procure a judicial cancellation of the certificate, the plaintiff's solicitor applied to the Registrar-General by a letter, giving the fullest information of the state of the title, to take the proceedings authorized by the statute for the same purpose, viz., cancellation; and urged that officer to abstain, at all events, from issuing a new certificate under the circumstances disclosed. But all to no purpose. Neither the Registrar-General nor the Solicitor of Titles, although advised by the Commissioners that a case for cancellation had been made out, hesitated in their determination to go on, and, accordingly, the certificate was issued to the defendants in spite of all warnings. Some time in 1877 the plaintiffs filed their bill in Equity, for the purpose of getting the Court to set aside this last certificate, not being satisfied, as we may conjecture, with the procedure given by the Act to carry out vesting orders. The Primary Judge made a decree in their favour. From this decree the defendants appealed to the Full Court. At the hearing of the appeal no attempt seems to have been made to defend the title which had been accepted in such a haphazard, if not reckless, fashion; but the main contention on the part of the defendants was, that the certificate representing that title ought not to be set aside, because "fraud" necessary, within the meaning of the Real Property Act, to avoid a certificate of title must be actual moral fraud on the part of the applicant himself: but that no misstatements by him, or fraud on the part of his solicitors, however intimately connected with the application, would be sufficient unless there were moral fraud perpetrated by the applicant himself on the Lands Title officers—deceiving them, and directly causing their action in issuing the certificate.

But the Court unanimously, and almost indignantly, rejected this contention, and held that M'Ellister's suppression of Guthrie's rights, which were demonstrably within his knowledge at the time of making his application, together with the palpably false statements contained in his declaration supporting that application, constituted equitable fraud of the grossest kind. The Judges in delivering their judgments did not content themselves with a declaration of the law of "fraud" for the purpose of avoiding a certificate of title, but they improved the occasion, for the benefit of the whole of the officers of the Land Titles department concerned in granting M'Ellister's certificate. Mr. Justice Boucaut selected the Registrar-General, and Mr. Justice Gwynne the Official Solicitor—or, as we should designate him in this colony, the "Examiner of Titles"—(Mr. Gawler), as the object of the judicial rebuke. That there was intended to be no mistake about the terms in which Judges Boucaut and Gwynne expressed their opinions must be admitted after a perusal of the following extracts from their judgments:—

"I cannot imagine," said Mr. Justice Boucaut, "how the Registrar-General could have been induced to issue this certificate after the receipt of Messrs. Bundey and Dashwood's letter of the 21st April, 1877, which sets out a fair and moderate statement of the facts, some of which must have been known to be true by the Registrar-General, and the rest of which could readily have been verified. A certificate of title is obtained by fraud, giving land to a man who has no colour or pretence of right to it; the decision of this Court in granting a new trial against that fraudulent proprietor causes him, by the advice of his solicitor, to consent to an adverse verdict, which consent is expressly put on the ground of a part only of the fraud proved; possession by the real owner is taken and continued under that verdict, and yet the Registrar-General issues a certificate of title, notwithstanding his knowledge of all these facts, and much more, that should have made him pause; and notwithstanding that the Act which it is his duty to administer expressly and clearly (in section 124) reserved Guthrie's right to his ejectment, so that there was no question of ambiguity or uncertainty in the Act on that point. The issue of this certificate is the more incomprehensible when it is borne in mind that the solicitors to the Lands Titles Commissioners had both advised that Messrs. Bundey and Dashwood had made out a case for the cancellation of the certificate in the hands of E. M'Ellister's trustees. I feel it my duty to pronounce that it was inconsistent with, and a great dereliction of, the Registrar-General's duty to issue the certificate to the present defendants under the circumstances I have pointed out. If such certificates were upheld either by force of the general law or of the Real Property Acts, then those Acts so administered would be the reverse of a blessing to the people of this country."

"I lay no claim to being a vigilant real property lawyer" said Mr. Justice Gwynne, "but directly I saw the paper I saw it was no abstract of title at all. It was a sham document. What is the value of a certificate of title? It is the value of that which, on investigation, it is supposed to prove. Mr. Gawler, whose duty it was to investigate this claim to title, and compare it with the deeds themselves, and so verify it, goes before the Master of this Court, and says, 'Oh, I never thought it necessary: I never investigated the matter at all; never looked into it.' If Mr. Gawler had performed his duty, and investigated the abstract of title, he would have found that the deed to Walker was in existence, and was actually lying only some 150 yards from where he was. And if he had inquired, as it was his duty to inquire, where was that deed, he would have found that it was in Mr. Lawrence's office. If he had only taken the trouble to perform his duty in respect of the great responsibility appertaining to his official position, and the salary attaching to that office, and gone to Mr. Lawrence, this deed would have been found; and he would have seen that M'Ellister had really no title whatever. But he did nothing; he voluntarily shut his eyes; he would not see the truth, and, therefore, he must be taken to have known all he would have known if he had done his duty and made investigation. This was the conduct of the solicitor to the Real Property Office. As to Mr. Torrens something might also be said. He might have known—but I shall say nothing. I may have an opinion myself, but it is not necessary to express it here. Not having looked into the deed at all, what does Mr. Gawler do? His duty was, on the receipt of M'Ellister's application, to examine into the title. The Act says:—'Upon the receipt of such application the Registrar-General shall cause the title of the applicant to be examined.' This was not done in the present case. I suppose the proper officer who should examine is the solicitor. It could not be taken to refer to the Commissioners, seeing that it is a special qualification that they should be ignorant of the law. The liability and responsibility would therefore be on Mr. Gawler. He was required to report upon the title of the applicant after examining it, and Mr. Gawler said it was a good title."

It is said that Judge Gwynne is a very lukewarm admirer of the Act, which all patriotic South Australians are supposed to regard as a sort of divinely dispensed boon to humanity in general; and there is little doubt that some of his strictures, on the hearing both of the appeal and of the suit before himself, might have been couched in milder language, or, indeed, suppressed wholly. His half-uttered reference to Sir Robert Torrens as being implicated in the general misconduct seems to refer to certain disclosures made by a solicitor of standing (Mr. Charles Fenn) in his evidence before the South Australian Royal Commission on the Real Property Act in 1861. At page 73 of the Report of that Commission it will be seen that Mr. Fenn gives this very case of M'Ellister's as an instance of injustice inflicted on persons with good titles in consequence of the registration of persons with weak or bad titles. These are Mr. Fenn's words:—"Mr. M'Ellister obtained a certificate of title without the production of any deeds showing a title in him, and I was told, when in Melbourne, and have been informed since, that the property belongs to a Mr. Guthrie, who has made a claim to it." Mr. Torrens (afterwards Sir Robert) was a prominent member of this Commission, and was present when this statement was made. Mr. Fenn, as it happened, was one of Smith's trustees, who sold to M'Ellister in 1859, and he, of course, knew all about the title referred to. At this point I must leave this very remarkable case. It is to be hoped that it is not one of a series, but rather one of those exceptional instances which at long intervals come upon us as grim reminders that human judgment, even its most elaborately organized form of officialism, is sadly liable to perturbation. The most sagacious and vigilant lawyers are sometimes at fault, and sometimes are guilty of blunders which, if brought to light, would inevitably cause their sudden descent from the pedestal of infallibility. It was most unfortunate for the reputation of the Adelaide Office of Titles that Mr. M'Ellister's recklessness in the statement of his title was equalled, if not excelled, by the official solicitor's remissness in its investigation. Still, it is better that the officials should be condemned as they have been than that the Public Revenue (through the Assurance Fund) should have been resorted to to condone official negligence or perverseness. And if those officers are themselves accustomed to taste "the uses of adversity," or magnanimous enough to subordinate their injured feelings to the public good, haply they may regard their "wigging" as of small moment compared with the invaluable lesson on the subject of equitable fraud, which all landed proprietors have been taught, at their expense. For us in this colony too, possibly this account of the "M'Ellister certificate" may not be without its moral. "CAVE."

THE CITY IMPROVEMENT BOARD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The City Building Surveyor in his report to the Mayor of Sydney, published in your issue of to-day, makes certain misstatements, which I desire with your permission to correct.

He states that the report of the recent proceedings of the City Improvement Board contained in the Herald, "is compiled by the Improvement Board Secretary evidently for publication, in which, however, errors occur, and is so constructed as to endeavour to place your officers in as uncomfortable a position as possible."

These assertions are totally incorrect. The report was not compiled by the Secretary, but was taken by a gentleman on the Herald staff from the official record of the proceedings kept in this office, and, although an abridged account, is substantially correct. It was not intended that the decisions of the Board, given in the last paragraph, should be published, as must be apparent from the remark copied from the official entry, "that the decisions be withheld for the present;" but that is a matter of no consequence, and the insinuation that it was done to prejudice the action of the City Council officers is beneath notice. Your reporter will bear me out in this statement.

I am sorry that Mr. Sapsford should find himself "in as uncomfortable position as possible;" and he is perfectly welcome to rush into print if he thinks it will allay his discomfort, only he must expect to be put right when he distorts the truth, and makes reckless and unfounded charges.

I do not propose to comment upon his individual opinion of the action of the Board, as expressed in his official report to the Mayor and Council, further than to state that the cases recently heard have shown the urgent necessity of the City Improvement Board.

The concluding paragraph of his report is beyond comment altogether. I have vainly endeavoured to discover its meaning:—

"I may mention that the anxiety displayed by the Improvement Board, in publishing their power and decrees before knowing whether they are legally constituted or not, appears rather premature, and calls for special remark, as the action evinces a desire to advertise the result of future appeals, and in doing so forms a precedent which, to be consistent, would constitute the basis of future decisions."

I have, &c.,
CHAS. H. BARLEE, Secretary.
Offices of the Board, 35, Castlereagh-street.

A NEW ISLAND.—It is reported from the Azores that a disturbance of the earth has occurred in the island of St. George, resulting in the formation of another small island of about 18,000 square yards, and distant 600 yards from the shore.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS.

EAST SYDNEY.

A preliminary meeting of friends and those interested in the candidature of Mr. I. J. Josephson as a representative for East Sydney at the forthcoming election, was held at the Oxford Hotel last night. There was a large attendance of supporters, and Dr. Harpur was unanimously voted to the chair. The chairman briefly introduced the candidate, saying he was no stranger to those present, and that all would recognise in him one who had always identified himself firmly with every good and charitable object. He had made enemies in his endeavours to do good, and was entitled to every consideration if only on account of his exertions in connection with the charitable institutions of the city. Mr. Josephson then gave an outline of his opinions on questions of prominent interest and importance. He believed in upholding the National Education system and the severance of Church and State. He was whole-heartedly a freetrader and determinedly opposed to protectionist theories or principles. Protection, in his opinion, meant the benefit of a few at the expense of the whole. He considered the matter of water supply one of the most important of the questions he had to deal with. The suffering that would ensue from a shortness in the supply of water was something awful to contemplate, and he considered that instead of expending £400,000 or £500,000 on a library, and other large amounts in otherwise beautifying the city, the money should be devoted to the immediate completion of the waterworks. Then again, the construction of the main trunk of railway lines through the country was a great desideratum, and he would struggle for the attainment of that object. In response to questions put to him, Mr. Josephson stated that it was his intention to inquire into the laws relating to contempt, with a view to the prevention in future of any gagging of the public press. He thought the Press should be perfectly free and untrammelled, as it was virtually the public. Judges should be open to censure, and their proceedings to discussion; they were salaried from public funds, and should be publicly criticised. He considered licensing should be an optional and local matter, and the Board to consist of residents in the neighbourhood of the applicant. He was adverse to the introduction of Chinese labour, and thought the present immigration system altogether wrong. He expressed himself in favour of the proposed expenditure on the tramways, and opposed to the payment of members. At the conclusion of his speech, which was exceedingly well received, those present formed themselves into a working committee having the object of securing Mr. Josephson's return; and with the customary votes of thanks, the meeting terminated.

Our Singleton correspondent telegraphs: "It is probable that the late member, who has done a good deal for this district, will be returned unopposed."

Our Wellington correspondent telegraphs:—"A large and influential requisition to stand for Wellington was presented yesterday to Mr. Edmund Barton, barrister-at-law. He expressed his gratification, and accepted the responsibility. I have since heard that Mr. Joseph Aarons, of Nanima, has intimated his intention to stand on the Denominational ticket."

We learn from our Coonamble correspondent that a public meeting is called for Monday of the electors of the Bogan, to request Mr. P. A. Jennings, C.M.G., to stand for the electorate at the next general election.

DEPUTATIONS.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS.

Yesterday, a deputation from the Municipal Council of Sydney, consisting of the Mayor (Mr. R. Fowler), Aldermen Dean, Lees, Kippax, Withers, Green, Meeks, and Carter, with Mr. D. H. Sapsford, the City Building Surveyor, waited on the Colonial Secretary at his office, to ask the Government to take steps for the opening up of Goulburn-street for traffic. They pointed out that the tramway in Oxford-street would very materially impede the traffic towards Surry Hills, and the only other available outlet in that direction was Goulburn-street. That street, however, was blocked by a piece of land held by private owners. They thought that, as the Government had taken Oxford-street for the tramway, they had a right to ask them to purchase this piece of land for the city, in order that communication might be maintained with so populous a portion of the city as Surry Hills.

Sir HENRY PARKES said he believed the construction of the tramway would increase the value of property by 50 per cent. He did not know that he could give any answer to the deputation, but he would mention the matter to his colleagues, and would inform the Mayor of what decision they arrived at.

The MAYOR said there was another thing he had to bring under the Colonial Secretary's notice. The City Improvement Board was in operation; but the Council held that it was not properly constituted, inasmuch as there was no medical officer.

Sir HENRY PARKES said there had been two medical officers appointed, but they had both resigned. The Government had appointed a third gentleman to that position—Dr. Dickson—who was now in office.

THE ABORIGINES.

A deputation, consisting of Messrs C. W. Carpenter, A. M'Beath, and E. G. Palmer, also waited on the Colonial Secretary yesterday, in connection with the Aborigines' Protection Society. The deputation explained that there at present two missions to the aborigines—one at Warangesda, on the Murrumbidgee, conducted by the Rev. J. B. Gribble; the other at Maloga, on the Murray, under the Rev. Mr. Matthews. At the latter place there were 15 aboriginal boys, 18 girls, 7 men, and 13 women, making a total of 53 persons. At Warangesda, Mr. Gribble had commenced the mission with 25 aborigines. The Government grant to the society was almost exhausted, and unless some addition was made to their funds they would not be able to carry on. They therefore came to ask the Government for £100 for each of the abovenamed missions. They further pointed out that there was a reserve of 36,000 acres near the station of Mr. Matthews, and they would be glad if the Government could see their way to set aside a portion of that reserve to be occupied in small farms by the blacks, to encourage them to settle down and cultivate the soil.

Sir HENRY PARKES promised the deputation that be would see what could be done to meet their wants in regard to the money grant, and that he would also see that their application for the use of the land should receive due consideration.

Several neatly executed specimens of the handwriting of the aboriginal were shown by the deputation, as evidence of the aptitude of the race for receiving instruction.

GOVERNMENT GAZETTE.

The following notifications appear in yesterday's Government Gazette:—

WARDEN'S COURT.—A proclamation declares that a Warden's Court shall be held at West Kempsey.

THE MELBOURNE EXHIBITION.—The following gentlemen have been appointed additional members of the Melbourne Exhibition Commission:—Messrs. R. L. Jenkins, J.P.; P. G. King, J.P.; C. Moore, Director of the Botanic Gardens; J. Pope, J.P.; E. P. Ramsay, Curator of the Australian Museum; and P. N. Trebeck, J.P.

ROYAL ASSENT.—The Royal assent has been given to the following Acts:—"An Act to supply certain sums out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of New South Wales towards the services of the year 1880. An Act to enable the present Collector of Customs (Mr. William Augustine Duncan) to retire upon a superannuation allowance. An Act to make more adequate provision for public education."

NEW PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—It is proposed to establish the undermentioned Provisional schools as Public ones, viz.: Bulli Mountain, Glenthorne, Mount Thorley, Mount Wills, Park, St. Joseph's and Sparke's Creek.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY EXPLOSION.—The Times of July 16 reports that on the morning of July 15 a colliery explosion occurred at the London and South Wales Colliery Company's pit, at Risca, about six miles from Newport, Monmouthshire. It is stated that there are 800 men employed at this pit, working in two shifts—one commencing at 6 a.m. and working until 2, the other commencing at 2 and working until 10. At 10 o'clock the second shift were brought up, and what may be called a repairing shift descended to attend to the falls, props, &c. At half-past 10 all was reported as safe by Allsop, the night foreman. At about half-past 1, however, the report of the explosion was heard, and the usual vibrations occurred, followed by a cloud of sulphurous smoke. The engine-driver was in the office at the mouth of the pit immediately before the explosion, but had left, and thus saved himself, as the explosion spent itself mainly at the up-cast shaft. The roof of the office was blown away and was greatly injured. This, however, was nothing to the great loss of life occasioned by the explosion. Altogether 120 lamps were taken down at 10 o'clock, when the shift went down. The pit and the ventilation were so broken down that it was 8 o'clock before anybody could descend the pit. Then the manager, accompanied by a number of sturdy colliers, descended, and found at the bottom of the shaft the hitcher's body. Further on other bodies were discovered, and it was evident that all the men who went down on that shift, numbering 119, were killed by the explosion and after-damp that followed. In fact, the hopes of saving any lives had to be abandoned. In the afternoon the bodies of the hitcher and three others were brought to bank. The scene at the mouth of the pit was very heart-rending—men, women, and children making inquiries and bemoaning their loss. The colliery is situated in the Sirhowy Valley, and the vein that was being worked was the highly gaseous black vein, and it is stated that as many as 1000 tons per day have of late been brought up. Messrs. Watts, Milburn, and Co. are the agents. Mr. Watts is the managing director of the company, and the coal is shipped at both Newport and Cardiff, and sent extensively by train. Last evening all hopes of saving life had been abandoned, and men were employed in clearing the roadways of the falls and propping the pits, so as to enable them to get at the bodies of the poor fellows who have perished.

MINERALOGICAL SPECIMENS AT THE MUSEUM.

III.

Then we come to Tourmaline, of which Rubellite is merely the red variety. It generally occurs in crystals, which may or may not be transparent, and which vary in colour through black, brown, blue, green, red, and white. Some crystals, indeed, present a patchwork or rainbow appearance, being green at one end and red at the other, or red inside and green outside. The tourmaline is a gem-stone, and, of course, those crystals which are most transparent are most prized by jewellers; but in Europe it is not in very great demand, and it is in Brazil, where bishops and other church dignitaries are extremely fond of wearing the tourmaline, that the finest cut gems are to be found. But the tourmaline, independently of its attractiveness as a gem, is interesting from its electric properties and its power of polarising light; and this latter quality is so marked, that the stone is cut in thin slices, and mounted in an instrument used to analyze the optical properties of other minerals. Next comes a specimen of spodumene, a mass of grayish-green crystals, which are interesting, because spodumene contains a proportion of that rare element lithia. Some little crystals of emerald are noticeable from the pure grass-green of their tint, but as in another paper we will treat fully of gems, we will here say no more of the emerald. Near the emeralds may be noticed a large pale-green crystal, another variety of the same gem, of a crystal which is one of the largest beryls in the world, and certainly the largest in this hemisphere. Its opacity—which is always a characteristic of these great crystals—renders it unfit for jewellery purposes; but it is interesting from its size. This great crystal is two feet long, and looks more like a great green sugar loaf than anything else. The blue-green beryls are known under the appropriate name of aquamarine, and at the Museum are several good aquamarines. Near these lie some zircones, other gems which will be referred to by-and-bye. Orangite is interesting as being a yellow variety of the rare mineral thorite, a mineral which contains the still rarer element, thoria. Then are seen natural and artificial crystals of titanium, the former looking like iron, and the latter resembling a mass of little copper needles mixed and wedged together. Close by is a bit of anatase, another form of titanic acid, and some titanite, a substance considered to be particularly good for making steel.

A specimen of iserine is interesting as being associated with green serpentine, a rather unusual combination. The mineral itself takes its name from the fact that it was first found near the source of the river Iser, in Silesia. Near the iserine is a piece of pale green sphene (titanate and silicate of lime) in which the crystals are unusually large and good. We next come to tantalum, so named because it was formerly frequently mistaken for other minerals, especially for uranium. The next is a specimen of tungsten or wolfram, often mistaken for tin stone, which, however, gives a gray streak while the tungsten gives one of a reddish brown hue. It is frequently associated with tin ores, and renders their separation very difficult. One of its uses is in the manufacture of tungstate of soda, which gives hardness to Plaster of Paris, is used as a mordant by dyers, and is also employed to make dress materials and stage scenery incombustible, and for hardening and tempering steel. A pitchy looking mass close by, uranium or pitchblende is used for making colours for Chinese painters. Zippeite is a yellowish substance of little interest to others than mineralogists. Of manganese there are many specimens. Pyrolusite, of which the specimens here are very fine, is one of its ores, and this, when acted upon by hydrochloric acid produces the chlorine so largely used in bleaching. Manganese is used in the manufacture of Bessemer steel, and is altogether a most valuable mineral. In this collection is shown a mass of crystals formed in an almond-shaped cavity in the same manner as agate is met with. Then there are good crystals of manganite, and some hausmannite. Carbonate of manganese shown, displays a pretty pink hue, which is however inferior in beauty to the lovely rose tint of its neighbour rhodonite, a substance largely used in the manufacture of elegant ornaments and for inlaid work. Next comes a group of arsenic specimens, which are all interesting. There is orpiment, a golden-yellow compound of arsenic and sulphur, which is used for making a bright yellow pigment; and realgar a red substance formed in the same way, but with a larger proportion of arsenic and sulphur than the orpiment yields. The colour of each specimen is very bright, and it is rather surprising that the realgar which contains least sulphur should be so much deeper in tint than the orpiment. Nature as seen in her laboratory is however, perpetually preparing surprises for us, and the primary colours of elements can never be taken as an indication of what their compounds will be like. Another compound of arsenic and sulphur with iron, rejoices in the name of mispickel, as if it were an untidy school-girl. It is known here as arsenical pyrites, and is generally associated with gold; while in other parts of the world it is chiefly found associated with other metals. It was formerly worked in Cornwall as an ore of arsenic, and much of the white arsenic then sold was procured in this way. This white arsenic, although a deadly poison when taken in large quantities, is habitually taken in small doses by the peasants of Styria, to improve their wind and prevent fatigue. It improves the complexion, and seems to exempt the users from some infectious diseases, but unless the arsenic eater gives up the dangerous practice gradually, he invariably at length dies suddenly. Bret Harte's amusing poem about "The Wonderful Spring of San Joaquin," is remarkably correct in its medical aspect. Antimony specimens adjoin those of arsenic, and its yellowish white appearance must be familiar to every one. This valuable mineral is found freely about the Clarence River, and generally in the New England district of this colony, and it also occurs in Victoria. Next are a couple of specimens of tellurium, a mineral used only in the preparation of chemical compounds. This comes from Transylvania, where half a century ago it was found rather abundantly, and was smelted for the sake of the gold it contained. Now it is very scarce, and the largest of the little lumps which lie in the Museum, is regarded as of unusual size, and cost £28—more than it would if it were a piece of gold. It is only about 2 inches across by 1½ inch broad, by an inch deep, and its weight is about 2 oz. Some bismuth specimens are interesting. Bismuth is largely used in the preparation of alloys and for baths for chemical work. Members of the dramatic profession often use a preparation of it, to impart a pearly tinge to a complexion, which would otherwise, in the glare of the footlights, look very leaden, but if its use be persevered in, the last stage of that complexion will be worse than the first. Native bismuth is worth about 15s. a pound. Of these specimens, some which show bismuth combined with other minerals come from New England and Tasmania. Tetradymite, for instance, contains sulphur and tellurium with the bismuth. From Transylvania comes a piece of nagyagite, a telluride of lead and gold, and a piece of sylvanite, a telluride of silver and gold, both of them very interesting to mineralogists.

BOROUGH COUNCILS.

CAMPERDOWN.—The usual fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on 3rd August. Present—the Mayor, and Aldermen Bennett, Donoghoe, Larkin, M'Grath, Sparkes, and Thomson. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Correspondence: Letter to Mr. Chisholm, conveying notice of the Council's intention to pay off the mortgage debt of which he holds the deed. Letter from Mr. Longford, requesting that the footpath and kerbing in front of his premises be repaired. Letter received, and request complied with. The Council went into committee to consider tenders for re-kerbing and guttering a portion of Australia-street. The following tenders were opened and read by the Mayor:—John Hickey, 11s. per yard, with three courses of gutter of 9 x 9; ditto, 9s. per yard, with two courses of gutter of 12 x 12; G. T. Montgomery, 12s. 3d. per yard; William Cox, 13s. 6d. per yard. Alderman Thompson moved,—"That the tender of Mr. Hickey, at 11s. per yard, be accepted." Seconded by Mr. Alderman Larkin, and carried. Alderman Sparkes strongly objected to any kerbing and guttering being done in front of Mr. Fowler's property without a written instead of a verbal promise of part payment from that gentleman. The motion was then put. For the motion: Aldermen Bennett, M'Grath, Donoghoe, Thomson, and Larkin. Against: Alderman Sparkes. A report from the Finance Committee, recommending payment of sundry accounts, was then submitted by the Mayor, and adopted on the motion of Alderman M'Grath, seconded by Alderman Sparkes, and carried. Alderman Thomson moved,—"That a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Hon. Sir John Robertson, Minister of Public Instruction, to urge our claim upon the Government for the erection of a new Public school in Camperdown. That the deputation consist of the Mayor, and Aldermen Bennett, Larkin, and M'Grath; and that the following gentlemen be requested to accompany them, viz., Mr. Robert Fowler, J.P., Mr. John Lucas, M.L.A., Mr. S. C. Brown, M.L.A., and Mr. W. J. Foster, M.L.C." Seconded by Alderman Bennett. The Mayor stated that he had himself already taken some action, with a view of bringing the matter under the notice of Sir John Robertson. The motion was then put, and carried unanimously. Alderman Thomson also moved, pursuant to notice,—"That a public lamp be erected in St. Mary-street, between Eton and Bishopgate streets." Seconded by Alderman Bennett, and carried.—W. PIDCOCK, Council-clerk.

WATERLOO.—The usual meeting of the council was held on August 20. The Mayor was absent through illness, and Alderman Torning took the chair: there were also present Aldermen Hogan, Marsden, Harrisky, Gray, Burt, and Evans. Minutes of preceding meeting were read and confirmed. The following correspondence was read:—Letter from Mr. Lamond, Bourke-street, asking that the approach to his premises from the recently made road may be done by the workmen of the Council, on his providing the stone. Letter received, and the request complied with. Letter from Mr. Lamond was also received with reference to the extension of loan, which was refused. From the Australian Gaslight Company, notifying that instructions had been given for the erection of two additional lamps in Waterloo-place and Buckland-street. From the Colonial Treasurer, notifying the deposit of £848 8s. special endowment to the borough for the past year. From Mr. Robert Coates, offering to cart the boulder metal from the railway at the usual rate, 1s. 6d., and letter to Mr. Dempsey for delivery of the same. Alderman Gray, for the Building Committee, asked that the Council would appoint a day in the ensuing week for a special meeting to receive the report. Thursday, at 3 p.m., was then appointed. The finance report was presented and adopted, and payment of accounts amounting to £417 authorized. Attention having been called to the intended Conference at the Town Hall, Sydney, on the 30th instant, and the likelihood of the Mayor being prevented from attending, it was moved by Alderman Burt and seconded by Alderman Marsden,—"That Alderman Hogan represent the Mayor and Council on that occasion." Carried. In view of the insufficiency of the vote for the work in the Botany Road by the northern boundary, it was moved by Alderman Evans, and seconded by Alderman Harrisky,—"That the foreman be instructed to get the work done at 3s. 3d. per yard." Carried. Applications for laying asphalte were granted to Messrs. Pople and Orr, of George-street.—CHARLES HARRIS, Council-clerk.

STOCK, STATION, AND PRODUCE REPORTS.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.—Stations: We have nothing to report, but note sale of station in Northern district. Fat Cattle: On Monday buyers were pretty well represented; but, owing to the price of beef selling at auction and abattoirs from 1¼d to 1½d, they were not disposed to operate at prices beyond these figures; and were it not for the buyers of the Sydney Meat Company's presence lower figures would have ruled, notwithstanding the short supply. On Thursday quality from fair to prime, the most noticeable being draft from Braidwood district, best pens of these making 17s 6d per 100 lb.; medium, 16s; and middling, 12s to 13s. The We sold 46 bullocks on account of Mr. P. H. Osborne at £4 12s, 84 cows at £3 4s; 10 cows, on account of Mr. R. Best, at £3 9 bullocks, for Mr. T. Lewis, at £3 8s 10d. Fat Sheep: 12,200 penned, with daily arrivals coastwise, and a fair supply of carcases, these being exceedingly prime, from the Orange Slaughtering Company's depot; a draft of these sheep sold by us, in conjunction with Messrs. Burke, Coulson, and Leeds, making top averages as under. We quote 60 lbs., 12s to 13s; 50 lbs., 10s; 44 lbs., 8s 6d; shorn wethers, 40 lbs., 6s 6d. Lambs sell readily from 8s 6d to 10s, medium; and 10s 6d to 12s for good. We sold 429 wethers for Mr. A. Mackay at 9s 2d to 10s 3d, 190 ditto from Maitland at 10s to 10s 3d, 577 ewes for Mr. A. Booth at 6s 6d, (culls)175 wethers ex steamer at 10s, 200 ditto from Maitland to 8s 7½d, 628 ditto from Orange at 13s, 1100 ditto (Mr. James Mosely) 9s 3d to 10s, 91 lambs ex steamer from 9s 6d to 10s 6d. Store Cattle: We notice no increase in inquiries, and very little business doing under this heading. Store Sheep: Shearing operations at present engage the attention of both buyer and seller.

GRIFFITHS AND WEAVER.—Stations: We have only heard of one small station on Liverpool Plains changing hands this week. Fat Cattle: 1356 head sold at Homebush. These with the usual number of carcases by train formed a full supply, and prices are down again fully 20s per head. Prime bullocks at £5 10s to £6; good ditto, £4 to £4 10s. Fat Sheep: 15,475 sheep forward. Market steady, and prices slightly better than last week. Prime 56-lb. wethers with good fleeces worth 12s 6d; 50-lb. ditto, 10s. One lot of extra prime heavy ewes made 10s; good ewes, 8s. Store Stock: We held a very successful sale at Singleton of Mr. G. L. Lethbridge's noted Bridgman sheep; stud rams selling up to £ 4, stud ewes to £21, selected ewes to £8, flock ewes to 13s, wethers 7s 6d, the total number disposed of being 4990 sheep. We have also sold, on account of Messrs. J. and A. Broad, 1200 store bullocks, delivered on their Currawildi station, Maranoa district, at £2 11s cash.—August 26.

BRUNKER AND WOLFE.—Stations: We sold the stations known as Therriboy, Billeend, and Vale of Sighs, Liverpool Plains district, with 10,493 sheep, 207 head of cattle, 2482 acres purchased and selected land, and sundries, for the sum of £8202 17s cash—Mr. Chas. E. Jaques, purchaser. Fat Cattle: 1400 head were forward for the week's supply. Best pens of bullocks made to £7 10s, good to £6 10s, and fair to £5 per head, or equal to 15s per 100 lbs. for best, and 12s 6d for other qualities. We sold 111 bullocks (W. Saunders) by road from Walgett at £4 6s to £6 4s, 57 cows at £3 5s to £5, 8 bullocks (J. Pearse) at £4 11s to £4 15s, 10 bullocks (C. Ivery) at £3 3s to £6 10s, and at Maitland 31 head (Joseph M'Alpin) bullocks £4 4s to £5 4s, cows £3 16s to £7, 30 bullocks (D. J. Graham) at £2 19s to £4 7s, 31 steers (R. Wyndham) to £4 1s, 36 bullocks (W. Pearse) at £4 5s to £5 15s, 53 cows at £2 17s to £5, 47 head (G. P. Hall) £3 7s 6d to £4 6s, and smaller lots at similar prices. Fat Sheep: About 15,000 forward for the week's supply; 64-lb. wethers made to 13s, 60-lb. wethers to 12s 6d. Sales were dull and prices easier. We sold 498 wethers (John Browne) at 9s 3d, at Maitland 798 sheep (George Loder) at 7s 3d; 160 ditto (Pialla-way station) at 9s, 135 ditto at 8s 9d, 60 ditto (Soles) at 7s 6d to 9s 3d. Fat Lambs and Calves: Prime lots being scarce sold readily at satisfactory prices. Best lambs made to 18s; ditto calves to 35s. We sold calves per steamer at 13s 3d, and lambs at 7s 3d to 9s 9d.—August 26.

SULLIVAN AND SIMPSON.—Stations: We cannot report any improvement in the demand for these investments, the dry weather preventing sales to any extent. However, as soon as we are blessed with a good downpour of rain, confidence will at once be restored, and no doubt several properties change hands. Fat Cattle: On Monday the market opened brisk and last week's rates were well maintained; but on Thursday prices slightly receded, and closed dull compared with Monday's rates. The attendance on both sale days was far from good, and this is to be accounted for by the fact that a large number of buyers who usually attend the yards now supply themselves at the dead meat market; but, as the warm weather sets in, this, to a great extent, will cease. We quote extra prime pens of bullocks worth £6 10s to £7; fair to good, £4 10s to £5; all others proportionately. We have this week sold 144 bullocks on account of Mr. Thomas Blunt, at an average of £5 13s 9d, all round. Fat Sheep: The number was rather over trade requirements. However, all were sold at fully last week's values, and the best lot of ewes that we have seen for some time past were from Warren Downs, which speaks well for the fattening qualities of that station. We quote—Best 60-lb merino wethers worth, by the flock, 12s to 12s 6d; best merino ewes, from 9s to 10s; all others proportionately. Our sales this week have been 2249 culled ewes on account of Mr. R. G. Higgins, at 10s all round. Store stock: Very few inquiries for this class of stock, and until we get rain buyers are not inclined to buy.

ROSS AND HIPGRAVE.—Stations: Many buyers for good sheep stations, but it is difficult to bring buyer and seller together as regards value before shearing. We have some extensive transactions pending for delivery after the clip has been taken off. Cattle stations are still stagnant. Fat Cattle: Full supply forward for the week. Prime made last week's rates, but inferior were lower. Quotations.—Prime bullocks, £7 10s; good, £6 10s. Market not firm. Fat Sheep: A full supply penned for the week, and prices unaltered. A lot of culled ewes from Warren Downs made 10s. Quotation.—Prime woolly wethers, 12s 6d to 13s. Store Cattle: Market still dormant, and likely to be until a general rainfall occurs. We have placed under offer a herd of mixed cattle. Store Sheep: Numerous buyers for delivery off the boards once rain falls. Quotations.—Wethers, from 5s to 7s 6d; ewes, from 4s 6d to 10s. Grain: We have quitted a large parcel of oats at 2s.—August 27.

W. INGLIS.—Fat Cattle: The supply this week was larger than in recent markets, and prices declined about 15s per head throughout. Best beef may now be quoted about 15s to 16s per 100 lbs. Sheep: The number forward was about sufficient for requirements, and very little change took place from last week's prices. Milch Cows: I had again a very large number in at my yards to-day, and though most of them were sold, low prices had to be submitted to. I sold 58, from £1 7s 6d to £9 15s. Calves: A fair number to hand, but mostly of middling and poor quality, for which the sale is very dull; on good ones there is no decline in prices. I sold 18 (Macintosh), 11s 6d to 19s 6d. 15 (Macarthur), 8s 6d to 23s 6d, and 74 others from 3s 6d to 26s 6d. Lambs: Good are very scarce, and hardly any coming in; extreme prices would be obtained for them. Pigs: A moderate supply to hand, and prices fully equal to those in last report. I sold 194 from 9s 6d to 46s.—August 26.

PITT, SON, AND BADGERY.—Stations: There is no very active demand, and anything to command attention must be well situated, and good country, then the larger the easier sold. Fat Cattle: About 1360 forward this week, and prices on Monday were brisk. On Thursday there was a fall of more than 10s a head. Our sales have been over 900 head, and as follows:—208 bullocks (Munro's), at £4 5s; 195 (Johnstone's) at £4 10s; 7 workers (Hassall, Roberts, and Royd's) at £7 7s 6d; 10 bullocks at £8 9s, by far the highest prices of the week; also 67 (Rankon's) at £2 15s 6d; 20 cows (John's) at £2 8s 6d; 25 bullocks (Vickery's) at £4 13s 10d; 47 (Roberts') at £3 18s 5d 16 cows at £2 12s 2d; 20 (Hillas and Pearce's) at £3 17s; 101 cows (Smith's) at £3 8s 6d; 20 (Holt's) at £4 3s 6d, 16 cows at £3 4s; 48 (Morrice's) at £2 9s; 37 (Dunn's) at £2 14s, and sundries. Fat Sheep: A full supply has been forward, and prices closed better than at the outset on Monday. We have sold—2000 (Swift's) at 12s 6d, 2300 (Doyle's) at 9s 8d to 10s 6d. Fat Calves: A full supply forward, and only best sold well. We quitted 40 inferior at an average of 18s 6d. Fat Lambs: Market quite as good as last week. We sold—34 at 12s 10d to 18s, 124 at 10s 2d, 99 inferior at 5s 9d to 6s 9d. Store Cattle: Fair demand, we sold 4000 this week; in one lot. Store Sheep: Still a good demand. We have sold over 20,000, and are treating for others.—August 27.

MAIDEN, HILL, AND CLARK.—Fat Cattle: On Monday there was but fair attendance of the trade. Prime pens were in demand at values slightly in excess of late quotations, whilst medium and inferior were neglected. On Thursday prices opened very dull, more especially on medium descriptions. A few prime pens brought as high as 17s 6d per 100 lbs.; others from 12s to 16s, according to quality. We have sold—At Orange, 123 head, on account of Messrs. J. and W. Watkins, Gilgalman, at £4 4s 6d. Fat Sheep: On Monday the trade had all supplies on hand and were not very eager to operate, and prices were hardly so good as of late. On Thursday 9069 were penned, comprising some very prime lots, notably part of a draft from Duck Creek and estimated to weigh fully 60 lbs. Prices for prime were a shade firmer whilst others remain unaltered; 56-lb. wethers are worth 12s 6d, 50 lbs. 10s 6d, others in proportion. Wool: At the sales held this week the offerings were very small, consisting principally of scoured parcels. One or two lines of the new clip in grease were offered, and sold well. Quotations are—Greasy, 8d to 11½d; scoured, 13d to 20d per lb. Sheepskins: Market very firm; all offered brought extreme rates, realising up to 7¾d for full woolled, free, and light. We cleared a large catalogue at for pelts, 2d to 3d; short growth, 4d to 5½d; full woolled, 6d to 7¾d per lb. Tallow: Good competition was manifest at to-day's sales; but prices on the whole showed a fall on last week's rates. We sold every line on our catalogue at from £25 to £28 5s per ton. Hides: Market barely supplied this week, and as competition by both tanners and shippers was good, prices advanced about ⅛d upon heavy weights, while light and medium weights ruled easier; prime horsehides sold well; calfskins and yearlings remain firm; kangarooskins in good demand. We cleared our catalogue at—for heavies, 3¾d to 4⅛d; medium weights, 3⅜d to 4d; light and dry, 3¼d to 4⅛d per lb.; kangarooskins, 7s to 36s per dozen; calf, 1s to 3s 6d; yearlings, 4s to 7s each. Leather: Market remains unaltered, except for harness descriptions, which are scarce. At our sale on Tuesday the following prices were obtained:—Kip, 13d to 16d; sole, 8d to 11d; calf, 20d to 26d; yearling, 20d to 24d; harness, 11d to 12d per lb.; bag, 10s 6d to 12s; bridle, 11s to 13s per side; bazils, 7s to 12s 6d per dozen. Hair, firm. Quotations—Horse tail, 13d to 15d; mane, 8d to 10d; mixed, 11d to 12d; cow, 5d to 10d per lb. Horns and Bones remained low, except for really prime lots, which commanded good attention, other descriptions neglected. Quotations are—Horns, 10s to 30s per 100; bones, £4 to £10 per ton. Beeswax: Quotations are from 9d to 11d per lb., according to quality.—August 27.

P. H. TREBECK.—Stations: The dry weather has checked station business considerably, and some capitalists are inclined to wait until we get a general rainfall before they invest. The Thevlebry station, Liverpool Plains, with 10,000 sheep, was sold by auction at a fair price, and the Medway Station privately. I have had two stations under offer, but sales are not completed. I have no change to report in the demand for cattle properties. Store Cattle: There are a few inquiries, but buyers will yet only take well bred stock at low rates. I note the sale of a lot of bullocks at 51s per head. Store Sheep: I have had inquiries for good breeding ewes for stocking Western Queensland country, and have some lots under negotiations. Prices range from 6s to 10s for fairly bred sheep after shearing; wethers for forward delivery, 5s 6d to 6s. Fat Cattle: The supply this week consisted of mixed quality, only a few yards were prime, and these maintained last week's rates, but the prices gave way for medium and inferior lots. The best beef brought 15s to 15s 6d per 100 lbs.; medium, from 10s to 12s per 100 lbs. Fat Sheep: All fair quality penned this week. The market was without alteration, and last week's rates were realized. 60-lb. wethers, in full fleece, brought 12s 6d to 13s; lighter weights, from 8s 6d to 10s 4d; ewes, 8s to 8s 6d.—August 27.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, MINCHIN, AND LAVENDER.—Fat Cattle: Best descriptions made fully last week's rates, but inferior cattle were somewhat lower. Fat Calves: 170 calves, which sold at an advance on last week's rates. Quotations—Best made £1 10s to £2, others in proportion. Fat Sheep: On Monday the market was without animation; but to-day (Thursday), although we cannot report much actual improvement, still business was active. Quotations—Extra prime heavy fleeced wethers, 12s 6d to 13s; good wethers, 10s to 11s; medium, 8s 6d to 8s 9d. We sold 2330 wethers from Nive Downs, and 2100 wethers for Mr. F. W. Ricketson, Combogolong, at full market currencies. Fat Lambs: 450 forward for the week's supply, including one lot of Exhibition lambs. The market was the same as last week. Quotations—Prime lambs, 9s to 10s 6d; extra prime higher rates. Store Cattle: No alteration to note in this market, which still shows signs of improvement. We have some transactions pending, but no sales to report this week. Store Sheep: The continued dry weather to a great extent checks operations. We have numerous buyers, and a good fall of rain would cause much activity. We have this week sold 7000 young ewes for Messrs. M'Farland, Brothers, Barrooga, for delivery off the shears; 2400 wethers in the wool for Messrs. Macguire and Co., Goorianawah; and, in conjunction with Messrs. Brown and Garnsey, 25,000 ewes, for delivery after shearing, for Mr. James Richmond, Haddon Rig. Stations: Well-improved, moderately stocked properties are in fair demand, and stations of this description will find buyers if not too highly priced.—August 26.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.—Wool: The news to hand this week of the progress of the London August sales is of a more satisfactory nature, the competition being reported as good, and attendance of both English and foreign buyers large. The sales held here this week comprised 213 bales, of which 150 were sold, the range throughout the sales being—Fleece, none sold; greasy, 7½d to 11½d; scoured, 13½d to 19½d. The new clip is now beginning to come forward. Sheepskins: These were again offered in large quantities. Biddings were very brisk, and prices ruled fully ¼d to ½d per lb. higher than last sales, best bringing from 6½d to 7½d; medium, 5½d to 6d; pelts and short-woolled, 2½d to 4d. Our catalogue was a very heavy one, including 84 lots, all of which we sold at above prices. Tallow: 483 casks offered, 463 sold. The market remains at about last week's prices, although English news is scarcely so favourable. Quotations—Best mutton, £28 10s to £29 10s; best beef, £27 to £28 2s 6d; mixed and station, £23 to £26. We sold 207 casks. Hides: 5417 offered, 4806 sold. These were again in better request, but no advance can be noted; the market remains firm and competition brisk. Quotations—Extra heavy, 3¾d to 4¼d; heavy, 3⅝d to 3¾d; medium, 3½d to 3⅝d; light and station, 3¼d to 4½d. Our sales were 2463. Leather: The demand this week showed very little improvement on last sales, biddings not being very spirited for any lots, excepting sole, which still maintains late prices, consequent upon shippers being in the market. Quotations—Sole, extra heavy, 10d to 12d; heavy, 8½d to 9½d; medium, 8d to 8½d; kip, best, 15½d to 17d; medium, 10d to 15d; yearling, 21d to 23d; harness, 10½d to 13d; bridle, 10s to 12s; calf, 21d to 24d; cow tweed, 18d to 21d. Tin: The market for this in England has been slightly on the decline since our last, latest quotations being £89 10s. Ore remains at late quotations. Grain: Market for all descriptions is very quiet, and only a limited business is reported.—August 27.

MORT AND CO.—Wool: The quantity brought forward this week was again very limited, and, with slight exception, not of an attractive description. The demand was active, and nearly every line offered was placed at good values. We sold one small parcel of the new clip, consisting of 11 bales in grease at 11½d; and a few lots of scoured skinwood, only in average condition at 14½d to 18½d. No lots of fleece were available. Sheepskins were in full supply, and very brisk demand. We cleared a large catalogue at following values:—Medium to full-fleeced 6d to 7½d; short growth, 4d to 5d; and pelts, 2½d to 3⅝d per lb. Hides: There was an average supply for to-day's sales, and an improved demand for well cured parcels, heavies being most in request. We sold as follows:—Medium, 3¾d to 4¼d; heavies, 3¾d to 4¼d; and light and dry, 4¼d to 4½d per lb. Horsehides are scarce, and good lines would sell well. Quotations—Good to best, 5s to 7s 6d.; small, 3s to 4s each. Hair: Horse, tail is in request at 14d to 15d; mane, 9d to 11d; mixed, 8d to 13d per lb. Horns: Good sizes sell at 18s to 24s, but small and medium are difficult to place, except at low figures. Shank bones, in sound clean condition, can readily be disposed of at 7s 6d to 9s; inferior, 3s to 5s 6d per cwt. Tallow: To-day's sales passed off well at about last week's prices, competition being especially active for good shipping parcels. Beef realized £27 10s to £28 5s; mixed, £25 10s to £26 5s. Of mutton, no good lines were offered. Leather was in moderate supply for last Tuesday's sales, and prices rather firmer for good lines. Quotations—Sole, 7½d to 11d; kip, 13d to 16d; calf, 18d to 24d; tweed, 18d to 24d; harness, 9d to 13d per lb.; bag, 9s to 11s; basils, 6s to 12s per dozen. Tobacco Leaf: Well cured lots are in demand at from 7½d to 9d; medium, 5d to 6d; inferior conditioned is difficult of sale. Kangarooskins in good condition, for large sizes, are worth from 18s to 30s, and medium, 10s to 15s per dozen.—August 27.

F. L. BARKER.—Wool: Since our last report the news from London of the wool sales seems to be more satisfactory, as the market is reported firmer, competition increasing, and greasy is said to have advanced a farthing per lb. At the sales to-day the catalogues, which were comprised of scoured wools and odd lots of greasy, were cleared at full rates. Quotations are as follows:—Scoured, superior, 18d to 20d; medium, 15d to 17½d; thirds, 10d to 14d; greasy, 3d to 11d. Sheepskins: At to-day's sales the high prices reported in my last have been fully maintained, and all offered were cleared at the following prices:—Best, 7d to 7½d; medium, 5½d to 6½d; pelts and short growth, 3½d to 5d. Leather: A fair business was done this week, and prices remain about the same as last reported. Sole, harness, kangaroo, and bridle are rather scarce, and prices must harden should the supply for next sales be not very heavy. Kip is very dull, and has fallen about ½d per lb. Quotations—Sole, 8½d to 9½d for light; kip, 13d to 15d; tweed, 16d to 22d; calf, 19d to 24d; kangaroo, 2s to 3s 9d; harness, 12d to 13d for brown; black, 13d to 14d per lb.; bridle, 12s to 12s 6d; bag, 10s to 12s 6d per side; basils, shoe, 7s 6d; saddlers', 12s 6d per dozen. Hides: The supply on Friday last was not equal to the demand, and prices advanced from ⅛d to ¼d on all descriptions. Quotations may be given thus—Heavies, 3½d to 4¼d; medium, 3½d to 3⅞d; light, dry, 4d to 5d per lb. Tallow was much dearer at last sales, and one parcel realized £28 10s per ton. I do not expect it will be so firm next sales, as last telegrams from London report a fall of 10s per ton, and as freights are dearer, a fall similar to that in London may be expected. I would quote—Beef, best, £27 10s to £28 10s; medium, £26 to £27 10s; station, £24 to £26. Hair, horns and bones, and beeswax are selling readily at very good prices. Kangarooskins are still very dear, and all forward sell ready. Opossum and bear, too, fetch from 4s to 6s. Tin Ore: Last quotation from London for tin, £90.—August 26.

HORSE MARKET.

W. INGLIS AND CO.—A languid market. Most persons fearful of buying until we have rain. Very few really good horses to hand. In stud horses the sales effected are limited. We offered some fine stallions on Tuesday last, comprising thoroughbred coaching and draught horses. Amongst the draught stock we submitted two magnificent horses imported from Glasgow—Dumbarton Jock and Springfield Laddie. The first horse was passed in at 200 guineas; but the second found a purchaser at the very low figure of 175 guineas. Sales in cart horses limited, the highest price we obtained being £28 5s. We do not alter our quotations from last week. Sales effected in express waggons from £25 to £35; spring carts, £12 to £15; second-hand buggies, £10 to £30; dogcart, £21.—August 26.

T. COSGROVE.—The market has been fairly supplied with fresh country horses the past week, the competition for which was good. Heavy draught and good upstanding light harness horses were most inquired for. Horses of a weedy description are very dull of sale. Milking cows, which have been selling well for some time past, are now almost a drug in the market. A good number passed through the bazaar at prices ranging from £2 10s to £5 5s. A large number of weeds and town screws sold at prices ranging from 5s to £8. A number of vehicles were submitted, and changed hands at fair figures.—August 26.

Custom-House.—Entered Outwards, August 27: Chimborazo (s.), 2443 tons, Captain Trench, for London, via Melbourne and Adelaide; Hero (s.), 931 tons, Captain Logan, for Wellington and Auckland; Rodondo (s.), 715 tons, Captain J. R. Clarke, for Melbourne, via Newcastle.

The following passengers are booked per the P. and O. S. N. Co.'s Malwa (s.), which leaves to-day at 4 p.m., for Southampton and Galle, via Melbourne:—Southampton: Mr. W. A. K. Wyllie, Mrs. A. B. Cox, Misses Cox (3). Galle: Governor Olry, aide-de-camp, and two servants. King George's Sound: Mr. G. Cummings. Melbourne: Mr. and Mrs. B. Kittenberg, infant, and female servant, Messrs. E. M. Young, J. J. Morrow, J. C. White, and Brooks.

The passage of the Government immigrant ship Peterborough is an exceptionally speedy one, notwithstanding that paltry and foul winds prevailed where good trades were expected. An unusual amount of sickness in the form of measles has existed on board. The first case broke out 13 days after leaving, and up to the present time 46 cases have occurred, none of which, however, appear to have terminated fatally. The malady is said to be of a mild type, and the twelve to fourteen cases now existing are shortly expected to be convalescent. Dr. Alleyne, on visiting the ship yesterday morning, had the patients removed to the quarantine houses, and as there was a small-pox patient on board the Faraway he gave instructions for the removal of the Peterborough from Spring Cove to Watson's Bay. The removal was effected by the tug Mystery in the afternoon. Three deaths have taken place during the voyage, two of of which were children, and the other a single girl named Julia Connochton. None of the deaths were, however, occasioned by contagious diseases. One birth took place. The immigrants comprise 395, equal to 346 statute adults. There are 32 married couples, 111 single men, 131 single women, and 90 children under 12 years of age. The trades of the 135 males on board consist of 95 farm labourers, and the remaining 36 are distributed among twenty-four trades. The passengers have been under the care of Dr. Booth, who has been here three times with immigrants in this ship. Miss Kent is in charge of the single girls. Those on board appear in the best of spirits and are apparently contented with the voyage, the ship, and those in whose care they have been entrusted. Captain Gardiner informs us that the ship sailed from Plymouth, June 10; experienced no N.E. trades, hence the passage to the equator was prolonged to July 9; crossed in longitude 23 west, had very bad S.E. trades, with a considerable downfall of rain; passed the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope on July 27 in latitude 41 south; ran the easting down in 42½ south, with heavy westerly weather, and a very low barometer; made the longitude of Cape Leuwin on August 16, where the weather improved, and the ship did some exceedingly good travelling; passed Cape Otway on August 21 at 5.30 a.m.; proceeded through Bass's Straits, and, when off Cape Howe, fell in with N.E. winds, and the wind continued adverse up to the day of arrival. The only damage done during the bad weather was off the Leuwin, when a heavy squall, which only lasted ten minutes, carried away the lower mizen-topsail yard, the sail being reefed at the time. Made the passage from Plymouth to Sydney in 77 days.

The career of the Hero (s.) in the trade between Melbourne, Sydney, and Auckland, has been interrupted for the past two months, as the ship has been laid up for a thorough overhaul and refit, including the fitting of new boilers. The boat's sphere of operations is to be extended to Wellington, and passengers can be booked through to other New Zealand ports. The Hero has recommenced her running, and she arrived yesterday, still under the command of her very popular commander, Mr. T. Logan, who has completed 100 successful round voyages in the New Zealand trade; and the ship looks so exceedingly smart that she is, apparently, destined to have a long and lively career in the trade in which she has certainly become a favoured vessel. Messrs. Grice and Sumner, the owners, have gone to a considerable outlay in giving the ship new boilers and surface condensers, which will conduce to an increased speed and a reduction in the consumption of fuel of some eight tons per day. The boilers are from D. Foreman and Co.'s works, on the Yarra, and were tested at an hydraulic pressure of 60 lbs. to the inch. The passage round from Melbourne has, however, been a long one, owing to the priming of the boilers. This defect, however, is certain to cure itself with a little more working. Captain Logan reports that the ship left the Railway Pier, Melbourne, on August 24, at noon, and passed through the Heads at 5 p.m. with a fresh breeze from N.N.E. and a high confused sea, which continued up to the 26th, at 6 a.m., when a strong gale set in from S.S.E., with heavy rain and head sea. The gale abated, but the sea continued, as the ship came north to Sydney. Entered Sydney Heads on August 27th, at 3.30 a.m. The Hero sails for Wellington to-day.

The third voyage of the Orient steamer John Elder to Australia terminated yesterday evening. On this occasion the ship comes under the command of Captain C. B. Groves, who has taken the place of Captain Cooper, appointed to the Potosi; and on this, his first introduction to the Australian trade, he has evidently gained the good opinion of his passengers, judging from the cordial expressions of regard contained in an address which was presented to him towards the close of the voyage. The address appears in this day's paper. The voyage has been successful, and is the quickest the ship has made as far as Melbourne, viz., 42 days—that is inclusive of detentions at St. Vincent and other parts en route. During the passage from the Cape to Adelaide every day's run was over 300 miles, and the best was 342. The average speed from Plymouth to St. Vincent was a trifle over 13 knots, but from thence to the Cape it fell to 12¼, while after leaving the Cape it increased to 13¾ knots, and the average rate extending over the voyage ending at Melbourne was 13½ knots. The steamer brought out a large cargo, of which 400 packages were landed at Adelaide, about 2500 at Melbourne, including a great number of exhibits for the Exhibition, and also silver specie to the value of £30,000. The bulk of the cargo is for Sydney, including silver coin to the value of £20,000 for the Deputy Master of the Mint. On 16th August, at ten minutes to 5 a.m., when in latitude 43·03 S., longitude 113·47 E., when in a hard gale, a seaman named John Bryan fell overboard, and though every exertion was made to recover him it was without success. Of the passage, the John Elder's journal on this occasion shows that the steamer left Plymouth on 10th July, and arrived at St. Vincent on the 17th, at 5 p.m. Having taken in coal, a start was made on the following day at a quarter to 3 p.m. Table Bay was reached at twenty minutes past 7 a.m. on 1st August, and the usual provisions and some 700 tons of coal taken on board. Sailed on the 2nd August, at a quarter to 3 p.m. Adelaide was reached on the 20th instant, at twenty-two minutes past 8 a.m., and after the discharge of passengers and cargo left for Hobson's Bay at seventeen minutes past 3 on the same day, passing Cape Otway at twenty minutes to 11 p.m. on Saturday; had fine weather and light winds, but from the Cape to Adelaide heavy gales and high following seas throughout; from South Australia to Hobson's Bay strong S.W. winds with terrific squalls and high seas to Cape Bridgewater, and thence to the Otway high southerly wind and fine weather prevailed. The steamer, as on previous occasions, is spoken of as behaving admirably. The ship arrived in Hobson's Bay on August 22nd, at 8 a.m., and left on the 25th, at 12.30 p.m., passed through the Heads at 4.20 p.m., and arrived at Sydney on the 27th, at 4.54 p.m. When off Wilson's Promontary the ship had some thick and dirty weather, and was delayed for eight hours. We are indebted to Mr. St. George, the purser, for the delivery of our London files of newspapers.

The City of Adelaide (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5.30 p.m. August 25th; entered Port Jackson Heads at 3 p.m. on the 27th. Experienced strong southerly winds and squally weather to Cape Howe, moderate S.W. winds, with fine weather, till arrival.

The R.M.S. Kaisar-i-Hind left Albany for Galle at midnight on August 26.

The P. and O. Co.'s Bangalore (s.) passed Gabo Island, bound north, at 4.45 p.m. yesterday.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Copy of Testimonial presented to G. B. Groves, Esq., commander of the s.s. John Elder, on the voyage from London to Sydney, August, 1880:—

"As a reminiscence of this your first voyage to the Australian colonies, it affords us peculiar satisfaction to thus congratulate you and your officers on a speedy and successful passage.

"We have the greatest pleasure also in thanking you personally for your uniform courtesy and attention, which has in no small degree contributed to relieve the monotony of a long sea voyage.

"We hope and trust that your connection with the colonies thus auspiciously begun may so continue, and tend to bind in closer harmony the 'old countrie' and the 'new,' to the profit of yourself, your wife, and family, and the company under whose flag you sail.

"We have the honour to subscribe ourselves

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Friday Evening.

The Stock and Share market was somewhat quiet today; there was scarcely any change in prices and few transactions. Bank shares were steady: City had buyers at 11½, sellers at 11¾; Commercial, fully paid, offered at 106—no sellers of new issue; Joint Stock salable at 15½, held for 15¾; Mercantile for sale at 6, buyers at 2s. 6d. less; New South Wales wanted at 55, offered at 55½; New Zealand inquired for at 21, sellers at 21¼,—those on the New Zealand register advanced 2s. 6d. sales at 21½; Queensland National could be bought at 7¾; Union were dealt in at 63¼, and offered at 65. In Steam the only purchase was North Shore Ferry at 16s. 6d., buyers at 16s., sellers at 17s.; Australasian salable at 17⅛, held for 17¾; buyers of Clarence and Richmond at 3¾, holders quoted 4½—preferential had buyers at 12½, sellers at 13½; Hunter River wanted at 6½, offered at 7½; no sellers of Illawarra. Insurance shares continue firm: New South Wales advanced to 76s., sales; for Accident 10d. was the best offer, 1s. 1d. would have been accepted; Australian Fire still scarce; City for sale at 1s. 4d., wanted at 1s. 1d.; Mercantile at 1s. 7d. buyers, 1s. 9d. asked; Pacific in demand at 63s. 6d., held for 66s.; Sydney Fire in request at 74s., offered at 77s.; Sydney Marine had sellers at 38s.; United salable at 43s., none obtainable below 46s. No change in the value of Australian Gaslight, fully paid wanted at 14, offered at 14½. Sydney Exchange inquired for at 9, and Pyrmont Bridge at 6. Shale and Oil had buyers at 10s. 6d., sellers at 11s. Volunteer land orders held for 100. Coal shares as before: Bulli salable at 10¼, and 11¾ asked; no demand for Wallsend, sellers at 14½; for Waratah 7¾ was offered, 8¾ wanted; buyers of Vale of Clwydd at 14s. 6d., sellers 15s. Great Cobar Copper receded a little more, sales at 73s., sellers at 73s. 6d., buyers at 71s. Gold shares steady: 4s. 6d. asked for Krohmann's; 3s. refused for Star of Peace, sellers at 4s. 3d.; Band and Albion wanted at 5¼, offered at 5⅞; buyers of Hustler's pups at 5s., sellers at 6s. No sellers of debentures; quotations nominal.

The Import markets have been quiet to-day, with a limited inquiry for trade supplies. The breadstuffs market was weak, and present appearances would indicate no advance here, if not lower prices. Chambers' Brothers' London circular just to hand speaks of good crops in England and the north of France, with a dull tone in the home markets. Australian wheat selling at 49s. 6d., and New Zealand at 48s., both ex ship. The colonial arrivals have been:—Shipment ex Taranaki sold at 49s. 9d.; Syringa, at 48s. 9d., for Havre; Leonard, at 48s. 6d.; Adamantine, at 49s. 3d., for Dunkirk; Harmodius, at 50s. 6d., for La Rochelle; West Riding, at 48s., for Dublin; Craigowl, at 51s., for Westport; Lochinvar, at 50s., for Bordeaux; Antares, at 49s. 6d., for Rouen; Alice Platt, Magne, Inchmarnock, and Columbus, ordered direct to Havre; Elizabeth Graham, to Dunkirk; Sophia, ordered off to Cherbourg, Annie Precht to Dieppe, and Light of the Age to Rouen. The India and Kerchalon are now awaiting orders. Since, the Hereford had been sold at 48s. 6d. for Antwerp; Candida at 50s. 6d. for Calais; Honour at 51s. 3d. for Granville; Glengarry at 50s. 9d, for Bordeaux; Warkworth Castle at 51s. 3d. for Cardiff; Wandering Chief at 51s. for Sunderland; Pleiades at 19s. for Dunkirk; Kaffir Chief ordered to Dublin, and Kishon to Rouen. Teas are moving off more freely in trade lots than they have done for years past, and, so far as importers are concerned, there is no reason to regret the apathy evinced by the trade to buy at the opening auction sales. 11-lb. woolpacks are scarce, and inquired for. The downward tendency in salt seems to have been checked by the correction Messrs. Stables, Straker and Co., have notified to their subscribers, and the smallest month's shipments advised for some time. Castor oil has been offered on Melbourne account at a slight decline. From Calcutta, under date 26th ultimo, we learn that the market there was quiet, and that in jute goods the only demand was for cornsacks, at from 27 to 28·8 rupees, f. o. b. on the spot, 28 to 28·8 for forward delivery. Woolpacks offering at 1s. 10½d. f.o.b., or 2s. 1d. to land in Australia. Messrs. Scott and Co., writing from Mauritius under date July 15 says that the weather had been favourable to the sugar crop, the rainfall having been ample and steady; and, where practicable, planters actively engaged in planting operations, necessitating the cutting of some canes on most estates, in order to obtain "heads." Cane crushing will be general after the 1st of August, and there would not be any quantity available for shipment before the middle of this month. Salt beef firm at from 52 to 58 rupees. Australian tallow nominal, at 25 to 26 rupees. The market was almost bare of coal, and Australian were worth 27 to 28 rupees from alongside. Exchange on Australia 20 per cent. for sixty days' sight; on London, 1s. 7 9-16d. per rupee, or 22⅛ per cent. premium. The daily sales of produce held this morning were fairly supplied. The attendance of buyers was also good, and everything sold well. Best trucks of oaten hay brought from 6s. 2d. to 6s. 11d.; medium, from 5s. 2d. to 5s. 10d.; inferior, from 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. Wheaten brought 4s. 2d. for a sample scarcely up to medium. Lucerne was in request, though there was nothing specially tempting in the qualities offered. Prices ranged from 4s. 9d. to 6s. 1d. There was a good demand for straw, prime bundled lots going off freely at 3s.; inferior and baled qualities brought from 2s. 5d. to 2s. 10d. Chaff sold at from 4s. 1d to 4s. 11d. Potatoes brought from 2s. 4d. to 4s. 1d. per cwt. At the wharfs lucerne hay is scarce, last night's arrivals being very scant; green is quoted at £7 10s., holders of extra prime lots asking £8. First-class qualities of brown hay realize from £6 10s. to £7; other samples, from £4 10s. to £5 10s. There is no change in potatoes; the wharfs are glutted with heavy importations, and the trade is slow at late values. The maize market is unaltered. Business is still reported as dull at from 2s. to 2s. 1d. per bushel. Onions are selling at from £3 10s. to £4 per ton. Best butter is firm at 1s. Fowls are worth 3s. 6d. per couple; ducks, 4s. 6d.; geese, from 6s. to 7s.; cock turkeys, 10s.; hens, 5s. Eggs have improved since last quotation, and sales were rather brisk this morning at 9d. Bacon is dull at from 3d. to 5d. Hams are worth from 7d. to 9d. Pigs, alive, are in demand at from 3d. to 4d. per lb. Marketable calves are worth from 15s. to 25s. each. Cheese is selling at from 3d. to 8d. per lb. Honey is worth from 2d. to 3½d.; beeswax, from 7d. to 9d.; lard, from 3½d. to 4d. Tobacco leaf is bringing from 6d. to 8d.; manufactured, about 1s. 8d. per lb. Millet brooms are worth from 9s. to 11s. per dozen.

The produce sales held by Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Mr. Barker, Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark, Mr. Bridge, and Messrs. Mort and Co. were well attended, and almost the whole of the catalogues were cleared at satisfactory prices. Heavy hides were about an eighth dearer, light weights not so salable; and although home advices have not been so favourable as regards tallow, late rates were sustained, both for shipping and trade lots. Yearlings sold at 2s. to 6s 6d.; calfskins at 8d. to 8s. 10d.; kangaroo, 4d. to 2s. 7d.; wallaby, 1½d. to 5d.; goat, 3d. to 1s. 3d.; pig, 2s. 10d.; horse hides, 4s. to 7s.

CUTICURA

SKIN REMEDIES CURE SKIN DISEASES AND SCALP AFFECTIONS WITH LOSS OF HAIR.

The CUTICURA REMEDIES are marvels of curative power. Internally, the CUTICURA RESOLVENT cleanses the Liver and Kidneys, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, enriches and purifies the Blood of Scrofula, Scrofulous, Cancerous, and Canker Humour. Externally, CUTICURA, a Medicinal Jelly, removes all Scaly Crusts, heals Humours, Ulcers, Sores, Itching, Piles, and all Itching Affections of the Skin and Scalp with Loss of Hair, and is admirably assisted in every case by that most softening, healing, and exquisitely perfumed toilet, bath, and nursery sanative, the CUTICURA MEDICINAL TOILET SOAP. Gentlemen say the CUTICURA MEDICINAL SHAVING SOAP is worth its weight in gold.

PSORIASIS.

NINETEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING AND HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS FOR MEDICINE.

Messrs. WEEKS and POTTER.—Gentlemen,—I have been afflicted for 19 years with Psoriasis, and have spent hundreds of dollars for doctors and stuff they call blood purifiers. Doctors did not know what to call my disease. I would scratch nights until I scratched myself raw; then it would dry and form into scales, which would all be scratched off next night, and so on. I have been completely cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Most respectfully,
THOMAS DELANEY.

Concord-street, Custom Mill,
Memphis, Tenn., June 16, 1879.

RINGWORM HUMOUR OF SIX YEARS' DURATION CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Messrs. Weeks and Potter.—Sirs,—I have had a ringworm humour, got at the barber's, for six years, which spread all over my ears, face, and neck, and which itched and irritated me a great deal. I have used many remedies by advice of physician without benefit. Your CUTICURA REMEDIES have entirely cured me, taking every bit of humour off my face, and leaving it as smooth as a dollar. I thank you again for the help it has been to me.

GEO. W. BROWN, Mason.

SALT RHEUM

FOR NINE YEARS SPEEDILY CURED WITH THE CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Messrs. WEEKS and POTTER. Gentlemen,—I have been troubled for nine years with Salt Rheum, and have tried every patent medicine (I think) known to the trade; have also been attended by physicians, but with no more than temporary relief. As I had tried everything it was no more than fair that I should try yours, which were astonishingly effective, completely curing me. It is two months since I quit using the medicine, and I am satisfied I am permanently cured. Gratitude alone prompts me to tender you my testimonial.—Most truly yours,

GEO. F. OWEN,
Dealer in Pianos and Organs.

Grand Rapids, Mich., October, 1879.

"CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC."

We have seen an invoice of six Silver Watches sold to a Mr. BARKER by a Sydney firm, and invoiced as "SILVER WALTHAM WATCHES." We take this opportunity of informing the public that the watches in question, which have engraved on the dome "Sydney International Exhibition, 1879," and on the plate "The Waltham," are not our manufacture, but fraudulent imitations, and are intended to injure the reputation of the "GENUINE WALTHAM," and to deceive the public. The superiority of Waltham Watches, in all grades, is now so generally acknowledged, that our competitors seem to have no resource but to palm off worthless imitations of the genuine watch. In order that the public may not be deceived, we subjoin herewith the names of a few of the principal watchmakers in Sydney, who have kindly consented to show to the public these BASE IMITATIONS, and who also keep constantly on hand a full assortment of our GENUINE WATCHES:—

SUMMARY OF NEWS FOR EUROPE.

The summary of news for transmission to India and England, per R. M. S. Malwa, will be published in the Herald of Tuesday, August 31. Orders for extra copies should be sent in on Monday.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1880.

Preliminary to any determination of the revenue questions which will take the first place in the debates of the next Parliament, there should be a careful consideration of the sources from which the present revenue of the colony is derived, and of the relation of those sources to the various items of which the public expenditure consists. The doctrine that each subject of the State should contribute to the public exchequer in proportion to his ability to pay does not fairly represent the principle of equitable taxation, nor can it, in the very nature of things. A man's ability to pay may consist of his available means after his expenditure has been met; or it may include his power of retrenchment of expenditure as well. There is no "hard and fast line" by which the State can determine either what a man ought to expend below the minimum of taxation, or in what proportion above that minimum his means should be assessed. GOLDSMITH'S model clergyman was "passing rich on forty pounds a year." The poorest Irish incumbent of the present day would be a pauper on such an allowance, and the humblest Australian labourer would reject such wages with scorn.

The true rule of taxation is that every member of the commonwealth should contribute to the needs of the State, so far as able, in proportion to the benefits he receives from the State. If he is unable to do that, he claims the protection of society in forma pauperis, and society is rich enough in the present day to interpret that plea by very liberal rules. Every enlightened community leaves the absolute necessaries and some of the common luxuries or comforts of life untaxed altogether. But what are these necessaries? Bread, water, the light and heat of the sun, the pure air of heaven, and space enough for their enjoyment. New South Wales has no tax upon bread; no tax upon the pure rain of heaven, though she may tax the process of bringing it to your door; no tax upon the light and heat of the sun, not even upon the conserved solar energy of former ages, which is now transformed into the rich coalfields that underlie so vast an area of the colony. In regard to space, she has nearly a square mile of territory for every two people within her borders, of which six-sevenths remain still unalienated; nor even upon the one-seventh converted into private property has she any tax. To the poor man few countries in the world are so free, and there is not one where taxation presses so lightly upon the means of subsistence.

The bulk of our taxes is derived from the Custom House, and they are exclusively taxes upon expenditure, not upon income, and taxes upon voluntary rather than necessary expenditure. How far this is right may be another question, because different men may have different ideas of what is necessary expenditure, whereas the plea in forma pauperis ought to be referred to a definite standard, when it is used in bar of the demand of the public tax-gatherer. But we need not now attempt any scientific definition of the limits of that plea, if only for the reason that taxation in this colony does not come near them. In another column we have given exactly the sources of our Customs revenue for last year, in comparison with the Customs revenue of Victoria, and its proportion to population in the two colonies. In neither colony can taxation be said to be severe, not even compared with England, where the average rate of wages rules much lower than in either New South Wales or Victoria. For some of the principal functions of Government, the necessary cost is much higher in both colonies than in the United Kingdom, for the simple reason that population is so sparse; and for the same reason it is higher in New South Wales than in Victoria. But the expenditure does not press upon the means of the people in anything like the degree prevailing in older countries, mainly because we have had no expensive wars for purposes of defence or ambition, and have no consequent war-debt to burden our resources. Our public debts are nearly all covered by public works largely remunerative already, and capable of being made absolutely self-supporting under a good administration. What a mere bagatelle our financial difficulties are compared with those of older and poorer countries! The less excuse will there be for our financiers, if they should be foolish enough to burden the colony with bad and iniquitous taxes to be an incubus upon its progress for many generations.

The particulars of the Customs revenue of New South Wales and Victoria given opposite are worth comparing. What may be called alcoholic luxuries yield New South Wales a Customs revenue equal to 16s. 8½d. per head of her people and Victoria only 11s. 8½d. per head. The breakfast table, including sugar, tea, coffee, chocolate, and cocoa yields New South Wales 4s. 7½d. per head, and Victoria 4s. 4½d. per head. Our narcotic friends contribute to the Customs revenue an amount equal to 2s. 7½d. per head of our entire population against only 1s. 11½d. in Victoria. Under the head of ad valorem, New South Wales has nothing, but Victoria collected at the rate of 0s. 2½d. per head, or £276,698 on goods valued at £1,635,861, which gives an average ad valorem rate of 17 per cent. All local Victorian produce would necessarily conform to that increase of price, and the local consumers had to pay probably four times as much as the revenue received. Who got that million sterling? Not the wage-getters, for the price of labour was no higher in the protected than in the free industries of Victoria, and lower in both than in free trade New South Wales. It went into the pockets of a few manufacturers, who were employing in premature industries capital which would have brought to them a much better return if invested in the free industries of Victoria. If the people of New South Wales should be persuaded to follow such an example, in the face of such results, they will be the blindest colonists in all the British Empire.

Altogether, Victoria got last year from her duties of Customs a revenue equal to £1 12s. 4d. per head of her population. The free trade tariff of New South Wales yielded a revenue equal to £1 12s. 2d. per head, or within the small fraction of twopence per head of that received in the model protectionist colony. As between the rival doctrines of free trade and protection, these facts should be very conclusive. In regard to a general system of taxation they have another application. They prove to demonstration how inequitable our present system is, tested by the rule of payment in proportion to the benefit received limited by the subject's means of paying, because our existing taxation falls indiscriminately almost entirely upon personal consumption.

It appears that there will be no lack of candidates at the general election. The supply seems likely to be stimulated by the demand. If we had only a score of members to elect, the general impression would be that they would have to be choice men as well as chosen; and many good people whose eagerness to serve their country could not be questioned would find it tempered and restrained by the fear of failure in appealing to the electors. But now that one hundred and eight members have to be elected, who can say that he has not as good a chance as his neighbour? The present Assembly has not yet been dissolved, it is uncertain when the general election will take place, and yet there is already a list of probable candidates considerably exceeding the number of members to be elected.

Amongst the candidates who are mentioned for the metropolitan electorates, it will be seen that there is a strong infusion of the municipal element. For many years it was the distinction of the electors of Sydney that they had a habit of electing men of colonial rather than local repute, and of seeking to be represented by leading statesmen rather than by adroit promoters of local interests. At the last general election, however, there were symptoms of a change, and one of the most marked results of the contest was the strong representation of municipal interests. It will be an occasion not so much for surprise as for regret if similar results should distinguish the election which is to come. It is difficult to see how this is to be prevented, unless electors who prefer to see a higher standard fixed are forewarned, and are sufficiently interested to forearm themselves. General elections are comparatively few and far between, but municipal elections are of frequent occurrence; and it can hardly be doubted that men who acquire skill in manipulating the latter gain the command of special advantages in working the machinery by which the former are determined. Municipal electioneering gives those who are well versed in it, to a large extent, possession of the field of battle upon which Parliamentary electioneering contests have to be fought; and if the Aldermen of Sydney should seriously resolve to make the representation of municipal interests their great aim at the next election, they will have a very good chance of being able to carry their ideas into execution by sending a batch of Aldermen into Parliament.

In his late speech at Ashfield, Sir HENRY PARKES announced the intention of the Ministry to introduce measures for carrying out municipal government on a more extensive scale than hitherto. To take this step will be to move in the right direction. The country requires a policy of de-centralization and local self-help before the public expenditure can be regulated on principles of economy, and the political atmosphere can be purged of localism. But the extension of municipal government will defeat these aims and be a source of much evil, as well as some good, to the country if the effect should be to place the control of Parliamentary elections in municipal hands, and cause the representation of corporations rather than of constituencies. Under such conditions the Parliamentary standard would be lowered instead of raised, and localism, instead of being expelled from politics, would dominate them.

It has often been said that local self-government educates the people and prepares them for the better discharge of their higher political duties. We admit that it does so when it developes a spirit of self-reliance, and teaches men to see how marked a distinction there is between the functions of a municipal councillor and those of a member of the Legislature; but when it encourages the belief that training in a Municipal Council qualifies a man for a seat in Parliament, when it creates an organization which subjects Parliamentary elections to municipal influences, and when it sends into Parliament municipal delegates to press municipal demands upon the public Treasury, and to deal with national interests on no broader principles than those which are learned in transacting the business of a Borough Council, it may then be said "Deliver us from the perils of such preparatory teaching."

Ireland seems fated always to have a grievance, and always to have some of her own sons the greatest enemies to its redress. If any statesman ever deserved well of a country Mr. GLADSTONE has deserved well of Ireland. He has repeatedly risked the loss of office in her service, as well as the loss of some of the most valued friendships of his life—a loss which he would feel still more keenly. To him, more than to any living man, she owes the Act which secured for her religious equality, and the Act which ameliorated the worst of her agrarian laws. But her gratitude is, indeed, nothing else than "a pleasing sense of favours to come," and her demands are ever rising with the occasion. The new Tenancy Bill has been rejected by the Lords, in opposition to the policy of the Liberals of England. Instantly Ireland is ablaze with agitation, and the language of the demagogues borders on sedition. That seditious language is now endorsed by prominent Home Rulers in the House of Commons. Such proceedings are not likely to further the cause of reform. They will alienate instead of winning, and they will tend to make Mr. GLADSTONE'S task harder than ever. Whether the House of Lords as at present constituted will ever accept such a measure as the Irish Tenancy Bill is, of course, at present doubtful. It involves principles which, if sanctioned, cannot be confined to Ireland, but will be equally demanded in England and Scotland. If, however, the same Bill is sent up again, and public opinion is clearly shown to be favourable to it, the Lords might yield. But breaking the law is not the way to get it reformed. The right way of agitating is to educate public opinion by lawful means until the minority grows into the majority, whose will, eventually, must be obeyed. There are many signs that public opinion on the land question in England is in a state of transition. It is very generally felt that the soil out of which all have to live is in too few hands, and that tenants who actually cultivate have not sufficient security for their improvements. But the law must not undermine its own authority by destroying the rights of property. Whatever legislation is sought, every man's possessions must be strictly guarded from invasion. Nor is there any need for revolutionary measures in order to cure some of the worst agrarian evils. Abolish the law of primogeniture and entail, and let the law of inheritance be conformable to the law of nature, which does not make a favourite of the first-born and an outcast of all the rest, and one principal cause of the undue aggregation of land would cease to exist. Whether such a measure would cure the discontent of Ireland is another thing. Nothing less than spoliation would suit some of the agitators, and with them a tenant's right would be a landlord's wrong. Nor would the fruits of spoliation suit such men long. They want a grievance to trade upon, and a grievance they are determined to have, let England do what she will. The proper answer for the Imperial Parliament to make is to remove every just cause of complaint, heedless of seditious agitators, and let nothing turn it aside from the path of just and beneficent legislation. If the Irish Tenancy Bill can stand the test of sound argument, it will come to light again, and the Upper Chamber will yield in the end. Meanwhile the Irish agitators are making it as difficult as they possibly can for Mr. GLADSTONE to abstain from coercive measures. He wants to, if they will let him; but it looks as if they would not.

In the year 1847, an African free and independent State was ushered into existence among the community of nations as the Republic of Liberia. Its model was to be the United States of America, and its aim was to demonstrate the capacity of a coloured race for self-government and free institutions. Since then it has had eight Presidents, and an indefinite number of Ministries; but it has not yet fulfilled the anticipations of its philanthropic founders, nor obtained a sure footing among independent nationalities. The capital of the State—Monrovia—is estimated to contain 13,000 inhabitants, and the whole territory of about 60,000 square miles not more than three-quarters of a million people, all of the negro race. Its revenue amounts to £12,000 a year, its annual expenditure to £17,000, and consequently it has what is termed a national debt of £100,000, floated at 7 per cent., redeemable in fifteen years, but on which no interest has yet been paid, and of which no redemption is expected. This is the Republic whose flag is floated by that strange ship reported to our PREMIER by the Government of Bombay as having passed the island of Aden. An expedition flying such a flag renders itself suspicious on the face of it. Liberia is not a colonising colony, and has no marine for expeditions to these seas. We have no means of knowing whether the Government of Liberia is a party to this use of its flag. But, in any case, the flag is a sham, and all that is done under its cover should be closely watched. The presumption is that this vessel is another contribution to the abortive scheme of Polynesian colonisation, the disasters of which have already been narrated. Enough has been disclosed to show that the leaders of this scheme, if they are bona-fide in their professed intentions, are profoundly ignorant of the art of colonisation. Ill designed and ill executed, misery and misfortune are sure to follow the project. What the Australian colonies have to consider is whether crime may not follow on folly. A number of men set adrift on a hopeless expedition may become troublesome to their neighbours. It is not desirable that we should have in the South Seas a settlement, under no national control, and for which no country is responsible, but filled with men animated by a spirit of adventure and embittered by disappointment.

The success which has attended the establishment of coffee palaces in Sydney should serve as a strong encouragement for fresh applications of the same principle. Proof has been afforded that the hitherto prevailing custom of resorting for refreshment to places where intoxicating liquors are sold has not been due to any special attraction exercised by the convenience of obtaining liquors. There is even room for believing, in view of the great custom attained by the coffee palaces, that there exists a positive preference for establishments where the temptation to acquire habits of drinking are absent. It is not easy to gauge the amount of positive good effected by the opening of these attractive temperance restaurants. Their influence must be rather preventive than reformatory. The scale and style of their operations restricts their benefits chiefly to a class in which habits of inebriety are rare. Any member of that class who contracts such habits rapidly drops out of it and gravitates to a lower social position. There remains, consequently, a wide field for further application of the principle upon which coffee palaces are founded. The coffee tavern should prove, although not a more convenient, a more valuable institution. Comfort, and some degree of convenience, were not unattainable by the middle classes before the coffee palace was instituted, in the same degree to which they are difficult to be obtained by the labouring orders. The latter require to be ministered to, and while the task before those who have entered upon it is scarcely likely to be so free from difficulty, it will be more serviceable in a reformatory and preventive sense. The working man is the great patron and supporter of the public-house, and the coffee tavern will come into a direct antagonism with the evil influences of those places, which the coffee palace never did to the same extent. There will, perhaps, be less margin for profit, and certainly more adverse influences to overcome, but the work will be a worthy one; and, although many among its promoters would doubtless be content with a reward not temporal, the remarkable commercial success of the more expensive institutions encourages an expectation that the smaller ones will be fairly self-supporting.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

ANOTHER aspect to the military situation at Candahar is given by the cable messages we publish this morning. Four or five days ago we were informed that Generals Primrose and Burrows, becoming tired of the apparent inactivity of Ayoub Khan, determined to make a sortie upon the enemy. This resolve was carried into effect by a carefully chosen force, under General Primrose, with, as at first reported, very satisfactory results. A large number of the besiegers were killed or wounded, whilst the losses of the British troops were said to be insignificant, the resistance of the Afghans to the attacking party not being very great. A day or two later we received a message, stating that the engagement was of a much more serious character than was at first telegraphed; that the losses sustained by the British were very heavy, the killed and wounded including no less than fourteen officers. It now appears that this was not the whole of the truth, for further particulars of the sortie, which we now publish, are to the effect that General Primrose's picked force, on leaving the citadel by the east side, found the enemy occupying positions of great strength; upon the attack being made upon those positions Ayoub dispatched strong reinforcements, whereupon the British, "declining to push their advantage, retired in perfect order on the city," with the losses already reported. One of our messages, dispatched subsequent to the sortie by General Primrose, stated that Ayoub was vigorously prosecuting the siege; that he had been shelling the city with considerable effect, and that his artillery had been directing a heavy fire against the ramparts of the place, which had suffered severely. These actions would probably be followed by an assault upon the citadel; but if this were not made before the arrival of General Roberts from Cabul, the critical position of the garrison would be greatly relieved. Ayoub, however, dispatched a force to intercept General Roberts' march; besides which the rebel chief Mahomed Hassim was, with a considerable force, hovering about General Roberts' flank, and would probably at the first opportunity (which would present itself when Ayoub's intercepting column met the British troops) make a descent upon his forces. General Phayre, who was advancing upon Candahar from the south, has had his progress delayed by want of transport. It will thus be seen that the position of the garrison at Candahar is a very serious one, and one that occasions some anxiety for its safety. Indeed, from the latest despatches, the Afghan situation generally wears a very gloomy aspect, the hostility to the British being more widely spread than was hitherto suspected. The troops of the Khan of Khelat are said to have mutinied, and a number of British troops have been sent to his assistance. The Standard publishes a telegram to the effect that many of Abdul Rahman's troops have thrown off their allegiance to him in favour of the ex-Ameer, but this news requires confirmation.

THERE appears to be still reason to believe that coercive steps will have to be taken by the European Powers to compel Turkey to accede to the determinations of the Berlin Conferences. The Sultan has not yet answered the latest note presented to him on behalf of the Powers, and every expedient, it is said, is being resorted to by the Porte to evade the conditions imposed upon it. In view of the attitude thus assumed, communications between the various European Governments have been renewed on the subject of making a combined naval demonstration against Turkey, and it is understood that such a step is being seriously considered. If determined upon, it is probable that Admiral Horuby, of the British Squadron in the Mediterranean, will be appointed to the command of the combined fleet. That somewhat notorious actress, Sarah Bernhardt, has been producing a little discord between Denmark and Germany. At a banquet in her honour at Copenhagen, the German Minister toasted France. Sarah Bernhardt, in reply, expressed a hope that the toast included Alsace and Lorraine. This caused some confusion, which was subsequently increased when a member of the French Legation referred to the former intimate relations between France and Denmark. The chairman left the chair; and the German Minister, whose toast gave rise to the untoward proceedings, has, at the suggestion of his Government, obtained leave of absence.

LAST night, Mr. Proctor's interesting lecture upon the "Star Depths, or the Glories of the Heavens," was delivered to a crowded house at the School of Arts, and was perhaps even more successful than his previous lectures. It will be repeated this evening, when Mr. Proctor will make his last appearance before a Sydney audience. Those who have not yet heard him should certainly not lose this opportunity. The peculiar charm of Mr. Proctor's lectures is the art which he possesses of making science interesting to the masses, a faculty which it would be well if more of our scientific notabilities were endowed with.

YESTERDAY the Hawkesbury Spring Meeting was brought to a successful termination. The weather was all that could have been desired, the attendance numerous, and the racing of a very high class, though, taken right through, the favourites did not justify the confidence reposed in them. A full report of the proceedings will be found in another column.

IN the Supreme Court, yesterday, the Full Court, consisting of their Honors the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Faucett, and Sir William Manning, affirmed the convictions in each of the cases—the Queen v. Hill and Tighe, the Queen v. Davis, tried before Mr. District Court Judge Dowling, Chairman of Quarter Sessions at Darlinghurst. In ex parte Welch, the rule nisi for a writ of mandamus was made absolute, without costs. In Beyers v. Mulholland, the reference to arbitration was amended so as to give the arbitrators power over the costs of the reference and award. Mr. Justice Windeyer disposed of a number of matters at common law in the Public Chamber.

THE immigrant ship Peterborough brings 396 souls, being equal to 346 statute adults, comprising 32 married couples, 111 single men and 131 single women, and 90 children under 12 years of age. The trades of the 135 males consist of 99 farm-labourers, and the remaining 36 are distributed among 24 trades. There have been 46 cases of measles during the voyage, and 12 to 14 persons are still ill. These Dr. Alleyne has ordered to be removed from the ship to the quarantine houses, and as there is a small-pox case on the quarantine hulk, the Peterborough was removed to Watson's Bay yesterday afternoon. Three deaths have taken place on board, but none of them from infectious causes. There has been also one birth.

YESTERDAY, the weather throughout the whole day was delightfully fine and bracing, and a cool and refreshing breeze which prevailed during the afternoon rendered it very pleasant for those who had occasion to be out of doors. The rain, however, which is so much wanted, still keeps off, and from present appearances there are no indications of any immediate change in the unseasonably dry weather which we have experienced of late.

THE following are the names of the passengers who embarked in the ship Hydaspes, and the account of whose foundering by collision reached us by telegram about the 20th of June. No lives were lost. Saloon: Mr. Boden, Mr. R. E. Haslam, George Watson, Elizabeth Watson, Ernest Watson, Augustus Watson, Vivian Watson, Violet Watson, Osward Watson, Reginald Watson, Vera Watson, Hugh Gardiner, Sarah Rountree, Dr. C. F. Eichler, D. M. Logan, Mrs. Logan, Kate M. Logan, Frank O. Logan, Gordon L. Logan, Stuart M. Logan, Maggie M. Logan, Margaret Dickson, Henry Stuart Beaumont, G. F. Armitage, J. R. Richardson, Mrs. Richardson, Hartley Wyke, Mrs. Evelyn Wyke, Mary E. Ovenden, Florence C. Ovenden, Walter Beyfus, and Anton Buckholz. Second cabin: Frank Bagnald, G. Atkin, and T. H. Thrift. Third cabin: Miss Elizabeth Mills, Mrs. D. Cunningham, Alexander M. Forbes, Charles Curry, Alina Curry, and John Trindgill.

AMONGST those who matriculated at the last University examinations was one of the teachers of the Department of Education, Mr. Peter O'Reilly. We are glad to see this, and if his example be followed by any considerable numbers, it will give a firmer status to the public teaching profession, and thus increase the confidence of the public in our schools.

A PUBLIC meeting in connection with the League for the Encouragement of Colonial Industries was held yesterday evening, at the City Hall, Castlereagh-street. There was a fair attendance; Mr. Ewington in the chair. Mr. W. Crispin moved the first resolution, as follows:—"That this meeting approves of the principles of the League for the Encouragement of Colonial Industries, and pledges itself not to support any candidate who is not in favour of the same." The resolution was seconded by Mr. Josiah Mason, and carried unanimously. The next resolution, moved by Mr. G. M'Lean, was as follows:—"That this meeting deprecates the action of the Supreme Court in issuing a writ of attachment against the Editors of the Evening News for their strictures on the summing up of Mr. Justice Windeyer in the case of Moy Mow against the Editors of the Daily Telegraph, recently tried in the Supreme Court, as it considers the liberty of the Press and the freedom of the people are thereby endangered." He pointed out that as the matter was still sub judice, this meeting would be only a preliminary one; but he thought the Judges would make a great mistake if they fined or imprisoned the Editors of the Evening News. The resolution was seconded by Mr. Connor. Mr. B. Mountcastle moved an amendment as follows:—"In consideration of the League being formed for the encouragement of colonial industries, it is quite out of place to entertain matter foreign to its object." Mr. Luscombe seconded the amendment. A debate ensued in which Messrs. Mason, Clappett, Clarke, Phelps, Patterson, Taylor spoke in support of the original resolution. Mr. B. Mountcastle then withdrew the amendment, whereupon the resolution was carried with only two dissentients. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.

A MEETING of the picnic committee of the Master Butchers' Association was held on Wednesday evening. The president of the society, Mr. Alderman Playfair, occupied the chair. The annual festival takes place on the 8th of September—an innovation upon previous celebrations, which generally occurred in the colder months of the year; but, in deference to a pretty freely expressed desire, the committee felt justified in making the alteration.

A YOUNG man named Charles Sherwood, 17 years of age, and residing at No. 1, Lyons Road, Camperdown, was taken to the Infirmary yesterday by Jacob Wilks, suffering from a severe compound dislocation of his right wrist, and also fracture of the ulna. It appears that he was engaged yesterday morning at his usual occupation at the Annandale brickworks, and, while oiling a spindle beneath the bricks, his right-hand coat-sleeve caught in the cogwheels of some of the machinery, and drew his hand in also, crushing it in a dreadful manner before the machinery could be stopped. Dr. Marshall, who attended Sherwood on his admission, will do all he can to save the hand; but at present there is not much hope of avoiding amputation.

THE following is the report of the Benevolent Asylum for the week ending August 24, 1880:—Admitted, 5 women and 2 children; births, 6; deaths, nil; discharged, 13 women and 9 children; remaining in the asylum, 87 women and 166 children. Provisions distributed: 951 loaves bread, 136 lbs. beef, 859 lbs. flour, and small quantities of oatmeal, sago, and sugar. Cases reported by the inspector, 6. Total number relieved, 233.

AN institution was formally opened a few weeks ago in Fitzroy-square, London (says the Sydney Mail), the want of which had long been felt and its usefulness advocated—a Home Hospital for Paying Patients. Many persons have an objection to become inmates of a public hospital, and would rather submit to the limited attendance and inconveniences of their own homes or lodgings than seek medical aid with those who receive it and its adjunct of nursing free, or partially free, in eleemosynary institutions, but who, at the same time, are willing to pay a remunerative fee for the ministrations of the doctor and the nurse, if a suitable establishment were provided, to be occupied under such conditions only. A hospital of this kind offers great advantages; its operations are necessarily cheaper and better than those of ordinary home treatment. In the first place good medical advice can be obtained at a nominal fee compared with what would have to be paid for the separate visits of a doctor to a private house, and the attendance would be of that professional character that could only be obtained by persons of considerable means outside. Those patients, however, who will reap the most advantage from such an institution as the one opened in Fitzroy-square are sufferers whose ailments require careful diagnosis, and an equally careful attention to the instructions of the medical man; it is in the latter direction that failure is so frequent in home nursing or attendance. The poor and the working classes are well provided for in the matter of hospitals, and the rich can afford to pay; but persons of limited means and refined habits, or of habits and tastes somewhat different from those of the usual indoor patients of a free hospital, have no place set apart for them, even by payment, and so must get what they can secure in the shape of medical advice, and so forth, as best they can, to the extent only of their means; and, again, if people of moderate incomes are overtaken by illness, it is in many cases impossible for them to find the required quiet and isolation in their own dwellings. In discussing the special benefits to lodgers of the institution referred to, a writer observes: "The victim of sickness is sorely imposed upon, expenses are materially increased by the extortions of lodging-house-keepers, and the unpleasant reflection of the deeply-rooted dislike in such people to sickness and the terror of death taking place in their houses." All these annoyances are avoided by residence in a Home Hospital for Paying Patients.

THE Beechworth correspondent of the Argus reports that on Tuesday information came to hand of a robbery under arms which was committed on Mrs. Hester, the wife of a splitter, who was stuck up on the Chiltern Road, about 10 miles from Beechworth, by a young man, who presented a revolver at her head. He was riding a bay horse, and Mrs. Hester had, under threats of being shot, to give up all the money she had in her possession as well as her husband's gun. The robber, having apparently satisfied himself that there was no more to be gained, rode off into the bush, the direction he took being that of Chiltern.

IT is supposed that a dreadful crime has been committed on the Bundarra Road, a few miles from Inverell. A man named Nolan came into the latter township, and reported to the police that a selector named Patrick Mullally had been accidentally burned to death. Sub-inspector Harrison proceeded to the spot, and, from certain suspicious surroundings, he caused an inquest to be held on Saturday before Mr. Coroner Fraser, the result of which conclusively proved that a terrible deed had been enacted. The skull bore the marks of having been brutally hacked by some sharp instrument. As poor Mullally had only disposed of his selection a few days before, it is more than likely robbery was the preliminary to this foul deed. The police have their suspicion on a certain party.

THE advertisement in yesterday's Herald addressed to the members of the Mercantile Rowing Club, referring to Mr. Lockrey, we are requested to say, was not inserted by authority of any officer of the club.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

(BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.)

OUR SPECIAL TELEGRAM.

(FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.)

SCENE AT A BANQUET.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

At a banquet given at Copenhagen to Sarah Bernhardt, the well-known actress, the German Minister proposed the toast of France, and Sarah Bernhardt, in replying, said she hoped the toast included Alsace and Lorraine. Great confusion ensued, the Danes cheering the sentiment. M. Theimter, of the French Legation, then descanted on the former intimate relations between France and Denmark. Renewed confusion thereupon ensued, and the chairman left the chair. The German Government have directed their Minister to take leave of absence.

MR. GLADSTONE.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

Mr. Gladstone at the last moment, acting upon medical advice, has resolved not to go to Madeira, but leaves to-day on a week's cruise off the British coast.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

TURKEY AND THE GREAT POWERS.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

Up to the present time no answer has been given by the Porte to the latest note of the Great Powers, and every expedient is still being resorted to by the Turkish Government to evade the conditions imposed by the Powers.

In view of this attitude of the Porte, communications have recently been renewed on the subject of making a combined naval demonstration against Turkey, and it is understood that this step is now being taken into serious consideration.

It is probable that, in the event of this plan being adopted, the command of the combined fleet will be conferred upon Admiral Horuby, of the British squadron in the Mediterranean.

LATER.

Another collective note, embodying the resolution of the Great Powers, declining to reopen the Greek frontier question, was to-day presented to the Sultan. The note, however, expresses the willingness of the Powers to negotiate for a date to be definitely fixed for the evacuation of Greek territory.

THE SORTIE FROM CANDAHAR.

SIMLA, Aug. 26.

Further particulars were received to-day of the sortie made by the British under General Primrose at Candahar last week. From these it appears that the troops left the city by the east side only. They, however, found that the enemy had occupied positions of great strength, and upon an attack being made on these Ayoub Khan dispatched strong reinforcements. The British, upon the arrival of the latter, did not endeavour to push their advantage, and finally retired in perfect order on the city.

DISQUIETING NEWS FROM QUETTA.

BOMBAY, Aug. 26.

The latest intelligence from Quetta is of a disquieting character, and tends to show that the hostility towards the British name is more widely spread than has hitherto been suspected. It is stated, though not officially, that the troops of the Khan of Khelat, who ceded Quetta to the Indian Government three or four years ago, and who has consistently displayed his friendship for the British, have broken out in mutiny. No doubt is entertained that these troops are acting in concert with hostile Afghans. A wing of Highlanders has accordingly been ordered to proceed to the Khan's territory, and render him such assistance as he may stand in need of.

REPORTED DISAFFECTION AMONGST THE AMEER'S TROOPS.

LONDON, Aug. 27.

The Standard publishes a telegram from its special correspondent in Afghanistan, stating that news has been received that many of the troops of the new Ameer Abdul Rahman have thrown off their allegiance to him, and have openly declared in favour of the ex-Ameer Yakoob Khan, who is brother to Ayoub Khan.

The above news is not yet confirmed through official sources, and must therefore be accepted with reserve.

DEPARTURE OF MR. GLADSTONE.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

Mr. Gladstone, in accordance with arrangements previously announced, left Gravesend to-day, in company with Mr. Donald Currie, aboard the Grantley Castle, for a cruise on the coasts of Ireland and Scotland.

DESTRUCTION OF A CHURCH.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

A disastrous fire occurred this evening resulting in the total destruction of Whitechapel Church recently erected on the site of the old building.

THE AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

The Australians commenced a match to-day against 18 of Stockport. The home team went first to the wickets and succeeded in making 132 runs before the last wicket fell. The Australians followed, and at the close of the day had lost 7 wickets for 68. Spofforth, Blackham, and Slight were absent, the two former from owing to recent accidents in the field, and the latter because he is not yet permitted to play.

PLIMSOLL'S MERCHANT SHIPPING BILL.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

The Select Committee of the House of Commons which was appointed to consider and take evidence in regard to Plimsoll's Merchant Shipping Bill, the object of which is to prevent the loading of grain exclusively in bulk, and generally to regulate stowage, have now brought up their report. After discussion, the bill was read a third time in the House of Commons to-day, and passed.

RUMOURED VISIT OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES TO AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, Aug. 27.

It is currently reported at Plymouth that orders have been issued from the Admiralty for the fitting up of the Serapis, for the purpose of conveying the Prince and Princess of Wales to Melbourne, to visit the Exhibition. Both houses are insured for £300 in the South British, and Martin's furniture for £330 in the New Zealand. Hicks' furniture shop adjoining received some damage from water. MR. DAY AT ALBURY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ALBURY, FRIDAY.

Mr. George Day was banquetted last night here. Mr. James Hayes occupied the chair, and Mr. V. F. Nagle was vice-chairman. The health of the guest was proposed in eulogistic terms, and the toast was very warmly received. Mr. Day, in replying, referred to the work of the coming session, and said the new Parliament would have little work, as all the principal measures were now disposed of. The chief task would be to pass the Estimates, reform, the land law, and place the finances on a sound basis. The latter question was not difficult, as the Estimates might easily be cut down by one-fifth, and the land reform, if properly carried out with an increase of pastoral rents, would give the Government more money than they would know what to do with. He said the Government intended to bring in a measure to cut the colony into shires, and this would remedy to a large extent the evil of centralization. He then complained of misrepresentations by the Herald. The Herald said he was "up to his eyes in selection." That was very incorrect, as he never took up a selection in his life. He once held two selections for a short time, but had none now, and the charge was brought by the Herald to weaken his influence. So long as the Herald fought with fair weapons he did not care a straw for it; but this charge was untruthful, ungenerous, and unmanly. The speaker went on to argue in favour of the abolition of interest and an increase in the squatters' rents. He said the squatters ought to pay at least one-fourth of what a private owner would expect for the same land, and the Government failed in its duty if it exacted less.

THE ILLAWARRA COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WOLLONGONG, FRIDAY.

The Mount Pleasant miners were paid off yesterday, and a notice issued by the manager to-day that good men are wanted at the mine at the highest rate of wages. A mass meeting of the Bulli, Coal Cliff, and Mount Pleasant miners was held to-day at Woonoona, the chairman of the district miners presiding. The attendance was not so large as anticipated, being confined to about 200 men. The chairman, in his opening speech, spoke temperately, and regretted the dispute between employees and employers in this instance. He did not advocate strikes generally, but considered the present step necessary. He to some extent blamed the Mount Pleasant management for the present misunderstanding. All the speakers adopted an equally temperate tone, and a motion was put, and unanimously carried, that the men on strike offer to return to work, without any stated reduction, conditionally that the dispute at the various collieries be settled by arbitration within a fortnight. Mr. Harper, the Coal Cliff manager, who happened to be present, pointed out that this motion was identical with an offer made by him to the Coal Cliff miners some days ago, and which was not accepted. On behalf of the Mount Pleasant men a motion was brought forward for the approval of the meeting to the effect that the men accept 2s. 6d. per ton, providing the weighbridge was put in order, and some other improvements effected in connection with the working of the mine. This proposition was unanimously rejected, as it would be dividing the question at issue, and as it would indicate a want of unanimity among those interested. In the event of the masters declining the terms, and refusing to refer the question to arbitration, it was decided to appeal to other organizations for assistance during the struggle. A general opinion prevails that as Coalcliff is willing to refer the question to arbitration, the Bulli directors will probably be inclined to adopt a similar course. The meeting throughout was very orderly.

The testimony in support of the great medicinal properties of the Eucalyptus globulus is increasing every year. Few districts in Europe had a more evil reputation than the Campagna as a veritable hotbed of pestilential fever, and people who know the country round Rome may remember the monastery at Tre Fontane, on the spot, as tradition tells, that St. Paul met his death. Life in this monastery meant death to the monks, but since the Eucalyptus has been planted in the cloisters fever has disappeared and the place has become habitable. Again, in parts of Corsica and Algeria, where the tree has been planted for the sake of its reputed virtues, endemic fevers have been stamped out. Similar testimony also comes from Holland, the south of France, Italy, California, and many other parts of the world, as to the febrifugal attributes of this tree, which must make it increasingly valuable in the eyes of the Tasmanians.

IMPORTS and IMPORT DUTIES in NEW SOUTH WALES & VICTORIA for 1879.

If New South Wales and Victoria may be taken respectively as examples of free trade and protection in British colonies, it is somewhat surprising that the difference of Customs' revenue pro rata to population should be so small. The southern colony gets a little over a quarter of a million per annum for ad valorem duties, to which there is nothing corresponding in the tariff of New South Wales. Victoria has also a tax on imported live stock worth £38,408 to her revenue last year, and a tax on imported grain worth £31,631 to the revenue, from both of which New South Wales was free. But these three heads of Customs revenue—ad valorem, live stock, and grain—make up the bulk of the difference; and in spite of them the free trade tariff of New South Wales yields a revenue from articles subject to duty in both colonies nearly equal, pro rata to population, to the gross revenue from the protectionist tariff of Victoria. In some other respects the two colonies are not equal, but the following statement affords convincing evidence that the advantage is immensely in favour of the representative of free-trade:—

In giving the gross imports it may be necessary to remind our readers that these include for Victoria wool imported for re-export to the value of £2,494,573, and gold to the value of £367,244. The New South Wales imports also included wool for re-export to the value of £278,096, and a quantity of gold dust, copper, and tin, which cannot be ascertained from any data yet published. The value of the total exports the produce of each colony last year, as already shown in our columns in detail, was £10,381,885 for New South Wales, and £8,069,857 for Victoria.

GOOD TEMPLARY.

Consequent on arrangements previously announced in our advertising columns, a large number of members of the I. O. G. T., under the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the World, met in the Council-chambers, Darlington, Sydney, on Wednesday evening, the 18th instant, for the purpose of inaugurating a new lodge. After the usual preliminaries, nineteen candidates were initiated, who, in addition to eight members from the Dawn of Freedom Lodge, No. 104, formed the nucleus of what promises to be a large and useful branch of the Good Templar organization. Bro. John Wright, G.W.C.T., was the instituting officer, assisted by Bros. Price, G.W. Sec., Bowmaker, G.S.J.T., Hawthorne, G.W.T., and others. Mr. Morris was appointed W.L.D., and the principal elective officers were as follows, viz.—W.C.T., Mr. Stephen Asprey; W.V.T., Mr. H. Biddles; W. Sec., Mr. John Whitehead. The name given to the new institution was the Hope of Darlington, No. 187. Subsequently, in response to a vote of thanks, the Grand Lodge officers severally addressed the meeting at some length, encouraging and advising the young members to be steadfast in the principles of total abstinence, and to evidence the value of Good Templary by their exemplary conduct and useful citizenship.

On the same evening, a numerous contingent of the metropolitan members proceeded by special steamer to Watson's Bay, to pay a visit to the General Havelock Lodge, No. 153, which is composed of members of the Permanent Forces stationed at that place. A kind of semi-concert or semi-public meeting was held in one of the large rooms in the barracks, which was liberally decorated with bunting for the occasion. Bro. J. S. Shearston, G.W.V.T., presided, and was supported on the platform by Sergeant-Major Webster, District Deputy of Military Lodges; Sergeant-Major Griffiths, chairman of the lodge, and others. A very good programme of songs, recitations, &c., was prepared, in which some of the visitors took part. A large portion of the residents in that locality were present, and the room was literally crowded with a cheerful and evidently very happy assemblage. The chairman during some remarks relative to the value of total abstinence in our military forces, referred to the fact that Sir Garnet Wolseley, one of the most successful military leaders of the present day, was not only himself a total abstainer, but he inculcated and fostered the practice amongst the men under his command. Every regiment of British troops in Africa and India had a Good Templars Lodge under the jurisdiction of the R.W.G.L. of the World attached to it. (Loud cheers.) It had been demonstrated beyond question that in the most frigid and torrid climates in the known world, total abstinence was the most conducive to health, strength, and longevity. On the burning sands of India, as well as in the frigid regions of the North Pole it had been conclusively proved that men could not only do without stimulants, but that they were far better without them altogether. He quoted the following figures given by a general officer at a recent temperance meeting held at Portsmouth, and which he extracted from an English paper. "Figures from a general's return for six months, October to March:—Strength, of garrison, 5239; abstainers, 1514; non-abstainers, 3725; deaths, total abstainers, 0; non-abstainers, 5; in hospital, abstainers, 59; non-abstainers, 357; court-martials, abstainers, 0; non-abstainers, 18; defaulters, abstainers, 20; non-abstainers, 347; invalided, abstainers, 3; non-abstainers, 18; reduced to ranks, abstainers, 0; non-abstainers, 12; forfeited G. C. badges, abstainers, 0; non-abstainers, 39; deposits in Savings Bank, abstainers, £3788; non-abstainers, £3711." The Chairman contended that, in prosecuting his duties as District-Deputy of Royal Naval Lodges, he invariably found that wherever commanders and officers favoured and advocated temperance principles amongst the men the cause correspondingly flourished, but that where the officers manifested little or no interest it languished. Lieutenant Bouverie, who is in charge of the detachment, and who, with his lady, were present during the evening, in response to three ringing cheers given in his honour expressed great pleasure at being present. He was exceedingly pleased at the Good Templar movement amongst the men under his command, and they could rest assured of his keen appreciation of the evidences of social reform among them. He would place no obstacle in their way, but, on the contrary, would afford them every facility in his power to make their meetings pleasant and comfortable. (Loud cheers.) The meeting closed with the National Anthem; after which the visitors returned, reaching the Circular Quay at 10.45 p.m.

On Saturday evening last an excellent vocal and instrumental concert was given in the Temperance Hall, Pitt-street, in aid of the funds We Strive to Save Lodge, No. 164, which is composed of members of the various fire brigades. Mr. J. Davies, M.L.A., presided, and there was a large attendance. The chairman, during some prefatory remarks, expressed the pleasure it afforded him at being present at such meetings, which had for their object the promulgation of the sterling principles of true temperance, i. e., total abstinence. Perhaps on no other occasion than during the excitement and danger consequent at times of fire in the city or suburbs did we require brave and sober men. It was a noble sight to witness men actuated with no other desire than to save life and property, and no expectations of any reward further than the satisfaction of knowing that they had done their best to save the interests imperilled by that devouring element, fired with zeal in their noble efforts. It was highly desirable that they of all men should be at all times perfectly sober, and the existence of that institution was an evidence that they fully appreciated the importance of their position. (Applause.) The City Fire Brigade Band was present during the evening, and played several selections in a clever manner. Miss M. Wright sang "The dear little Shamrock" with such effect that she received a decided encore, and substituted "The Blue Bells of Scotland;" and Miss Hinchey sang "Killarney" with excellent taste. Messrs. Forsythe, Miller, Sands, James Godfrey, Pidgeon and Clifford contributed songs and recitations, which were duly appreciated; Mr. H. Evans and Mrs. Pickup respectively personated Sir Peter and Lady Teazle in a dialogue from "The School for Scandal," very creditably; and Professor Gordon A. Barker performed some extraordinary feats of magic. After a vote of thanks to the chairman, proposed by Mr. Harris, W.C.T., ably seconded by Mr. W. F. Stanton, W.L.D., a very pleasant meeting was brought to a close by a stanza of the National Anthem.

The Prince Leopold Lodge, No. 138, held a very successful complimentary concert, in the room under the Unitarian Church, Liverpool-street, on the 19th instant. Mr. J. Wright, G.W.C.T., presided; and an excellent programme was rendered by well-known ladies and gentlemen amateurs. Mrs. Caldwell acted as accompanist.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

HAWKESBURY SPRING MEETING.

SECOND DAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 27.

President: Mr. Benjamin Richards. Vice-president: Mr. William Gosper. Judge: Mr. Andrew Town. Handicapper: Mr. J. A. Scarr. Starter: Mr. William Gannon. Clerk of the Course: Mr. J. Gough. Secretary: Mr. C. S. Guest.

The Hawkesbury Spring meeting was brought to a successful conclusion yesterday. The weather throughout the day was gloriously fine, the heat of the sun's rays being tempered with a cool and refreshing breeze. The excursion trains which were laid on from the Redfern terminus were largely patronised, and the attendance on the course was equal to that of the first day of the meeting. The Young Australian Band was again present, and played selections of popular music in front of the grand stand during the intervals between the various events. The racing was very interesting, and of such a nature as to satisfy the most fastidious patrons of the sport. In one or two instances, Mr. Andrew Town, who officiated as judge, was called upon to decide some very close and exciting finishes, and it is only fair to mention that his decisions appeared to give general satisfaction. On the whole, the meeting was generally admitted to be the most successful and enjoyable that has yet been held under the auspices of the Hawkesbury Race Club; and the satisfactory manner in which everything was carried out was due, in a great measure, to the exertions of Mr. C. S. Guest, the indefatigable secretary of the club, who left nothing undone to provide for the comfort and convenience of visitors. The railway arrangements were excellent, and although the department was called upon to provide for the conveyance of a larger number of passengers to and from the racecourse than has been the case at any previous meeting, not the slightest hitch occurred in any way. Anything approaching to over-crowding was avoided, and the excursionists were landed in town before 7 o'clock in the evening.

Only three went to the post for the Mares' Produce Stakes, and on the strength of her easy win in "The Guineas," Geraldine was in such favour that 5 to 2 was freely laid on her, but after she had cut down Kamilaroi, Thomas brought Lord Lisgar at the distance, and landed him a clever winner amidst great excitement. A fine field of 16 left the paddock for the Grand Handicap, Sweetmeat, who stripped well, being a decided favourite at 3 to 1. Hesperian, Strathearn, and the Pontiff were as fit as hands could make them, and each of the trio had a host of followers, while not a few placed their faith in Auckland and Golden Locks. A full description of the race will be found below; and it is the opinion of many good judges that, had not Mr. Ivory sent Lorton and Master Avenel to make the pace on behalf of Sweetmeat, the latter would have run even a better race than he did, for Sweetmeat is always slow on his legs, and the less pace that is made in the early part of a race the better for him. However, Hesperian won so comfortably at the end that it is doubtful if the verdict would have been different, no matter how the race was run. The time, 2 mins. 28 4-10th secs. is the fastest reliable time on record in the colonies; and, although his weight was very light, Hesperian's performance was a great one, though, considering the weight, not nearly so good as Sweetmeat's and Strathearn's. The Prince of Wales Stakes was regarded as a foregone conclusion for Lightning, and 2 to 1 was freely laid on him; but Speculation fairly wore him down, and was afterwards sold to Mr. Shepherd for £60. Five started for the Turf Club Handicap, and Mr. Scarr has reason to be proud of the great race his work produced, for the first three horses were only divided by heads. Verdict did as he chose with those opposed to him in the Members' Handicap, and he ran quite a different horse to what he did on the first day. The principal sums won in prizes were as follows:—Mr. Burton, £480; Mr. Long; Mr. Moore, £125; Mr. Forrester, £120; Mr. Devlin, £115; Mr. Rossi, £175; Mr. Dargin, £120; and Mr. Mayo, £106. The following is an account of how each race was won and lost:—

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB MARES' PRODUCE STAKES of 10 sovs. each, for the nominators of produce, 2 sovs. forfeit, added to 100 sovs. given by the H. R. C., for three-year-olds. Colts, 8 st. 5 lbs.; fillies, 8 st. Second horse 20, and third horse 10 per cent. on the gross amount of the prize, to be deducted therefrom. One mile and one quarter.

Mr. J. Rossi's br c Lord Lisgar, by Yattendon—Lady Constance (T. Thomas) 1
W. Long's br f Geraldine, by Yattendon—Atholine (T. Hales) 2
B. Richards' b c Kamilaroi, by Goldsbrough—Fleetwing (G. Thompson) 3

Betting: 5 to 2 on Geraldine, 3 to 1 Kamilaroi, 8 to 1 v. Lord Lisgar.

The flag was lowered to an even start, Kamilaroi on the inside at once going to the front, and he led Geraldine a length round the turn. Geraldine joined him at the old mile-post, and the pair raced on terms along the opposite side of the course; Lord Lisgar, in waiting, three lengths away. Kamilaroi was satisfied at the home turn, and Geraldine being left in command, looked all over a winner, but Lord Lisgar, who had been coming very fast, raced past her at the half distance, and won by two lengths; while Kamilaroi was a dozen lengths away. Time, 2 minutes 14 8-10 seconds.

THE HAWKESBURY GRAND HANDICAP of 10 sovs. each for starters only, with 300 sovs. added. The winner to receive 75 per cent., second horse 15 per cent., and third horse 10 per cent., of the gross amount. One mile and a half.

Betting: 3 to 1 v. Sweetmeat, 5 to 1 v. Hesperion, 6 to each v. The Pontiff and Strathearn; 10 to 1 each v. Black Swan, Golden Locks, Lorton, and Master Avenal; 15 to 50 to 1 v. any other.

Mr. Gannon dispatched the large field away to a beautiful start, the colours of Blantyre, Hesperion, and Annandale showing most prominently; and next to them could be seen Lorton and Black Swan. Annandale, on the outside, was at the front at the distance, but was soon headed by Lorton, who led Black Swan half a length past the stand, Master Avenal and Blantyre following on terms, and just clear of Othello, who headed a closely packed ruck, the last of which was Sweetmeat. Master Avenal ran up second at the old mile post, where Hesperion was third within a length of him, and just clear of Blantyre, The Pontiff, Valetta, Oakhill, and Annandale, who were racing in a cluster; then a couple of lengths away came Strathearn, Milbrodale, and Auckland. Still making the pace very severe, Lorton increased his lead, and at the back of the course was two lengths in front of his stable companion, Master Avenal, who was a length in advance of Blantyre, The Pontiff, Milbrodale, and Hesperion, and then after a short gap succeeded Oakhill, Strathearn, Othello, and Sweetmeat, who now began to work his way through his horses. A little further on, Oakhill, Master Avenal, and Othello were in sad distress. Holding his own like a racehorse, Lorton led Milbrodale past the half-mile post by half a length, Master Avenal and Blantyre following a length off, and closely attended by The Pontiff, Strathearn, Auckland, and Hesperion. Lorton, Milbrodale, The Pontiff, and Hesperion raced round the bend almost on terms, and the latter, who was on the outside, was coming very fast; while Auckland having had enough, Strathearn and Sweetmeat began to draw into dangerous positions. Hesperion and Strathearn cut down Lorton and Milbrodale soon after entering the straight, and Sweetmeat coming with a grand rush ran up fourth, and was rapidly overhauling the leaders. At the distance Hesperion was clear of his horses, and drawing away he won easily by two lengths and a half, leaving Sweetmeat and Strathearn to run a desperate race for second place, which resulted in favour of the former by a head. Milbrodale was a good fourth, and then came Black Swan, the Pontiff, and Oakhill; the last two being Golden Locks, and Orator who acted as whipper-in all the way. Time, 2 minutes 28 4-10 seconds.

Betting: 2 to 1 on Lightning.

Shamrock, who had given the starter a deal of trouble, jumped away in front, attended by Speculation and Lightning; while Partner got a bad start. The lot closed up at the turn, and then Lightning and Speculation, leaving the other two, ran a great race all the way home, the outsider defeating the favourite by half a length. Time, 1 minute 17 2-10 seconds.

Thorntopper was first away, attended by Rosine, Nancy Lee, Ravenswood, and Prairie Bird. After Rosine and Nancy Lee had each had a turn at the front, Prairie Bird took up the running, and led to the Railway turn, where the five were in a great heap. Prairie Bird was done with at the distance; and, the four others coming on, ran a great race all the way up the straight, and Ravenswood helped by his grand condition and the excellent horsemanship of Gordon, won a brilliant race by a head, the same distance dividing Nancy Lee and Rosine. Thorntopper was about a length away, and two lengths from him came Prairie Bird. Time: 2 minutes 16 seconds.

Betting: 6 to 4 v. Soothsayer, 4 to 1 bar one.

Mangallala Squatter and Baroness were first away, but after going a couple of furlongs gave place to Lightning and Verdict. The two leaders raced together to the home turn, where Verdict left the son of Barbarian, and won very easily by two lengths. Lightning and Soothsayer had a great battle for second place, which ended in favour of the former. The Admiral was a bad fourth and was followed by Mangallala Squatter. Time, 1 minute 30 seconds.

CRICKET.

A meeting of the Redfern Cricket Club was held, in the Town Hall, Redfern, on Monday evening: Mr. T. M. Williamson occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance of members. Draft rules were submitted and passed. A further meeting was held on Thursday evening, for the election of officers, &c., and the receipt of subscriptions, &c. The latter came in very satisfactorily, and over fifty names were put on the members' list. The amount of interest in the club was shown by the keen interest taken in the result of the several ballots for the election of office-bearers. The following were elected:—President, the Mayor of Redfern; Vice-Presidents, Mr. D. O'Connor, M.L.A., and Messrs. John Hamilton, T. M. Williamson, and G. H. Greenwood; committee, Messrs. T. Coghlan, J. Hannigan, W. Hudson, W. Lenten, J. Mulcahy, and Mark Williamson; match committee, Messrs. Greenwood, Hannigan, and O'Brien; treasurer, Mr. John Doherty; delegate Cricket Association, the secretary. The club having the support of the old Redfern members, promises to be a very flourishing one. A scratch match has been arranged, to take place on the Surry Ground on September 18 and 25, and for this match Mr. Williamson and Mr. Lenton have signified their intention to present trophies to the best batsman and bowler respectively. A handsome subscription also was received from Mr. O'Connor. The club goes into active practice at once.

FOOTBALL.

The principal match on Moore Park, this afternoon, will be between the Waratah and Balmain Clubs, and a good match is expected. The second fifteen of the Waratahs play the first Newtown, on the Newtown Ground.

The first fifteens of the Redferns and Parramatta meet on Moore Park, at 3.30. The following represent the respective teams:—Redfern: Baker, Coghlan, Galloway, Harnett, Hanslow, Inglis, M'Intyre, Mulcahy (3), North, Payten, Horne, Watson, Williamson, Allen (16.) Parramatta: Byrnes (2), Campbell, Coates, Curtis, Folks, Griffin, Hart, Hill, Howell, Hicks, Lassen, Morley, Peacock, Teece, Thompson, Stettler.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The Juvenile Pinafore Company had another house crammed to excess last night, when the operetta was repeated with very evident satisfaction to the audience. The little folks have settled down thoroughly to their work, and the performance goes with wonderful smoothness, and, considering the ages of those engaged, must be considered very successful. The impression produced by the sight of these mites making love, becoming frantic with despair, and entering into the "agony" business with as much zest as trained adults exhibit on the stage, is irresistibly comic, but with the fun caused one can scarcely help reflecting as to the result on their future—it is impossible to picture Josephine, Buttercup, the Admiral, or Dick Deadeye buckling to children's ordinary work after their introduction and enjoyment of the delights of public applause; however, it is too late to protest, the youngsters have had a good seasoning by this time, and we can only hope that the continuous and toilsome care which has been spent on their training for this business will stimulate them to regular exertion in other work by-and-bye. Mrs. G. B. Lewis has every reason to congratulate herself on the favour with which the public have received her work, and in the evident pride she takes in the children, and their liking for her, there is good proof that the labour has been a pleasure. The voices of the children are in some cases very good, the best of all in a musical sense is that of Ralph Rackstraw (Master C. Osmond), whose soprano is clear and silvery as a flute, and tells well alike in solo, duet, or trio. The composition of the Admiral was encored, so was the duet between (Captain Corcoran) Master Lewis and Dick Deadeye (Master Driscoll), and the trio "Never mind," &c., between the Admiral, the Captain, and the fair Josephine. The acting of the little girl who plays the Captain's daughter, Baby Flora Graupner, is sufficiently intelligent and earnest to win favourable recognition for one thrice her age; and as much may be said for the Admiral, and Buttercup. Miss Mary Weir was encored for her sailor's hornpipe; and after each act the principal performers, with Mrs. Lewis bringing up the rear, were summoned before the curtain. The business differs slightly from that hitherto adopted, but does not suffer by the change. In their anxiety to be heard, some members of the company force their voices so as to make the choruses out of time. It is difficult to sing four parts with two sets of voices, and this is chiefly, we suspect, the reason of the occasional jar. The orchestra wants a good deal of attention. The instrumental part is much below the character of the vocal, the players rather hinder than help the little singers. Certain it is that Mrs. Lewis has hit the popular taste with her cleverly taught and naturally bright lot of children, and the cruise of H.M.S. Pinafore with the juvenile crew seems likely to be as prosperous as heretofore. Greater luck cannot be expected. The improvements in the interior of the theatre are very great, and are appreciated by the numerous visitors. This evening Miss Amy Brooks, who has been indisposed since the arrival of the troupe in Sydney, will take the part of the Admiral.

MR. PROCTOR'S ASTRONOMICAL LECTURES.

The sixth lecture of the series to be delivered by Mr. R. A. Proctor, at the School of Arts, was given by that gentleman last evening, before a large and influential audience. This was his last appearance but one in Sydney, and the title of the lecture was the "Star-depths."

MR. PROCTOR said that if we looked at the skies in a calm clear night we were naturally impressed with the idea that here there was an eternal calm. This was the idea obtained from a glance at the starry heavens, and it was also the idea which suggested itself as the result of the first teachings of astronomy. It was quite true that astronomers recognised movements in these bodies. There was the daily movement, carrying the stars from east to west in every twenty-four hours; the annual movement, carrying them in the same manner round the earth each year; and there was another motion, quite distinct from either of these, by which the whole dome of the heavens seemed to be twisted round an axis directed in the northern hemisphere to a point in the constellation of the Dragon, and in the Southern hemisphere, of course, to the opposite point. This was a slow movement, having for its period 25,900 years. But astronomy had learned to recognize all these movements as belonging to our earth. It was the earth turning on her axis once every day which caused the heavens to appear to turn, and her travelling round in her orbit once in the year caused the annual movement; and it was the earth having the reeling motion with a period of 25,900 years which caused the other movement to which he had referred. But, although there was this apparent rest, there was a most amazing activity, with which nothing that took place in the earth or in the solar system itself was to be compared for one moment. The smallest visible change in one of these stars meant a change with which any change taking place in this earth on which we lived was absolutely as nothing. So soon as Copernicus showed that our earth circuited round the sun in a mighty orbit, astronomers recognized the fact that the stars must lie at enormous distances; and, in fact, it was that which led Tycho Brahe to reject the Copernican theory. Since the days of Copernicus we had learned that the earth's orbit was very much vaster than he had any idea of, and we now found that the sun, with all its glories, was repeated in all these stars which shone out each night. He then went on to describe the method of ascertaining the distances of the stars, and showed that the star α Centauri, the brightest of the two pointers to the Southern Cross, was the only one whose distance was accurately known. The star 61 Cygni in the northern hemisphere had had its distance calculated, but opinions differed, one set of observations placing it at double, and another at treble the distance of α Centauri. As the distance of this latter star was 20,000,000,000,000 (twenty millions of millions) of miles, this was a great error, and yet astronomy was called—and deservedly called—the "exact science." It deserved to be called exact because it was not ashamed to admit the fact when it was ascertained that an error like this had been perpetrated. He explained how astronomers ascertained the size of the stars by calculating the amount of light thrown out by them, and displayed on the screen the spectra of several stars, showing that they were composed of substances similar to those found in our own sun and upon our earth. Father Secchi's observations of the spectra of over 600 stars proved that 300 of them showed the hydrogen lines in the spectrum very strongly, while spectra similar to those of our sun and the sun spots were given by 150 of the number. The observations of Dr. Huggins and Professor Miller were of even more value than those of Father Lecchi, as the latter had examined too many stars to give the fullest information respecting their composition. These gentlemen had done much in the direction of spectrum analysis of the composition of the stellar orbs, and their work had been one of time, labour, care, and expense. After referring to some of the stars, such as Aldebaran and Betelgeuse in detail, he mentioned the sudden blazing out of a star in the Northern Crown in 1866, in which case the examination of the spectrum showed the hydrogen lines very brightly, thus proving that there was an excess of the vapour of this gas at the time. The star had since declined in brightness, till it was now only of the ninth magnitude. He considered that this was probably due to the fact that a comet with its attendent train of meteors had fallen directly on this star. While this showed that our sun was exposed to a similar danger, it also showed that this danger was very small, as in the past three centuries there were certainly not more than twenty similar instances recorded. He then, with the aid of pictures on the screen, showed the peculiarities of the appearance of the heavens in the northern and southern hemispheres, pointing out that while in the former the stars were spread with a kind of uniformity, in the latter it was quite different. He exemplified Herschel's theory of the structure of the stellar system, and showed that it had been subsequently abandoned by the author of it himself, and pointed out that the Milky Way was probably a stream of stars in reality, and not merely in appearance, as was suggested by that theory. While it was undoubtedly true that the stars were all travelling through space, and moving according to laws, the theory of a great central sun, round which they were all travelling, no longer had any support whatever. If there was any centre at all round which the stellar world was travelling, it must be the centre of gravity of the system, and not a giant orb, as had been imagined. He then briefly pointed out the various classes of nebulæ, and showed by incontestable evidence, that instead of being outside our system they were in reality a part of it; and concluded by a quotation from Blanco White, showing that, from the fact that darkness enlarged our scope of vision of the universe, so it might be that from the darkness of death might come a new and grander life.

The lecturer was loudly cheered throughout the lecture, and at the conclusion. This evening this highly interesting account of the stellar system will be repeated.

THE GREAT COMET OF 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As Mr. Proctor has, in his deservedly popular lectures, brought the subject of the comet of 1880 once more before the Australian public, and in doing so has also kindly noticed my recent paper read before the Royal Society, may I ask you to allow me to make the following remarks. In the paper referred to I quoted all the determinations of the orbit that had then reached the colony, and expressed the hope that my own elements deduced from the Melbourne observations might be found to be a closer approximation to the truth than any of them. That hope appears now to be realized. Two later European determinations have now come to hand, one by Dr. Oppenheim, of Berlin, and the other by Dr. Meyer, of Geneva, both founded on the observations made at the Argentine National Observatory. Both sets of elements agree closely with the results which I obtained from the Melbourne observations. Dr. Meyer's orbit is an ellipse with an assumed period of thirty-seven years, and is derived from positions corrected by means of Dr. Gould's parabola for aberration and parallax.

It is fortunate that the comet made its appearance so early in the year; had its perihelion passage occurred in June or July it would have altogether escaped detection, owing to its immense distance from the earth.

A BRASS BAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was delighted beyond expression latterly by reading in the columns of your paper that several gentlemen of high musical standing in Sydney were making an effort to awaken the interest of the inhabitants of the city to the great privilege of securing and possessing a powerful and efficient brass band, such as is enjoyed in the large centres of population in Europe. I do hope these laudable efforts will meet with the success that such a desirable object merits. We have a favourable climate for out-door enjoyment; a number of suitable places of resort and recreation; the Botanic Gardens, the Exhibition building, the Parks, &c., and yet we lack what would make these places most popular and enjoyable, a full and efficient band of music. Let those who have frequently strolled to the Parks at home, and been delighted with the grand musical treats afforded by the splendid bands playing there, put their shoulder to the wheel, and give tone to the efforts now being made; and before many months are gone, Sydney will have added another attraction to the many she now possesses.

BRASS BAND.

THIS DAY, at 11 a.m., Sale by Auction of superior household furniture, china, glass, pianofortes, kitchen utensils, and sundries. Also, magnificent Spanish mahogany billiard-table and appurtenances; and a small consignment of fire irons, iron chairs, &c. Bradley, Newton, and Lamb, Auctioneers, Bosisto and O'Connell streets.—ADV.

OUR BERLIN LETTER.

BERLIN, JULY 8.

The Prussian Diet has been closed, the members of the Conference have ended their sittings, and the whole political and official world has left for the country, or for watering-places, to find there some recreation after its long and trying work. But, nevertheless, it must not be thought that politics will come to a standstill during the hot summer months. Regarding the state of home affairs public opinion in Germany is very excited, and also the aspect of foreign affairs is not as reassuring as one might wish. The Prussian Diet has at last passed the much debated bill for the revision of the May laws, but only a majority of two votes could be won by the Government, and even this success could only be obtained by the Cabinet being willing to sacrifice the two most important articles of the bill. The proposals of the Government have been very much amended by the Select Committee, and particularly the article by which the bishops were to be reinstated in their former dioceses, and allowed to return home, has been abolished. The Government is now empowered by the new law to allow that delegates appointed by the Curia can administer such dioceses which have now no bishop, without taking the oath of allegiance. At the same time the law ordains that the administration of Church funds can again be given into the hands of the clergy, and that, by special permission of the Home Minister, new religious orders can be founded in Prussia which have for their aim the nursing of the sick and the education of orphan children. A very important concession is made in another article, by which priests, although nominated to one particular parish, can also perform Divine service in another. Until now, any priest who administered the holy sacrament in a parish to which he was not nominated was liable to a heavy punishment from the State. As now more than 1000 parishes are without a priest, it was indeed necessary to find some means to alter this deplorable state of affairs. Up to the last moment it was not at all certain that the Government would be able to get together a sufficient number of votes to pass the bill, as, although the Centre Party was willing enough to acknowledge the good intentions of the Government, they firmly refused to vote for the measure, as by doing so they would tacitly acknowledge the justice of the May Laws, and this they are determined never to do. The majority by which the bill was passed was composed of Conservatives of all shades, and of one section of the National Liberals; the rest of the party joined the Centre Party, the Poles and the Progressists in opposition. The bill will soon receive the sanction of the Emperor, and will be immediately put into force by the Government. It will then be seen what attitude the Vatican will adopt. Although the Ultramontane Press is still uttering loud complaints against the insignificance of the concessions made by the Government, the Centre party is very satisfied that the bill has been passed, for the Curia has not been obliged to abandon any of their principles, and the hopes are now not unreasonable that it will be possible to reopen the pourparlers between Rome and Berlin. At the same time the Ultramontanes hope that the Prussian Government will once more lay before the Prussian Diet, for consideration, the paragraph by which the return of the bishops was to be assured, and which was not voted by the special committee; in which case they state their readiness to join with the Conservatives, in order to pass their paragraph by a large majority. You can understand from these details how thoroughly unsound party organization is in Germany, and you can see how the Government relies first on one party and then on the other—in one case on the Conservatives, in another on the Liberals, in order to get their measures voted. But it pleases Prince Bismarck to make use of the parties one after another as he will; and until now he has always succeeded in gaining the victory. Very bad consequences will ensue for the National Liberals from the last session. This party was founded some 15 years ago, and has for the last 10 years controlled the votes, both in the German Parliament and in the Prussian Diet. But it cannot be denied they have during the past few years lost much of their former supremacy. They have always been willing to make compromises with the Government, and to sacrifice many of the principles, in order to remain the ruling party; but the Government has not shown much gratitude for this fidelity. The public at large is utterly sick of the undecision of the National Liberals, and the electors are not at all satisfied with their nominees. It is therefore very probable that the party will cease to exist in its present composition, and a great mass of the National Liberals will join the Progressist party, while the more moderate elements will ally themselves to the Free-Conservatives. The Progressists are very triumphant at this state of affairs, and they hope to gain many seats at the next elections. We may expect that great changes will take place in the composition of all the parties, and that Prince Bismarck will be obliged for the future to pay more attention to public opinion than he has hitherto been willing to do.

The ambassadors concluded their sittings last week, and the so much spoken of Conference is at an end. At the beginning of the debate, much disagreement on minor questions prevailed; it became however, clear—after a little time—that the Powers were thoroughly in earnest in their wish to come to a unanimous understanding. Russia and Austria, strange to say, were willing to concede to Greece more than the Western Powers; but after some discussion, and especially through the happy mediation of the German President of the Conference, a perfect unanimity of opinion on the question of the new frontier-line prevailed among the different representatives. This line has been particularly elaborated by Sir Lintorn Simmons, the English delegate, and was communicated to the various Governments before the actual meeting of the Conference. On the east the line follows the northern valley crest of the Salambria at a considerable distance from the river up to Metzovo, slices away almost a third of the province of Gegori, includes Janina, joins the Calamas, and following the bed of that stream, falls into the Straits of Corfu at the northern arm of the river. The Kingdom of Greece has thereby been enlarged by about 420 German square miles and 400,000 inhabitants. The aspirations of the Greeks may therefore be regarded as quite satisfied, and of course they are very proud of having gained such a large territory without firing a shot or burning any powder. But now another important feature of the affair has to be considered, i.e., what attitude will the Porte adopt as regards the resolutions of the Conference? Hitherto the Turkish Government has always declared that the Conference was by the Treaty of Berlin only empowered to act as a mediator not as an arbitrator, and it is very probable that the Porte will show some reluctance in carrying out the wishes of the Conference. It cannot be denied that immediately after the conclusion of the diplomatic meeting all kinds of rumours have been circulated, which have given fresh food to that feeling of vague uneasiness with which the Eastern question has always been regarded. The Porte stands fast to its well-known "non possumus," and says that the inhabitants of the districts to be ceded will never allow the Greeks to take possession. And no doubt many preparations have lately been made to organize there a very determined resistance, to prevent the resolutions of the Conference being carried into effect. The Albanian League, which has been formed under the auspices of the Turkish authorities, has declared "that the Albanians will never consent to a partition of their country, nor even to an exchange of territory, which would bring them under the sway of a foreign Power." From the Turkish capital, also, all sorts of disquieting reports are arriving. The enlistment of volunteers for Albania is publicly going on there; Government is exciting the people to resist the Grecian occupation, and is providing the chiefs with money and arms. At the same time great military preparations are going on throughout the whole of the Turkish dominions in the Balkan peninsula, the second army corps stationed at Adrianople has already been mobilised, and from all quarters troops have been dispatched to the Greco-Turkish frontier, in order to be prepared against any surprise. In Greece also great preparations have been made in order to be ready to occupy the new territory. The whole Grecian army has been mobilised, and it is feared in consequence that scenes of bloodshed, strife, and confusion will begin again, like those which occurred but two short years ago.

The Powers have now expressed their wishes under the form of a collective note, which will be presented to the Porte by Count Hatzfeld, the German Ambassador at Constantinople, on the 16th instant. All the different Governments intend to display so much energy in proclaiming their wishes, that the Sultan and his Government will no longer remain in doubt as to the serious character of the situation. If the Porte refuses to yield to the representations of the different Governments, the latter will then find other means to enforce the execution of all the stipulations of the Berlin Conference. Until now no fixed plan has been made, as to what may be the nature and importance of the means to be found. It was first proposed that a naval demonstration, by a combined English and French fleet, should take place; but it appears that the French Government is not willing to take upon themselves so responsible a task. It is more probable that all the Powers will join in such a naval demonstration. On the other hand, it is also rumoured that Russia has declared her willingness to send troops to the Greco-Turkish frontier in order to hand over the respective districts to Greece, and to protect the latter against any resistance on the part of the Albanians and Turks. But as many selfish aspirations may have dictated this plan to Russia, the Powers do not intend to accept the offer. It is to be hoped that the unanimity of the Great Powers in bringing about a practical solution of this question, will extend to all the political and military consequences of the resolutions of the Conference. Now indeed it is generally feared that a peaceful solution of the Greek Frontier question is impossible and it is the opinion here that we are fast approaching another very serious crisis in the East. It is justly anticipated that no sooner has war been begun on the old Greco-Turkish Frontier, than a Pan-Bulgaria insurrection will break out in Bulgaria and Roumelia, and also the disturbances on the Montenegrin frontier will recommence. The Eastern question will be once more brought under discussion, and will certainly cause a lot more trouble.

The Emperor of Germany is still staying at Ems, and is drinking the waters with much benefit to himself. In the little town, which is surrounded by pleasant hills, covered with splendid woods, the Emperor likes to live quite a private life. He does not show himself about in uniform, but has exchanged the military frock for the simple mufti. All ceremony is relaxed, and the old monarch, in the simplest manner possible, takes his walk, together with the many thousands of strangers who are collected together in the pretty town on the banks of the Lahn. The daily programme of the Emperor is as regular as clock work. He rises early in the morning at 6 o'clock, and receives his medical advisers, Drs. von Lauer and Dr. Thiemann. At 7 o'clock he goes to the springs to drink several glasses of hot water, and walks then through the parks, where he honours many persons by conversing with them. Afterwards, a very modest and simple breakfast is served, and this meal dispatched, the Emperor receives his civil and military secretaries, in order to get through the necessary State business. He opens all letters addressed to him personally himself, and dictates the necessary answers, or explains what steps must be taken. It is astonishing how great is still his vigour, and how fine his spirits, and the Emperor never tires of his hard work. Between 2 and 4 p.m. he takes a little drive in the neighbourhood; at 4 o'clock, dinner is served, to which some high officers or illustrious personages are always invited; after dinner the Emperor likes to go to the theatre. Foreigners are astonished at his simple and unassuming style of living. The Emperor will soon leave Ems, and will go first to Mainau, on a visit to his daughter, the Grand Duchess of Baden, and then at the end of this month to Gastein, where he is to meet the Emperor of Austria.

MAURITIUS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PORT LOUIS, JULY 16.

As a matter likely to be of some interest to New South Wales readers, I may say that for some little time past this Government appears to have arrived at the decision to consume no other than Australian coal in the island. An advertisement in one of the late papers calls for tenders for 11,600 tons, to be delivered during the interval from October, 1880, to November, 1881. Unfortunately no time is given to firms in your colonies to tender, as the offers have to be sent in in about a fortnight.

Our last news from Europe and your colonies reached us by the French mail steamer Dupleix, which arrived here from Aden on 25th ultimo.

Activity and bustle is, or will soon be, once more the order of the day on our sugar estates, as the crop season may now almost be said to be at hand; indeed, sugar-making has begun on some of the plantations.

We have experienced an unusually severe winter, which may, however, be said to have been favourable to the next year's plantations, as the rainfall has been abundant.

In colonial matters generally there is not much to report. The island has not been able to boast of very prosperous times latterly; but, if truth compels me to make this admission, I may also say the old "easy come, easy go" days, when the Mauritius sugar planter was proverbial for his extravagance, have gone by, not to return. Some of our finest properties are now in the hands of companies, a large proportion of the shareholders of which are in England.

The annual report of the Director of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Pamplemousses, for last year has lately been published, and contains a good deal of interesting information, and, above all other, proof that replanting our waste lands is now being seriously taken in hand, in the fact that 250,000 trees were propagated in the gardens in the year, for transplantation to other parts of the colony. A good many trees indigenous to our forests were among those propagated, as being the most proper for reforestation here. I may mention the tamarind tree, two varieties of a large sturdy tree called the Bois noir, filuous (the casnarina of India), the Inga dulcis, and the teak (the latter, of course, is not a native). These, except the two last, perhaps, will all grow in comparatively cool climates.

By the last mail the directors of the Messageries Maritime Company forwarded instructions to their agents here, Messrs. Blyth, Brothers, and Co., to make a considerable reduction in the passage rates by their steamers between this and Europe. The object of the change is, of course, to permit of the Messageries' boats "holding their own" in the passenger traffic against the vessels of the Donald Currie line, which have been taking passengers home by the Cape route at cheaper rates than were paid to the French line.

We have a French civil engineer here at the moment, who has published some very interesting articles in the newspapers of the colony in reference to Artesian wells, their advantages, and the success they have met with in Algeria. With our dry, arid tracts, the people in the island naturally look with interest on the above subject; and it is not improbable that a company may be started to carry out the views held by Monsieur Miot, the engineer in question, who considers that 50,000 rupees to 60,000 rupees would be sufficient capital to obtain from Europe a good plant of the needful boring apparatus, &c.

THE MOLLY MAGUIRES IN AMERICA.—The Alta California of July 3 states that the wholesale execution of the murdering Molly Maguires in Pennsylvania, not only failed to put an end to that organization, but seems to have operated as a stimulus to that bloody organization, which is again in activity in the middle and northern coal regions of Pennsylvania. In the counties Schuylkill, Luzerne, Lackawanna, Columbia, and Northumberland, it has an enrolled membership 5000 strong, and those counties are again suffering a reign of terror, caused by the murders and murderous assaults committed by the assassins of this order. John Nicholson, a blacksmith living near Scranton, Lackawanna county, informed upon some of these outlaws, and his body has been found at the bottom of a ravine 50 feet deep, in Hyde Park, making the fifth man murdered and cast into that ravine within a year past. Each of these victims is said to have received a "coffin" notice, ordering him to leave the region under penalty of swift and terrible death. Another man, named Fennel, after receiving one of these notices, was fired upon by a concealed assassin near Thomasten, and fatally wounded. He was a juror in the trial of one of the hanged Mollies, and his father, mother, and mother-in-law have been compelled to fly from the region by similar threats. Several previous attempts were made on Fennel's life. At Ashland, in the Middle Coal-field, one Thomas Grogan, at the head of a band 50 or 60 strong, made an attempt at the wholesale assassination of a body of "black-leg" miners, killing two outright, fatally wounding two others, and shooting or stabbing five more. The murderers eluded the coal and iron police, and are hiding in some secret stronghold in the Broad Mountain. A feeling of insecurity prevails throughout the coal country, and, unless the authorities are more successful in protecting life through the agency of the law, the time is not far distant when the people will combine for self-preservation, and wage a war of extermination upon this band of Thugs and assassins.

OUR BRISBANE LETTER.

BRISBANE, AUG. 21.

On the principle that prevention is better than cure, a bill has been read a second time in the Legislative Assembly, and passed through committee, to save us, if possible, from the plague of rabbits, by which other colonies have been afflicted. Very few members, apparently, believed in the actual necessity for such a measure; but they tolerated the bill as a thing that, at any rate, could do no harm. There is somehow a tacit understanding, high and low, that rabbits will not breed in Queensland. Hares have been turned out on the Darling Downs, and they undoubtedly do thrive moderately; but, strange to say, an attempt by a member for an agricultural district to include this description of ground game in the bill at once failed. The majority of legislators seemed to think the lively hare so harmless an animal that they would not hurt it even by the tiniest of clauses. As to rabbits, the few attempts to breed them wild have not been hitherto successful. Upon two stations, to my knowledge, wild rabbits were turned loose, and at first they bred with their customary rapidity, waxed strong, and began to burrow, and otherwise make themselves at home. Yet within three years they disappeared, and there is not a rabbit to be seen at the present time. The race seems to have completely died out. A more remarkable proof of the non-rabbit raising character of the colony is furnished by Woody Island, at the mouth of the Mary River. Rabbits were turned out there successfully, and for years the island swarmed with them. The high grass and undergrowth detracted considerably from the attractions of the place to the sportsman; but the rabbits, without doubt, were there. Equally without doubt they are there no longer. The lighthouse-keeper, who presumably has nothing to do but watch his four-footed fellow-islanders, was in despair for a while at his inability to account for their disappearance; but his conviction—based upon a long course of watching—now is that the iguanas destroy the young rabbits. During the discussion upon the bill some members were able to tell the House, from personal observation, what sort of a neighbour the rabbit is in Victoria and New South Wales, and one gentleman warned us not to be too sure that the rabbits which have been turned out, and temporarily disappeared, have gone to be seen no more for ever. He instanced a station on the Murray River where the rabbits suddenly, without rhyme or reason vanished, but where, after an absence of years, they have just as unaccountably appeared in myriads. Hares in Queensland I fancy degenerate. I ate a piece of Queensland hare not long ago, and it no more resembled its British progenitor than wallaby resembles roe-deer. It had lost its gamesome flavour entirely.

For the first time in the Parliamentary history of Queensland, the strangers' galleries have been cleared during the past week in the Legislative Assembly. In most cases of this kind the action is reprehensible; in the present instance, it was fully justified by the misbehaviour of the public. When a handful of known political partisans, who night after night assemble in a particular gallery, allow their feelings to get the better of them it is time they were taught a lesson. Not a fortnight ago the same men who got expelled this week for hissing broke out into applause at a declamatory passage in a speech against the Ministry. This breach of the rules was overlooked. On Wednesday night, the offenders were emboldened to go a little further. A division was called upon the Treasurer's resolution, in Committee of Ways and Means, and there was one member whose vote was watched with unusual interest—by the Opposition, with whom for many years he has sat, staunchest of the staunch, and who would now see how far they had lost his support; and by some of his constituents in the gallery, who had, at the last meeting of the South Brisbane electors, accused him of misrepresenting them, and converted a peaceable gathering into a bear-garden. The member in question, Mr. Kingsford, hesitated for a minute when other members had taken their seats, and then crossed over to the Ministerial side. Thereupon three or four members of the Opposition loudly hissed, and the hissing was taken up with interest by strangers in the gallery, whom, Mr. Kingsford said, he recognised as his hostile electors. Mr. Simpson, the member for Dalby, at once espied strangers, and the galleries were cleared. Mr. Kingsford, in an impassioned speech, described the persecution to which he had been subjected for conscience sake by his electors, and then and there shook the dust of the Opposition off his feet. Mr. Kingsford is a man of such high character in every relation of life that more excitement than common has been caused by the incident; and though a petition has been presented to the hon. member asking him to resign, by an influential section of the South Brisbane electors, he is raised to a martyr's pedestal. The Opposition had great provocation, no doubt, by the presence in their midst of a member who always voted with the Ministry, and who last year boldly renounced allegiance to the leader of the Opposition.

A debate on the desirableness or otherwise of punctuating Acts of Parliament is, if not entertaining, a natural consequence, I suppose, of an effort to disturb the musty custom of generations. Let the M'Ilwraith Ministry go down to posterity as they may in other respects, it cannot be affirmed of them that they did not mind their stops. The innovation is supposed to be an idea of the Postmaster-General, whose old Press experience would probably strengthen his determination to make the enactments of the Legislature as good "copy" as capital letters, periods, semicolons, and commas could make them. The lawyers naturally object to the system; but as Mr. Palmer, the Colonial Secretary, bluffly said, they cannot be expected to do otherwise, considering the money they make out of the ambiguity of the unpunctuated Acts. Yet there is something to be said on both sides. It is urged by the innovationists that they are only following the example of the Imperial Parliament; that the main thing is to make Acts of Parliament clear to magistrates and miscellaneous laymen. It is urged by the defenders of the ancient style that there is a practical difficulty found in fastening the responsibility of punctuation upon the right quarter. However, the Rabbit Bill, being the first measure that found its way into committee, was taken as the "awful warning" by the one set, and as an encouragement by the other, and the balance of opinion seemed to be in favour of punctuation by about ten to one.

The financial statement is put aside for the present, and next week promises a resumption of the mail service debate. It may be in the memory of the reader that Mr. M'Ilwraith made it a sine qua non—when he consented to introduce his financial statement before the mail contract debate was ended—that the thing should be settled by the 6th of September; so that if, the opposition to it is to be continued, the Premier will not have much time to spare. Only two working weeks of three days, or, at pressure, three days and a half each, remain, and a determined Opposition can, of course, stonewall henceforth to that limit without much trouble. The Premier, however, will, in a measure, accept the situation; and when the Opposition give clear proof that they intend to talk against time, he will move the chairman out of the chair. What, then, with the mail contract and financial statement, the House has done but little business during its six weeks of session. We are close upon September, and there is no immediate sign of the Estimates coming on. The Premier did contrive to get his resolution, altering the tariff to the slight extent reported last week, virtually affirmed, and some progress has been made with the Pacific Islanders Bill; but it is plain that no work to speak of will be done until this mail contract is thrust out of the path. Upon this block of offence Government and Opposition are understood to be firm in their determination to die rather than yield; and the question which chiefly interests the public is whether, if the stonewalling be successful, and the time for the completion of the contract expires in consequence, the Government will go to the country. The balance of opinion is that they will not and should not. It must be remembered that the debate on the Financial Statement is not by any means concluded. On the contrary, if certain amendments, of which unofficial notice has been given, are brought forward, it has not practically begun, and we shall yet see the unusual spectacle of a Government forced by the Opposition into imposing taxes.

The Premier took the earliest opportunity of denying that his plan of meeting the deficit is a taking from the public creditor of money already raised for a specific purpose. He explained that the amount in question will have to appear in the next loan bill, and he indignantly charged the Press with having grossly misrepresented him. His proposal, as he showed, was in due time to raise his £300,000 by loan, as money for making the western and other railways, meanwhile to issue Treasury bills bearing 5 per cent. interest. The explanation was necessary, for somehow, all over the colony, the Press, with one or two exceptions, had taken the view which I quoted in my last letter, which view, the Premier said, was a disgraceful and gross blunder.

The leader of the Opposition on Thursday introduced a bill to secure for miners a more fixed tenure on Crown lands on goldfields than they at present possess. He would have the same rule in force as in Great Britain, and sell the surface of the land, apart from the mineral below. The bill was somewhat warmly opposed by the Premier, Minister for Lands, and Minister for Works (who is also Minister for Mines); the latter, who has, as he admitted, been a practical miner, described it as aiming to take away the right by which the miner lived in order to confer upon him the right to have a house. The cue being thus given from the Government benches, the bill was doomed, by a decisive division, not to be read a second time. The report of the department of Mines, issued this morning, shows a decrease of 21,056 ounces (£73,696), for 1879. On the face of it this would seem to be a serious falling off in our yield of gold, but the fact is, it is due to the natural diminution of the alluvial workings on the Palmer River.

NORFOLK ISLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NORFOLK ISLAND, AUGUST 11.

As the visits of the Fijian mail steamer are rather erratic, one is obliged to take advantage of any opportunity that turns up. H.M.S. Emerald, Captain Maxwell, from Sydney to Levuka, called in on the morning of the 2nd to land a mail, and left again the same afternoon for her destination. The Ephemey, schooner, from Noumea via Lord Howe Island, also arrived the same day, and is still here, but is expected to sail to-morrow, with a cargo of sheep for Noumea.

Thursday, 22nd July, was the opening day of the whaling season of 1880. The weather was fine, and, as is usual on these occasions, the gentler sex were in great force to witness the ceremony of launching the boats, which was accomplished without difficulty. Whaling is not nearly so popular as formerly, six boats only being manned this year—the smallest fleet that has put to sea for some years past. But the boats and gear are good, and the crews A1, so doubtless they will give a good account of themselves. With regard to the season's prospects it will be premature to say; whales are not plentiful, and although two have already been landed, they still continue scarce.

The memorial chapel is finished, the last portion of the work, the wheel window in the gable end, having been put into its place a few weeks ago. It is a cumbrous affair, in the perpendicular style, being nine feet in diameter, the mullions 8½ by 4½, the lesser ones 5 by 2½; the rim, in eight pieces of the larger dimensions, forming a circle in inside and outside to fill an eight square hole with shields mortised in. Altogether, it is a most handsome and complicated piece of workmanship, and is the work of the mission carpenter, Mr. W. Kendall, who deserves great credit for his mechanical skill. The lights, twenty-eight in number, are filled with beautiful stained glass, the design being alternate red and white roses with green leaves intertwined. The organ, in appearance a unique little instrument, by Willis of London, has also been put up in its chamber in the chapel. It is stated to be the gift of Miss Yonge, author of the "Heir at Redcliffe," costing at the makers nearly £400. With the exception of the seats, the chapel is now ready for the ceremony that is to performed at the end of next November.

The doctor has a good deal of business on hand, consequent, doubtless, on the past inclement state of the weather, although no serious cases have arisen.

INDIA.

We extract the following intelligence from the Bombay Gazette, and telegraphic columns of the Ceylon Observer, to August 4:—

News from Candahar states that on Shere Ali ordering his force to retire from Camp Kadanak, towards Ghirishk, on Wednesday morning, the infantry deserted in a body, taking guns, arms, and ammunition, and went off towards Zemindawar. The British force crossed the river in pursuit, and overtook them at Shoraki, and completely dispersed them, killing two hundred, and recovering guns and baggage. Shere Ali's cavalry, numbering over one thousand, and all officers, remained faithful. His treasury also is safe.

A telegram from Allahabad states that General Macpherson's camp was fired into at long ranges. Forty or fifty bullets fell into the camp, but no one was hit. Next morning fifteen empty Martini cartridge cases were picked up on a hill over a thousand yards from camp. Reconnaissances show that no parties of the enemy were to be found in any direction during the day. From General Gough's camp, near Istalif, it is reported that Mir Butcha and Ut Kheyl robbers keep the villagers in a state of alarm, annoying all who send supplies to the British. Robbers wander about in parties of fifty and sixty, keeping well beyond the reach of our cavalry patrols.

On the 23rd July, at Cabul, the Khutba was read and prayers offered on behalf of the new Ameer. An address was read by the Chief Kazi, reviewing the whole course of English relations with Afghanistan from the time of Dost Mohammed Khan, showing that our action had been disinterested, and that we have now proved ourselves people of our word in restoring a Mohammadan ruler, although we were in full possession of the country. The ceremony was attended by several thousand people of all classes. The Khutba in the name of Abdul Rahman was received enthusiastically, the blessing of the people being continued for several minutes. All sections of Kizilbashes were present, traders, artizans, and many members of the Barkzai family.

On the 22nd August General Stewart held a Durbar at Sherpur, at which all the local chiefs and Sirdars were invited to attend. Our formal acknowledgement of Abdul Rahman as Amir will be made, but we shall carefully guard against posing as protectors of any faction. The people will be told that we wash our hands of participation in party strife. They must look to the new Amir to settle all disputes, as he will be their lawful sovereign.

Lord Hartington's announcement in the Commons on Monday last, regarding the papers supplied by the Government of India, showing the war expenditure must, the Pioneer says) be interpreted that further revelations have yet to be made. It now appears that the total cost of the war is likely to reach a sum, not of five and a-half millions, as represented in the Budget, and not of ten millions, as indicated by the despatch of May 4, but of about fifteen millions over and above cost of frontier railways. It has ben ascertained that up to the 31st March, instead of three and a-half millions, as shown by the regular estimates of the Budget statement, the actual outgoings from civil treasuries had amounted to nine and a-half millions sterling.

Respecting the disaster to the force under General Burrows it was stated in a telegram dated August 1, that it was reported from Candahar that the main body of Ayub's troops crossed the Helmund and were at Haidarabad on the east bank. Parties of his cavalry were foraging about the country near our camp, 400 horsemen were met on the 22nd July by our cavalry reconnaissance, and forced to retreat. The British cavalry and guns were induced to follow the enemy's cavalry, and were thus led into an ambuscade. Ayub's army then attacked, and our troops suffered severely, the battle resulting in our retirement on Candahar, but Ayub's army also suffered much. The Observer says that "General Primrose must have with him in Candahar some 8000 fighting men of whom perhaps 3000 are British. He is besieged by a force of many times that number with a horde of sympathisers among the townspeople. The kind of inducement offered to the Heratee ruffians was indicated in a message of the 2nd August:—"Ayub Khan tells his troops that the British have spent millions of rupees in Candahar, which, with all other property and women, are at their disposal after they have driven out the English." It must be remembered, too, that between Ghuznee and Kabul there have been large gatherings of clansmen, under leaders more or less bent on giving trouble to the British ever since General Stewart passed on his victorious march northwards. The most prominent political leader is Musa Khan, already referred to, but the chief General is Mahommed Jan, Yakub Khan's old leader, with his brother Asmatullah Khan. Co-operating more or less with them are General Gholam Hyder (brother of Khoja Khan), Hashim and Padsha Khans, and then farther north is Mir Butcha, the ruffianly robber who, tired of inactivity, slaughtered all his near relations as one means of occupying himself and his gang. Generals Hills, Baker, and Macpherson have inflicted punishment from time to time on some of these gatherings, but there can be no doubt that a very large array of Ghazis and Ghilzais could be mustered around Ghuznee and marched to swell Ayub Khan's numbers. We surmise that this has been already done to some extent under his nephew, Musa Khan.

IMPERIAL AND COLONIAL UNION.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE SYDNEY MORNING HERALD.)

On Monday, July 5th, an adjourned meeting of gentlemen interested in promoting the scheme for effecting a closer union among the colonies, and between the colonies and the mother country, was held in the Royal Colonial Institute, London. Sir Daniel Cooper, Agent-General for New South Wales, presided.

Mr. WESTGARTH explained that some little time before a meeting was held, with Sir Julius Vogel in the chair, at which the discussion took a general form, the main opinion expressed being that the present state of the colonies with regard to their political relationship to the parent State was unsatisfactory, and that they were going straight into disintegration. The substantial self-government which had been granted to the colonies was naturally leading them to diverge more and more from the parent State, and they would very soon have a de jure instead of a de facto Empire, unless some steps were taken to arrest the process of disintegration which had set in. (Hear, hear.) Sir Julius Vogel, at their last meeting, had delivered a very interesting address, and he had now sent him two letters expressing his views on the subject. [The Speaker then read the letters, in which Sir Julius, after regretting his inability to be present, expressed his concurrence in the object for which the meeting was called, and stated his willingness to subscribe £25 at once towards the movement, and more, if required. He also advised that a league should be formed to promote the unity of the Empire, to strengthen the political and social relations between the mother country and the colonies, and that the present meeting should draw up a plan for such a league to be presented to an adjourned meeting, to be called in October, and that a subscription list be opened to defray expenses.]

Mr. WESTGARTH said that he had also received letters of adhesion to the scheme from Mr. Alexander M'Arthur, M.P., and Sir R. Torrens.

The CHAIRMAN said he was aware this question of federation had been simmering in the minds of many people, and he himself, feeling the great importance of the matter, had written a pamphlet on the subject, with the view of drawing public attention to it. There was a number of people who did not think much of the proposal for federation, but they did not know the rapidity with which the colonies were advancing, and becoming small nations; and if it were fighting times out in the colonies they would be immediately welded together, and become a considerable power. (Hear, hear.) He hoped that they could manage, with the thorough British feeling which he knew existed throughout the colonies, to become connected with the mother country, and become one huge nation. (Hear, hear.) Although he had always been supposed to be a Liberal in politics he had many Conservative notions; and he knew that the Conservatives were the more friendly of the two towards federation. One of the principal reasons for his bringing out his pamphlet was, if possible, to prevent the Liberals, now that they were in power, from leaning, as they did on the last occasion of their supremacy, towards a policy of disintegration. He knew that many of the members of the present Government had changed their former views, and he was quite sure many of them were about to become great advocates of federation. (Hear, hear.) Though no league might be formed, yet in the course of a few months the subject would become ripe. He suggested, therefore, that they should sketch it out now, and then leave it over until November or December, forming a committee in the meantime to watch the subject. If, after November or December, they worked the matter up before the opening of the next session of Parliament, they could then get a discussion in one or both Houses, and so set the ball regularly rolling.

Mr. YOUNG (the Secretary of the Colonial Institute) did not think the present moment was exactly the time for commencing an active propaganda on a subject of this nature. It was not the period of the year at which any great amount of public attention could be directed to anything of this sort. Looking at the scheme generally, he thought they should be careful of any active steps they might take on this side. They should be very careful to put forth nothing which would look like a suggestion to the Colonial Empire as to what they should do. (Hear, hear.) Their natural jealousy would induce them to resent anything in the shape of dictation or direction from the mother country. He should like the colonies to be perfectly independent in the matter, and, in his opinion, the movement should come from the colonies themselves, rather than that they, on this side should take the lead and point out to the colonies the way they should go. (Hear, hear.) Many of the gentlemen concerned in this movement had studied the question, and were prepared with details when the proper time came for discussing the question; but he thought they might spoil everything by being too energetic or active, and he thought, therefore, that they should proceed cautiously until they had an expression of feeling from the colonies. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. MILLER, as representing the views of many Canadians on the subject, argued that any scheme of federation must be based on the mutual advantage of the colonies or countries to be federated. It was no use appealing to Imperial sentiment, for unless they could show the colonies what positive advantage was likely to accrue to them by federation it was useless talking to them about it. Why should the colonies federate with the mother country, if there was to be no additional advantages for them? They had everything that they wanted, and it was all nonsense thinking that they would contribute anything towards the maintenance of an Empire, when they got everything at present without it. The first thing they would have to do, as forming the basis of mutual advantage, would be to establish free trade throughout the Empire. There must be that inducement to them to federate, and the disadvantage of having adverse tariffs against them should they decline. He was perfectly certain that by no other means could Canada be got to federate, and unless Canada was federated into the Empire, in twenty years she would either be independent or join the United States. For his own part he would, in that case, advise them to join the United States. The commercial relations between Canada and the States had already driven away a large amount of the trade with the mother country, and now Canada with a population of 4,000,000, took £5,000,000 worth of English goods, while Australia with 2,000,000 took £20,000,000. Without there being mutual advantage by doing so it was all nonsense talking about federating, and, therefore, he contended that free trade throughout the empire was a sine quâ non in any plan of federation.

Mr. STRANGWAYS thought the colonists understood their own interests a great deal better than the people of this country understood them, and they had every intention of acting in accordance with their own interests, and making them paramount. They had heard a great deal about the different interests of the colonies, and there was no doubt that the three great groups of British colonies—Canada, Australia, and the Cape—were placed under different circumstances. In Canada they had very near neighbours in the United States, and the great majority of Canadians hated the Yankees as they hated the "old gentleman," and consequently occasions of trouble might arise; in South Africa the colonies were liable at any time to inroads from the natives; but the Australian colonies were exposed to no attack whatever, except in the case of England being at war with a great maritime power. In considering the question of federation they must look at it from these three different points of view, and consider the three various interests involved. So far as he understood, Sir Daniel Cooper's pamphlet suggested that the Australian colonies should be requested to contribute a considerable sum towards the maintenance of the English navy. Now he did not believe that the Australian colonies would do this; for they knew well enough that in time of war the English navy was bound to protect the commerce between Australia and England. All the goods shipped from Australia was insured with English money; and supposing a great war broke out, the colonists would only have to insure against war risks: and, if the Australian commerce were not protected it would be English money which would be lost. The property would not be the property of the Australian squatters and wheat growers, it would be the property of the English insurers. The Australians might naturally ask, "Why do you wish us to pay for insuring your goods?" The navy was only a species of insurance; and since the whole of the goods shipped from Australia was covered by English insurance——

The CHAIRMAN: I dispute it. I am acting as Agent-General for New South Wales, and I know that our insurance is largely effected in the colony—with the Sydney and Pacific Company.

Mr. MILLER: A great deal of insurance is done in Canada.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: Nominally the insurance may be effected in the colony, but practically all the insurance companies in Australia are managed by English money; and if they were not, the policies are covered by re-insurance in English offices. Now, I understand that you propose that we should contribute——

Mr. MILLER: What has all this got to do with the matter?

The CHAIRMAN: That is not my view at all.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: The case would arise somewhat similar to America in the Alabama business.

The CHAIRMAN: If we are to federate with the Empire, and we have a question of peace or war, insurance would not weigh one bit. (Hear, hear.) Public policy would dictate it; and if we were part and parcel of the Empire, insurance would not affect it. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. STRANGWAYS: That is begging the question.

The CHAIRMAN: Insurance does not prevent two nations from going to war. Not one person in 20,000 will have a policy of insurance.

Mr. STRANGWAYS contended that it was involved in the question of payment for any such imperial purposes as those proposed. The Australians knew that the English navy was bound to protect English commerce. He took the views of the colony as they were expressed there. If the colonists contributed towards the cost of the navy they would want a share in the direction.

Mr. MACFIE: Certainly, certainly.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: Will they get it?

Mr. MACFIE: Yes, yes.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: As you propose that to the authorities here, there will be an end to the matter.

Mr. MACFIE: We will make it a condition. (Hear, hear).

Mr. STRANGWAYS said some years ago the Naval Department placed a naval cadetship at the disposal of the Governors; but when cadets were appointed they found that they had no friends here, and could not get promoted.

Mr. YOUNG: That must be altered.

Mr. STRANGWAYS said he should like that proposal to be put forward. The fact was that the only definite proposition before them was that contained in Sir Daniel Cooper's pamphlet; and that was simply what the Conservative Government were driving at when they appointed the Defence Commission, namely, whether the colonists would not contribute towards the Imperial Navy; and he did not think the colonists would do it. He believed the matter was looked upon altogether from a wrong point of view. The colonies would have nothing to do with any system which took away from them their power and independence. (Hear, hear.) Canada and the Cape colony had had self-government forced upon them against their wishes. The people in this country did not sufficiently understand that the colonies were nearly, to all intents and purposes, independent sovereign States. There was practically on by the right to appeal which every subject had to the Privy Council which distinguished them from independent States.

Mr. MILLER: Suppose we put a heavy tax upon their goods, would they be so very independent? Would they not come begging——

Mr. MACFIE: There must be nothing of a threat——

Mr. MILLER: You will do nothing without threats.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: Every duty which we put on goods would be paid by consumers. There is no desire on the part of the colonies to separate themselves from the mother country; but they would not sacrifice one jot of their independence at the present time in favour of any scheme of federation.

The CHAIRMAN said he could speak for a week on this subject and raise nothing but objections. If they went into details, and raised questions of free trade and such like at this stage, they would find that there might be twenty ways of doing a thing and doing it well. (Hear, hear.) If he had laid down any plan dogmatically, twenty people might have said he was wrong; and they might all, himself included, have been right. (Hear, hear.) It was for those who believed federation to be advisable to come forward and lend their assistance to promote it, but this meeting was not for the purpose of raising objections. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. LEPILLIERE said that no doubt the colonists knew that the British navy must protect the commerce with the colonies, since most of it was carried on in British bottoms. But he thought Mr. Strangways did not do justice to the colonists. That gentleman had represented them as utterly sordid——

Mr. MILLER: So they are; he is quite right. (Laughter.)

Mr. LEPILLIERE: As to do nothing without expecting a return in pounds, shillings, and pence.

Mr. MILLER: Quite right.

Mr. LEPILLIERE said the best answer to this was to quote a speech delivered by Mr. Strangways, on this subject in 1876. On that occasion Mr. Strangways was reported to have spoken as follows:—"There was another view of the question. It had been asked, 'if war broke out could England protect the colonies?' but he asserted that the day was not far distant when it would be asked, not 'could England protect the colonies?' but 'would the colonies protect England?' This was no mere hallucination. There were people now living who might see the day when England might not have to defend the colonies, but the colonies defend England. They had all heard the Cornish song—

'And shall Trelawney die?
And shall Trelawney die?
Then forty thousand Cornish men
Will know the reason why?'

That might be altered at some future time, when England might be pressed by her foes; then the colonists might come forward—ten millions from Canada, ten millions from Australia, and as many from other parts, and say,

'And shall Old England die?
And shall Old England die?
Then forty million colonists
Will know the reason why?'"

(Laughter and applause.) Mr. Lepelliere declared that this was quite the antipodes of what Mr. Strangways declared to-day.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: No, no.

Mr. MACFIE did not think there was any inconsistency.

Mr. LEPELLIERE said Mr. Strangways had come and spoken strongly against preserving the unity of the empire.

Mr. STRANGWAYS: I have said not one word against preserving the unity of the Empire. On the occasion referred to by Mr. Lepelliere, I spoke of the colonists protecting England—an event which may some day arise—and to-day I was speaking of the colonies contributing to support the English navy to protect English commerce.

Mr. LEPELLIERE: The very first step towards the realization of the unity of the Empire is to organize the defences of the colonies with the mother country.

Mr. MILLER: That will never be done.

Mr. LEPELLIERE said that in the early days of colonization the first thing they had to do was to establish local defences and to fortify their harbours so as to relieve the mother country from the burden of maintaining local defences. This the Australians had done to the best of their ability, and this having been done, they must look beyond. They must look forward to defending the Empire in that portion of the world. Mr. Strangways had spoken of the colonists contributing without representation. Now, there was no one who had desired anything of the kind. The great principles of representation and taxation must go together. All who have spoken on the subject have acknowledged that the right of these two must go together. There must be a Federal Council on which each of the colonies must be represented. But he questioned whether it was expedient at this stage, before they had formed any organization, to raise and discuss this question of representation. As ardent an admirer of federation as he was, he thought they ought to go by steps. They had only to keep up the discussion of the subject in this country, and allow it to ripen on the other side. They had achieved something on this side when the Times wrote on the 1st May, 1875, as follows:—"There can, at least, be no harm in familiarising ourselves with the notion of a vast, federated empire, in which the remote dependencies, east and west, shall have a place, and the mother-country the centre. It is a dream we are the better to indulge in, and the day it may be fulfilled literally may be nearer than most of us suppose."

Captain BEDFORD PIM said there was one expression which had been used, and in which he cordially agreed namely, that the colonies were becoming small nations. Nothing could be truer than that. He could see an enormous advantage in federation, especially to the mother country, but it was necessary to consider the state of the case. In this country they had free trade, a spurious free trade, he called it—the nearest approach to free trade; but the colonies were protectionist. In Canada, he believed, they had actually a duty in favour of the United States.

Mr. MILLER said the contrary was the case, but the greater portion of their imports came from the United States.

Captain BEDFORD PIM, continuing, said it was a question of defending the colonies with the British navy. In the very last speech he made in the House of Commons, on the day on which the dissolution was announced, he had fearlessly declared that the Enghlish navy was rotetn throughout. When he was a boy they were really a powerful nation, for they could support themselves, but now they were dependent upon America and other parts for the wheat for their bread. Their grain fleet, bearing a million tons of wheat, came from San Francisco round Cape Horn. With a couple of Alabamas he would undertake to destroy the whole fleet, and there was not a ship in the British navy capable of convoying it. He spoke as a post captain of many years' standing, and he shuddered at the dangers to which they were exposed by reason of the disjointed condition of the Empire. He did not care whether it was Liberal or Conservative it was all the same. They were both alike and were Arcades ambo. He did not know how to persuade them to listen to him. They would not listen to the voice of the charmer, charm you ever so wisely—(laughter)—and he hoped the colonies would be more amenable ——

Mr. MILLER: How can they, when you have given them all that you want.

Captain BEDFORD PIM said it was more to the advantage of England than the colonies. When relations between Russia and England were strained he called attention to the fact that there were eleven Russian cruisers in San Francisco harbour? Now what were they there for? Not to prey upon American commerce. Nothing would be so easy as to lay Victoria, the principal city in Vancouver's Island, in ruins. He spoke from actual examination in this case, and he was quite certain that there were many parts of the colonies in a similar defenceless condition. Now it had been said that the colonies would not join England in defending the Empire against all foes, and in becoming involved in quarrels which probably did not concern them. And yet he was convinced that it was the very life of England that a federation should take place. He had heard an alliance, offensive and defensive between England and the colonies suggested. Whatever might be suggested or recommended with a practical consummation of the object in view he would heartily support, for he was heart and soul in the movement for England's sake.

Mr. R. A. MACFIE (ex-M.P. for the Leith Boroughs) said that in starting with this subject there were two considerations they had to remember; first, that they owed a duty to the Empire, and second, loyalty to the Queen. Their statesmen might have been foolish, but they were not bound by irresponsible statesmen who might say insulting things. He believed that the colonists were far more moved in this matter by what had been called sentiment than by L. s. d. The colonists had been described as sordid, but he did not believe they were anything of the sort. (Hear, hear.) They must guard particularly against saying or doing anything offensive. He was sorry they had not received due consideration from politicians, but he believed politicians were the most short-sighted statesmen. They were entirely governed by party considerations. Mr. Gladstone himself was under the whips of his party, and his action was constrained by party interests. It was owing to the want of true statesmanship that forty millions were now residing in the United States as foreigners instead of being among them still. There had been, however, an awakening of the public mind to the importance of this question, though he believed the aspirations of the colonists had not been responded to. He was on the platform at Edinburgh with Mr. Gladstone on the night of the Midlothian election, and he heard him make use of the phrase, "This great and noble Empire." He thought that was a sign of coming round. They had other Liberals who were coming the same way. Mr. Forster, some time ago, delighted the people of Scotland by the strong way in which he spoke on this question. Mr. Otway offered to come down to Edinburgh and address a public meeting on the subject, and they had evidences of the sympathy of Mr. Thomas Brassey, Mr. Froude, and others. Mr. Macfie then proceeded to develop a plan upon which federation might be based. He was not in favour of admitting colonial representatives to the British Parliament, for that body was already overworked; and, besides, colonists could not be expected to attend fifty nights for example when there was nothing to interest them on the chance of some colonial subject turning up. He advocated an enlarged Cabinet to deal with Imperial matters—a council of say 25, having British and colonial representatives who would administrate imperial affairs, subject to their respective Legislatures.

A general conversation took place during which the Chairman deprecated the discussion of details at this stage. He thought that the subject having been ventilated for the present they should allow further consideration to stand over until the end of the year, when a more favourable opportunity would occur for taking active steps. Eventually the following resolution was proposed by Captain Bedford Pim:—"That this meeting views with great concern the indefinite relations at present existing between the United Kingdom and her colonies, in many important points, and is of opinion that a committee should be formed with a view to consider the best means of bringing about improved relations between them." Mr. Molyneux seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously. It was decided that the gentlemen present should form themselves into a committee, with power to add to their number, it being understood that at this stage the names of the Agents-General, who were not present, should not be put down without their consent. The meeting then adjourned.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Bench on the criminal side, yesterday, was composed of the Police Magistrate, with Messrs. Jolly, Hunt, Cameron, and Martin; and on the summons side by Messrs. Roseby and Withers.

Albert Smith was found guilty of having, while in custody for drunkenness, made use of obscene language, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days; and Anne Smith, for a like offence under similar circumstances, was sentenced to pay 40s., or to be imprisoned one month; in addition to the penalties for the offence which led to their apprehension.

Thomas M'Nulty was sentenced to be imprisoned one month on conviction of having, while in custody on a charge of drunkenness, assaulted the constable (Gray) who, in the execution of his duty, apprehended him.

Mary Connors, adjudged to be an idle and disorderly person, was sentenced to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for a term of three months.

Anne Smith, charged with being a common prostitute, found wandering in a public place and behaving in an indecent manner, was sentenced to be imprisoned three months.

Frederick Williams was called upon to satisfy the Bench respecting his right to a basket of carpenters' tools found in his possession, and reasonably suspected of being stolen property; and, failing, was sentenced to be imprisoned three months.

Hugh Gorman was charged with assault and robbery. James Thompson, of the Glebe, blacksmith, deposed that between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning of the 22nd August he was on Ultimo Road proceeding homeward, when five men came to him, one of whom asked if he had a match; he had not; the prisoner struck him on the mouth and nose, and held him while another man robbed him of his watch and chain; the four men ran away, but prisoner held him for a minute or so, and then ran; witness followed him, caught hold of him, and held him until a constable came. Prisoner, in reply to the charge, said that he knew nothing whatever of the matter. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions. Bail refused.

In the Summons Court, Michael Taylor appeared to answer an information by sub-inspector M'Kay, in which he was charged with being the keeper of three dogs which attacked and endangered the life and limbs of Bridget Shapter, who, on examination, deposed that between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning of the 6th August she was on Erskineville Road when four dogs rushed upon her from the defendant's premises: one of them bit her on the hip, and between them her clothes were torn and destroyed: she was laid up in consequence for three days, and the damage to her clothes would not be recovered under about £3. William Henry Croft gave evidence of defendant's dogs being of a ferocious character. Constable Payne deposed that when he went to serve the summons in this case he had to defend himself with his baton against defendant's dogs. The Bench sentenced defendant to pay a penalty of 40s., with a like sum for damages to complainant's clothing, with 4s. 4d. costs of Court, or to be imprisoned fourteen days. Two publicans were fined 2s. 6d. each for neglecting to keep their lamps alight from sunset to sunrise; and thirteen defendants were fined in sums varying from 2s. 6d. to 20s., for sundry offences against the Police Act. Charles Livock was fined 20s. for assaulting Mary Ann, his wife.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—A pawnbroker's license was granted to John James Burt. Two publicans' licenses were transferred: Hugh Gallagher to John H. Hausman; and Elizabeth Chappel to Charles H. Law. Bridget Walsh obtained permission to remove her license from Newtown Road to Alma-street.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Yesterday, Messrs. Fowler (in the chair), Goodridge, and Badgery occupied the bench.

Albert Mitchell (10), for being under the age of 16 years and found sleeping in the open air, was sent to the Industrial School ship Vernon.

James Thompson (24) was found guilty of stealing about £1 5s. in silver money, and a handkerchief, the property of George Alvord, and was sentenced to one month's imprisonment.

Charles Lear (32) for using threatening language to his wife was bound over to keep the peace for six months, in securities, himself in £50 and two others of £25 each, or in default three months' imprisonment. The same prisoner, for wilfully breaking five panes of glass, valued at 12s. 6d. was ordered to pay that amount, or to go to gaol for four days.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—Messrs. Fowler in (the chair), Badgery, Eady, Playfair, Goodridge, and Hyam presided. A transfer of the license for the Old Robin Hood Hotel, Waverley, was granted from John Walsh to Patrick M'Mahon. Patrick Dimond applied for a colonial wine license for premises situated at No. 172, William-street, occupied by him as a grocer's shop. The application was granted. John Healey applied for the transfer of his license for the Shipwrights' Arms Hotel, Lower George-street, to James Linklater. Granted. Augustus Betencourt applied for the transfer of his license for the St. Kilda Hotel, Woolloomooloo-street, to the Horse and Jockey Hotel, Homebush. The senior constable reported that the second house was in every way suited for the purpose for which it was intended. The certificate for the license had been issued by the bench of Magistrates at Newtown, but on the passing of the Suspensory Licensing Bill, the Colonial Treasurer would not grant the licence, and it was afterwards refused by the Water Police Court Bench of Magistrates on the 10th of August instant. On the motion of Mr. Eady, seconded by Mr. Hyam, the license was unanimously granted. Mr. Gannon appeared for the applicant.

In the Summons Court, Inspector Seymour secured convictions against thirty-two persons for driving or riding across intersections of streets at a pace faster than a walk, and the defendants were in each case fined 10s., with 5s. costs. Luke M'Grath, for neglecting to keep his premises clean, was fine £2, with 5s. costs. DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL—ITS UNRIVALLED EFFICACY IN INFANTILE WASTING AND DEBILITY OF CHILDREN.—Mr. Thomas Hunt, late Medical Officer of Health St. Giles's and Bloomsbury, writes:—"In badly nourished infants, Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod Liver Oil is invaluable. The rapidity with which two or three teaspoonfuls a day will fatten a young child is astonishing. The weight gained is three times the weight of the oil swallowed, or more; and as children generally like the taste of Dr. de Jongh's Oil, and when it is given them often cry for more, it appears as though there were some prospect of deliverance for the appalling multitude of children who figure in the weekly bills of mortality issued from the office of the Registrar-General." Dr. R. C. Croft, author of "Handbook for the Nursery," writes:—"Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod Liver Oil is almost a specific in many of the diseases peculiar to infancy and childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably." Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts, by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, AUGUST 27.

THIRD TERM.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors the CHIEF JUSTICE, Mr. Justice FAUCETT, and Sir WILLIAM MANNING.)

THE QUEEN V. ADA HILL AND JOHN TIGHE.

This was a special case reserved for the consideration of the Full Court by Mr. District Court Judge Dowling, Chairman of Quarter Sessions at Darlinghurst. The case was as follows:—The two prisoners were tried on the charge of keeping a bawdy-house. The information was in the usual form. The evidence was overwhelming to prove that the prisoners kept the house as a brothel. The evidence that it was regarded as a nuisance by the immediate neighbours was weak, although it was sufficient, if such was required to warrant a verdict of guilty. Mr. Want contended that, however wrong it might be to keep a brothel, yet the keepers were not indictable so long as it was not a nuisance to the neighbourhood. The judge told the jury, amongst other things, that the keeping of a bawdy-house was a common nuisance, both on the ground of its corrupting public morals and of its endangering the public peace by drawing together dissolute persons. The jury, having retired for some time, returned into court, and through their foreman stated that they found specially that the prisoners kept a brothel: that it was not a nuisance to the neighbourhood, nor was it kept in a disorderly manner. Mr. Want asked his Honor to accept that verdict as a verdict of not guilty, the which he declined to do. His Honor again stated the law to the jury as before mentioned, and further read the law as laid down in the case of The Queen v. Rice and Wilson, 10 Cox., C.C., p. 155. The jury again retired, and, after a short time, returned a verdict of guilty. Both prisoners were sentenced to Darlinghurst gaol. The question was, whether his Honor was right in not accepting the special verdict as one of not guilty.

Mr. Pitcairn appeared for the Crown; the prisoners were not represented.

The COURT unanimously held that his Honor had been right, and affirmed the conviction. There was nothing in the point, taken in any sense. It was quite clear that any person keeping a bawdy-house was indictable, although the neighbourhood was not disturbed in any way.

THE QUEEN V. DAVIS.

This was a special case reserved for the consideration of the Full Court by his Honor Mr. District Court Judge Dowling, Chairman of Quarter Sessions at Darlinghurst. The case was as follows:—The prisoner was tried at Darlinghurst on an information which charged him that, being employed as servant to John Palmer, and by virtue of his employment, he did receive £2 13s. 7d. for and in the name and on account of John Palmer, his master; and then did embezzle the said money, and did in manner and form aforesaid feloniously steal the said money, the property of John Palmer, his master. A judgment having been obtained in the Court of Petty Sessions in Sydney, commonly called the Small Debts Court, the then Registrar, William Crane, issued what is called a precept in the nature of a fi. fa., addressed to the said John Palmer, bailiff of the said Court, and to the deputy bailiffs (not naming any) duly authorized and appointed to execute to processes of the Court, and to each and every of them, requiring them to levy on the goods of the defendant in the action to satisfy the debt and costs. The precept further required, after levy duly made thereof, forthwith to pay the same into the office of the Court. The precept was in the form given in the schedule C to the Act 10 Vic., No. 10. John Palmer had been appointed the bailiff of the Court by the said William Crane, the Police Magistrate of the Court, by virtue of the statutes in that behalf. After the date of the precept in question, on the 11th September, 1879, John Palmer appointed by writing the prisoner as his deputy bailiff to execute process out of the Small Debts Court; and the prisoner, also in writing, agreed with John Palmer to act as deputy bailiff to execute process at the rate of 7s. per day of 24 hours when in possession. There was no clause in the statute empowering a bailiff to appoint a deputy bailiff. The 27th section of 10 Vic., No. 10, refers to deputy bailiffs, and form C in the schedule does likewise. The bailiff is paid by fees, and if in possession one day would be entitled to a fee of 3s. 6d. under the statute. It was admitted that, if the prisoner received that sum, he would be entitled to claim it in part payment of the 7s. It was proved that the particular precept was delivered to the prisoner on the 12th September, who, by virtue of it, levied on the goods of the defendant in the action, and that he paid to the prisoner the moneys referred to in the information, who embezzled the same instead of paying it over to John Palmer or to the office. Mr. Palmer had to make good to the Registrar the moneys so embezzled. By one of the rules made by the said Police Magistrate, it was declared that "the Registrar shall receive all moneys that may be paid into court before or after the trial, which he shall pay over to the parties entitled thereto, upon demand being made by them or authorized agent." The prisoner was undefended; but, as it seemed to his Honor, according to the case of The Queen v. Glover, L. and C., 466, extremely doubtful whether the prisoner was the servant of John Palmer, in order to have that point settled, as the like appointment was of frequent occurrence, his Honor ruled that he was a servant. It also occurred to his Honor that it was extremely doubtful whether the moneys embezzled could be laid in the information as the moneys of John Palmer, the moneys in question not being his property, but rather the property of the Registrar; for, according to the wording of the precept and the said rule of Court the money received by the prisoner ought to have been paid over to the Registrar as being his property. The two questions arising on the above statement of facts were reserved by the Judge during the trial. If the prisoner received the moneys by virtue of the precept, could it be said that he received them by virtue of his employment as the alleged servant to John Palmer? The prisoner was found guilty. The following questions were reserved:—1. Whether the prisoner was a servant to John Palmer? 2. Whether the moneys could be laid as in the information? 3. Did the prisoner receive the moneys by virtue of his employment as servant to John Palmer?

Mr. Pitcairn appeared for the Crown; the prisoner was not represented.

The COURT unanimously affirmed the conviction. It appeared that Palmer had been appointed bailiff of the Small Debts Court. There was no provision in the Act to appoint deputy bailiffs, though it was certain that when the bailiff had to make a number of levies deputies were necessary to hold possession till the time of sale. The question then arose, whether a deputy bailiff so appointed was the servant of the bailiff who appointed him. It was clear that there was no privity between the deputy bailiff and the Registrar. The prisoner was the servant of Palmer, who had employed him, and any money reaching the prisoner's hands by virtue of that employment was to be regarded as the money of Palmer.

GLASS V. POWRIE.

On the motion of Mr. Darley, Q.C. (Mr. Foster with him), instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, the COURT granted a rule nisi, calling upon the defendant to show cause why he should not be restrained by injunction from mining on certain lands, for the trespassing on which the above action was pending.

The rule was made returnable this day week.

LITTLE V. SANDEMAN.

On the motion of Mr. Pring, the COURT made an order of Mr. Justice Windeyer, made on the 11th of June last, and which had been disobeyed, a rule of Court, with costs.

IN RE WOOLNOUGH'S DEED OF ASSIGNMENT.

At the request of counsel, the argument of this matter was postponed till next Tuesday.

EX PARTE J. B. WELCH.

This was a motion to make absolute a rule nisi granted by Mr. Justice Windeyer, on the 13th of August, and made returnable before the Full Court, for a write of mandamus, to be directed to Messrs. C. E. Jeanneret and D. Holborrow, two of her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, to compel them to hear and determine a certain complaint laid by J. B. Welch against W. E. Dance, for causing to be made a building, within the Borough of Balmain, which encroaches on a public thoroughfare known as St. John's-street, on the grounds—(1.) That the Justices were bound to hear and determine the matter of the information and complaint. (2.) That the jurisdiction of the Justices was not ousted, even if title to land was in question. It appeared that on the hearing of the complaint of the Borough of Balmain, which was laid by the Inspector of Nuisances, the solicitor for the defendant (Dance) raised an objection that the Justices had no jurisdiction as title to land was in question. Mr. Jeanneret was of opinion that objection was valid; Mr. Holborrow held a different opinion. The Bench being equally divided, no order was made. The complaint was laid under the 136th section of the Municipalities Act.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. Knox, instructed by Messrs. Manning and Dowling, appeared in support of the rule; Mr. Davis, instructed by Messrs. Piggott and Trickett, showed cause.

The COURT unanimously made the rule absolute, without costs. When an Act of Parliament gave express power to Justices of the Peace to hear and determine complaints arising out of encroachments upon public streets, and their jurisdiction was not taken away where title was in question, they had jurisdiction to decide such complaints notwithstanding that title to land might be bona-fide in dispute, otherwise the section of the Act would be a dead letter. The law was well laid down by Mr. Justice Crompton in Williams v. Adams, 2 B. and S., 316: "But when an Act of Parliament makes magistrates the very tribunal to decide whether the way is a highway or not, the Legislature must have supposed them competent to decide it; and, as Mr. Matthews said, the question whether it is a highway or not lies at the foundation of their jurisdiction. What is the dispute? Not whether the appellant had title to land, but whether the way was a highway or not. With regard to every other person except the owner of the land, there is no doubt as to the right of magistrates to try that question; and where the main object of an Act of Parliament is to give magistrates jurisdiction over a matter connected with land there should be a special provision in order to take the case out of their jurisdiction, or stay proceedings where title is in question, or there is a bona-fide claim of right; as there is in the Malicious Trespass Act the Act for Ejectment by Magistrates and the County Court Act." The questions to be decided on the complaint in the present case were—was it a street, and was it encroached upon by the defendant? The Justices had jurisdiction, and the mandamus must issue.

MULHOLLAND V. BEYERS.

This was an action for trespass, to try a right to two dams on a gold-field. The issues had been virtually tried in two or three previous actions. When the case came on for trial, at the suggestion of the Judge (Mr. Justice Faucett), the parties agreed to refer all the matters in dispute to two of the jurors (Messrs. Lamb and Wrench) as arbitrators, who were to report to the Court their award—a verdict to be entered accordingly. Nothing was said at the time of the reference to the costs of the reference and the award. The arbitrators found the issues for the defendant; and, so far as in their power lay, gave him the costs incurred. The costs were taxed, and the plaintiff's solicitor, after, in the first instance, admitting that the costs of reference and award would have to be paid by his client, objected to such costs, and on their being allowed (to the amount of about £400), appealed to the Chamber Judge, Mr. Justice Windeyer, for a review of taxation. On its being stated that, at the time of reference, no mention had been made of costs, his Honor granted the review, and disallowed the defendant the costs. Against that order the defendant now appealed to the Full Court.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Mr. M'Culloch, appeared for the defendant. Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., and Mr. Pring, instructed by Mr. Slattery, appeared for the plaintiff.

The COURT, on its being admitted by the plaintiff's counsel that, had the question of costs been raised at the time of the reference they also would have been included in the reference, amended the reference nunc pro tunc, so as to give the arbitrators jurisdiction over the costs. The effect of such an order would be that the defendant would get his costs, subject to the taxation of each separate item.

The rule was made absolute, without costs.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.—FRIDAY.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge WILKINSON.)

CA. SA. MOTIONS.

A number of ca. sa. motions were disposed of.

Supreme Court Issue.—Jury Case.

M'LAUGHLIN V. GLEESON.

This was an action to recover £43, for goods sold and delivered, money lent, and commission. Mr. Simpson, instructed by Messrs. Bull, and Bull appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. Rolin (agent for Mr. R. W. Thompson, of Maitland), for defendant. From the evidence it appeared that the point upon which the case hinged was whether defendant or his son was the person who should have been sued. Plaintiff is a commission agent in Sydney, and defendant a farmer at Phoenix Park, near Morpeth. Defendant's son is also a farmer, and, as he alleged, rents a farm from his father. He incurred the debt (which, with the exception of a few small items, he did not dispute) on his own account, and not for his father, as plaintiff had stated. The jury gave a verdict for plaintiff for £41.

RYAN V. COTTON.

This was an action to recover the sum of £11, for wages alleged to be due, and damages sustained through wrongful dismissal. Defendant paid into court the sum of £2 10s., with 4s. for costs, in settlement of the claim. Mr. M'Culloch for plaintiff, and Mr. Gannon for the defendant. His HONOR gave a verdict for defendant.

HASMOT V. BLOXSOME.

In the case of Hasmot v. Bloxsome, heard last week, his HONOR gave judgment, as follows:—The plaintiff is a condiment maker, and was at the time of the inquiry complained of the tenant of two cellars of a building in Pitt-street, belonging to the defendant. On the night of last Good Friday there was a heavy storm of rain, and a considerable amount of property belonging to the plaintiff in these cellars was injured. The plaintiff sues the defendant for the value of these goods, which, he says, were injured on this occasion in consequence of a defect in the communication with a drain-pipe running at the back of these premises, for which the defendant is responsible. It appears that formerly the Tank Stream ran behind these premises, into which a drain leading from these cellars emptied itself. Some months ago this portion of the Tank Stream was filled up by the Corporation of Sydney, but at the instance of the defendant there was placed where the Tank Stream used to run a twelve-inch pipe leading towards the sewer in Queen's-place, which sewer itself is connected with the main sewer, in Pitt-street. A six-inch pipe running from the cellars was connected with this twelve-inch pipe by the defendant; but where it is connected with the twelve-inch pipe the defendant omitted to place a flaptrap, as is usual in such cases, and which if it had been placed there would have prevented the return of liquid matter from the twelve-inch pipe into these cellars. The premises in question are built on made-ground, and the flow of these cellars is about four feet below the level of Pitt-street, and also below the level of the back yard of the premises, which back yard is over the site of the old Tank Stream. The floor of the cellar is only very slightly above the twelve-inch pipe above referred to. This floor is also level, or but little higher than the line of high tide in the harbour; on the night when the plaintiff's goods were injured sewage matter as well as water was found in these cellars. I find, as a matter of fact, that it was in consequence of the absence of this flaptrap, and therefore in consequence of the defective construction of the communication made by the defendant with the twelve-inch pipe, that this sewage matter and some of the water found their way into the cellars, being forced back into them from the sewer in Pitt-street by the concurrence of the storm of rain and the high tide in the harbour. Although some of the water which caused the injury in question percolated through the floor of the cellars and some coming from the down-pipe from the roof, the house was unable to escape. Under the circumstances the defendant was guilty of a breach of duty which substantially contributed to the damage complained of, and cannot escape liability by showing that similar damage might have arisen from other causes beyond his control if he had done his duty. (See Nitro-phosphate Company v. the St. Catherine Dock Company, 9 L.R., C.L.d. 503.) For these reasons I find for the plaintiff, damages £150. I may add that in order to form, as far as possible, a correct opinion of the facts of the case I inspected the premises, in the presence of the witnesses of the parties to the action.

THE ONLY FIRST AND SPECIAL PRIZE FOR SEWING-MACHINES awarded at the Sydney International Exhibition of 1879 and '80, after a contest extending over six months, was gained by the NEW DAVIS VERTICAL-FEED MACHINE over all comers.
These wonderful machines are probably the greatest marvel of the sewing-machine era, combining the GREATEST POSSIBLE SIMPLICITY with a range of ADAPTABILITY and EFFICIENCY hitherto unthought of.
The style of work done by the DAVIS is being considerably imitated by other machines, but "'TIS AN IMITATION, AND NOTHING MORE."
Read the Judges' Award, which fully establishes the UNAPPROACHABLE EXCELLENCE of the DAVIS:—
"The New Davis Sewing-Machine, being a complete departure from the ordinary style of Sewing-Machines, POSSESSING ALL THE ADVANTAGES OF SUCH ORDINARY SEWING-MACHINES, and IN ADDITION an INCREASED RANGE OF WORK, with the GREATEST SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION and REDUCTION IN NUMBER OF WORKING PARTS, we consider it entitled to the first place in awards."
Also, 1st SPECIAL PRIZE at Queensland Exhibition, July, 1880.
Samples of work, and Illustrated Catalogues forwarded post free to any part of the colonies.
Full instructions gratis, and a liberal time payment system. Every machine guaranteed.

TO THE LADIES OF NEW SOUTH WALES.—Do not be deceived by the farce of FIRST PRIZES, GRAND DIPLOMAS, &c., given to various SEWING MACHINES by a parcel of men who are not half such good judges as you are yourselves. Go and inspect them yourself, or, better still, see some other lady who has a Sewing Machine, but be sure and find one who has the WILLCOX and GIBBS' AUTOMATIC SILENT SEWING MACHINE. You will not find that a difficult matter, as there are thousands who have these real home blessings in town and country, and have proved them to be such by years of well-tried experience. After such disinterested advice you will not be misled by any advertising plausibility as to Exhibition prizes, &c. These Automatic Machines can be obtained at Public Notices.

SIR JOHN ROBERTSON, K.C.M.G., AND THE LATE LANDS COMMISSION.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sir,—I enclose copy of correspondence, and request that you will do me the favour of inserting the same in the Herald. My reason for making this request is that the matter referred to is of public moment, the correspondence originating in comment of a certain character on the recent Commission of Inquiry on the Lands, and on my conduct as a member of the same.

Men who have devoted time and labour to a public duty, the performance of which has necessarily entailed odium in interested quarters, naturally look to the Press as the proper channel for their vindication before their fellow citizens; and the only means through which they can meet the underground current of malice and slander which circulates without coming to the surface. Mr. myself, and I may also say on behalf of my coadjutor, Mr. Abbott, we seek to offer no vindication, but point to the printed evidence taken before the Commission, as ample grounds for all that either of us has said, written, or published on the subject.

Your obedient servant, GEORGE RANKEN.

No. I.

STEPHENPHOBIA.

To the Editor of the Evening News.

"Sir,—In the Pacific Weekly of Saturday last there appears, from the pen of the same writer, two papers, which exhibit an extraordinary attack of 'Stephen on the brain, and the brain crooked.' One is signed 'George Ranken,' and is an unmistakable puff for Milner's claim to qualities divine; in fact, exhibiting him as a perfect cure; the other signed 'Capricornus,' making many dastardly attacks upon Mr. W. W. Stephen, the much respected Under-Secretary for Lands.

"Ranken was one of the members of the late notorious 'lands and survey commission,' and the impartiality with which he conducted the inquiry, so far as Mr. W. W. Stephen was concerned, may be at once detected from the following words from his paper in the weekly alluded to, 'and being asked, no doubt ironically,* whether he considers such a tenor a good holding title he naively says, yes.'

"'Capricornus' probably did not expect to have the mask pulled from off him, and to be exposed as he now is as 'George Ranken,' and at the same time one, who, full of hate and unjust prejudice, undertook a solemn public duty, for which he was paid £3 3s per diem, I imagine ten times more than he ever earned in his life before.

"Whatever may have been Mr. Ranken's object, Mr. W. W. Stephen, in his reply to his accusations, made it clear that the Under-Secretary knew how to make 'catsmeat' of his opponent.

"Fair Play.

"* The writer might have been certain about this, for he asked the question himself."

No. II.

STEPHENPHOBIA.

To the Editor of the Evening News.

"Sir,—In your paper of last night you give insertion to a letter respecting me, under the heading of 'Stephenphobia,' as to which I think it necessary to make the following remarks:—

"The writer states that he has pulled the mask from off 'Capricornus.' He might have saved himself this unnecessary act of violence, as the nom de plume has been no disguise in Sydney for the last three years; and, moreover, I have never written anything under the designation of 'Capricornus' that I have not been ready to put forward in my proper person either in speech or in writing. With reference to certain matters brought to light by the late commission of inquiry on the 'lands,' as to which your correspondent appears to feel interested, allow me to assure him publicly, in your columns, that I have never lost any opportunity of referring to these facts either in conversation or in the Press, and that I shall probably make further use of the report of the commission in both ways whenever occasion arises, and while such abuses as are therein chronicled find place in the department concerned.

"For my justification I refer those interested to the public document itself, the report of the commission, and to the Under-Secretary's own evidence contained therein.

"I do not think it necessary to answer the accusation made against me of private malevolence towards Mr. Stephen, as, before the occasion referred to I hardly knew him to speak to.

"For the other points referred to by your very gentlemanlike correspondent, if he will communicate with me in his proper person, I shall be glad to enter into any further explanation that he may desire. Yours obediently,

"George Rankin.

No. III.

"The Hon. Sir John Robertson.

"North Shore, 18th August, 1880.

"Sir,—The Editor of the Evening News informs me that you are the writer of a letter which appeared in that paper on the 29th July, signed "Fair Play," commenting on my motives for accepting her Majesty's commission to inquire into the administration of the Lands Department, accusing me of having undertaken a solemn public duty full of hate and unjust prejudice, and of having dealt in the matter with Mr. Stephen, the Under-Secretary, in a spirit prompted by such feelings.

"I intend to take such steps as I may consider necessary for my vindication unless you furnish me with an adequate apology for publication.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"George Ranken.

No. IV.

"To George Ranken, Esq.

"23rd August, 1880.

"Sir,—I have, since the date of my letter to you on the subject of my letter in the Evening News of the 29th July, read the last-mentioned letter, and frankly acknowledge that in it there are statements which might to some extent be made to bear the interpretation you put upon them, but they certainly were not intended to indicate that you had ever intended to act unjustly to Mr. Stephen.

"I have also read the sharp and satirical rejoinder which you published in the Evening News of the 3rd August, and should have thought you had thereby abundant revenge.

"With regard to Mr. Stephen's position, I thought you had been severe enough in your treatment of him on the Commission and that it was inhuman of you to follow him up for years afterwards by acrimonious attacks, and thus I wrote the note complained of by you, more intent on the "Milner" part of it than that relating to 'W. W.' However, you are not satisfied, it seems, and want me to write something for publication. I certainly shall not object, so that it be reasonable. Perhaps what ought to be done might be determined by a mutual friend. I suggest the Hon. J. Bowie Wilson.

"Your obedient servant,

"John Robertson."

No. V.

North Shore, 25th August, 1880.

The Hon. Sir John Robertson.

"Sir,—On the other side, I do myself the honour to hand you form of withdrawal which my friends recommend, for your signature. The publication of this, following my letter of the 18th instant, will, it is held, be sufficient.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"George Ranken."

Form of withdrawal appended to above:—

"Sir,—In answer to your letter of the 18th instant, I beg to state frankly that I regret making the statements reflecting on your motives and conduct contained in the letter alluded to, as I now believe they were entirely unfounded."

No. VI.

"To George Ranken, Esq.,

26th August, 1880.

"Sir,—I am going to Sir Henry Parkes' residence, on the mountains, this morning, and cannot be back till Saturday morning next.

"If you will let a friend of yours meet me, or meet me yourself, at any time afterwards, I think a better arrangement can be made than that proposed by you, and equally satisfactory to you.

"Your obedient servant,

"John Robertson."

"I could be here (Public Instruction Office), or anywhere you like to name, at any hour on Monday.

No. VII.

"To the Hon. Sir John Robertson,

North Shore, 27th August, 1880.

"Sir,—In reply to yours of yesterday, I decline to treat in a matter affecting my reputation, and, to end this correspondence, I shall take the shortest course to clear myself.

"I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

"George Ranken."

No. 80-118. Town Clerk's Office, Sydney, 25th August, 1880.

CAUTION.—WATER SUPPLY.

In consequence of the unusually protracted drought at this season of the year, his Worship the Mayor would invite the citizens and residents in adjacent Municipalities, to use every means for preventing waste, and for the economical use of water, as a continuance of the present dry weather for any lengthened period will occasion some anxiety as to the capabilities of the Botany watershed, under a more severe test than it has yet been subjected to, to meet the great demand which is being made upon it.

CHAS. H. WOOLCOTT, Town Clerk.

No. 80-119. Town Clerk's Office, Sydney, 27th August, 1880.

ALIGNMENT OF MURRAY AND BUNN STREETS, PYRMONT.

NOTICE is hereby given, that plans showing the proposed alignment of Murry-street from Union-street to Allen-street, and Bunn-street, from Murray-street to Pyrmont-street, are now lying at the Office of the City Surveyor, Town Hall, for public inspection, and will so remain for one month from the above date, in order that any objections thereto by persons interested may be transmitted in writing to the undersigned for the consideration of the Council.

CHAS. H. WOOLCOTT, Town Clerk.

SYDNEY WOOL SALES.

MORT and CO.'S WOOL WAREHOUSES, Sydney.

To our Constituents, and Woolgrowers generally.

We venture to hope that we now address a wider constituency than in any previous year. An increased direction of Wool to THIS PORT has already been very fully evidenced, and the continued extension of the RAILWAYS must yearly bring accession. In this EXPANSION it has been very gratifying to us to find that while retaining the friends we have been privileged to serve for many years, we have been honoured also with the confidence of many others, who could only have come to us on their report.

We desire to respond to this trustful preference, and are paying attention to a provision of the appliances necessary to meet the enlarging and yearly condensing WOOL SEASON. To this end, we are adding to the receiving and delivering facilities of our Warehouses at the CIRCULAR QUAY, and erecting a very capacious RECEIVING STORE, in IMMEDIATE PROXIMITY to the DARLING HARBOUR RAILWAY STATION, to which all WOOL conveyed on the Southern and Western Lines is now brought.

We have for many years dealt with at least a fifth of the wool exported from Sydney, and the arrangements alluded to will give room for the addition which we trust we may, without presumption, look for; feeling assured it will be accorded that we have ever conscientiously devoted our experience, with very active effort, to secure advantage to our constituents.

We shall continue to adhere to the rule, which has hitherto guided us, of acting as SELLING BROKERS only.

All PRODUCE is covered by Insurance against loss by fire immediately it reaches our Warehouses; and Insurance is also promptly effected on Wool in transit from Station, on request to do so from owners.

Wool and Produce Brokers,
Circular Quay, Sydney.

WAI TIANG,
2A, George-street Market.

Sydney, August 27, 1880.

THIS is to certify that for the last four months I have been suffering from a TUMOUR, which had grown over a space of my ribs, six inches in diameter. Therefore an operation would have been difficult, if not fatal, on account of it having grown so deep between my ribs. After my arrival in Sydney, on July 1, after travelling 2000 miles to get medical treatment, I had the very happy consolation to be told it would kill me in a very short time. But, fortunately for me, on July 3, I met with a gentleman who recommended me to try Dr. Hood, who he said had effected miraculous cures in Tumours and Cancers without operations. So on the same day I put myself under Dr. Hood's treatment, and had the satisfaction to see my Tumour removed in four days, and myself fast improving in strength and spirits; and now, after about one month's treatment, I am perfectly cured, and I have gained about 20 pounds in my weight during that short time. No words I can write could express my thanks and gratitude for what I have received from Dr. Hood, 9, Belmore-street; and this gentleman, therefore, I can with the greatest of confidence recommend to any one who may be suffering from either tumours, cancers, piles, or any other disease.

I may state, that in all my experience and travels, which extend nearly all round the world, colonies included, I have never heard of any one who could cure tumours or cancers without operations having been performed where these most dreaded enemies did not grow again and kill the sufferers.

I am, &c.,
JAMES PAILING, 395, Pitt-street, Sydney.

WOOL.

TO WOOLGROWERS, MERCHANTS, and OTHERS.

THE COMING SEASON, 1880.

The near approach of the new season, causes us to remind growers to make their arrangements in good time for the disposal of their Wools, and, while thanking our friends for the business which has been entrusted to us hitherto, we have the pleasure again to offer our services for either the SALE or SHIPMENT of the New Clip.

The extension of the railways throughout the interior will cause the wool of the coming season to reach Sydney both earlier and within a shorter space of time than heretofore, and in view thereof we have made such arrangements, by securing more extensive warehouse accommodation to deal with the wool as fast as it arrives, that we can promise those who may favour us with their business, that as soon as their wool reaches the railway-station or the wharfs, we shall take IMMEDIATE DELIVERY of it.

On this point, therefore, no delay need be feared by OWNERS OF WOOL.

Our Warehouses are SPACIOUS and PARTICULARLY WELL LIGHTED, and are thus admirably adapted for the display of wools to the best advantage.

All wools are carefully examined and valued by ourselves prior to being offered at auction, thus each lot is thoroughly protected up to its full MARKET VALUE.

Instructions when given as to reserved prices are also strictly carried out. We can, therefore, confidently assure owners that every care is exercised by us in the disposal of Wools placed in our hands for sale.

In our Circular issued prior to the opening of the last Season, we therein anticipated an active demand from American and Continental buyers in this market, and the result justified our expectations, and it now affords us pleasure to inform Wool Growers that a still more animated business may be confidently looked forward to during the coming season.

The quantity of Wool sold during the past year in the Sydney market, owing to the operations of the foreign buyers, considerably exceeded what was sold in any previous year, and as the demand from the same sources, added to the requirements of the local buyers, promises this coming season to be still larger, the prospects that prices will be well maintained are very bright.

These inducements will no doubt operate largely to cause Wool growers to try this market. To those of our friends who prefer shipping to London we also offer our services.

We are always in a position to ensure best terms of freight by first-class vessels; we will therefore either ship to our Agents in England, making full advances, or we will hand over documents as we may be directed by the owners of any clips entrusted to us for shipment.

SOAP. SOAP. SOAP.—The coming Brand. The coming Brand. PRITCHARD'S No. 1 CROWN.

WHAT is more pleasing to the eye of the good Housewife than to see the Clothes Line filled with beautiful WHITE LINEN. The way to secure that object, all that is necessary is to use PRITCHARD'S No. 1 CROWN SOAP. Every Bar is branded—Pritchard No. 1 Crown.

TO THE PUBLIC.—Ask your Grocer for MASON'S BLACKING, as it not only imparts a beautiful gloss to your boots, but preserves the leather. For sale at all Grocers and Ironmongers, and wholesale of the Sole Agents,

BARRON, MOXHAM, and CO.,
York-street, Wynyard-square.

TO ECONOMICAL HOUSEWIVES.—Your Grocer can purchase inferior Soaps 8s a hundredweight less than he can buy Allen's No. 1 Crown Soap, and he charges for them the same price per bar. He reaps the benefit and you pay for it. You lose 6s a box, your clothes last no time, and their colours are destroyed by the adulteration. To avoid all this see that your bar of soap is stamped "ALLEN'S No. 1 Crown."

INCREASE OF CAPITAL of the NEWCASTLE STEAMSHIP COMPANY (Limited).
At the General Meeting of Shareholders, held on the 28th May, 1880, at Newcastle, it was unanimously resolved to purchase a new first-class passenger Steamer, with superior accommodation and faster than any now in the trade, and with all the latest improvements for economising the consumption of fuel, on the receipt of applications for a sufficient number of Shares in the above Company. The estimated price of the steamer being £30,000.
The encouragement hitherto received by the Company, as shown in their last balance-sheet, and in the fact of having paid a TEN per cent. dividend for the previous FOUR HALF-YEARS, warrants the Directors in sanctioning the purchase of the said steamer upon applications being received as above.
The present shareholders in the Company will have a priority in the allotment of shares; subject to which applications from the general public will be considered pro rata.
The shares are to be one pound shares, to be paid for as follows:—One-fifth, or 4s per share, on application, the remaining four-fifths by bills at 5, 10, 15, and 20 months, from 1st June, 1880. Interest at the rate of 7 per cent. to be allowed on all payments until the steamer shall commence trading, when investors in the new capital will become entitled to the payment of dividends the same as the present shareholders.
Nine thousand shares are already applied for. The Share List will close on 1st September, 1880.
All applications for shares to be addressed to MARSHALL BAYLEY and PEEBLES, 90, Pitt-street, and from whom any further particulars may be obtained.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONIAL from the Rev. George Thomas Horn, M.A., Oxford:—"Dear Sir,—Being troubled with a severe cough during a recent visit to London, I purchased a bottle of your Balsam of Aniseed, and was thankful to find immediate and permanent relief. "I am, very faithfully yours, "GEORGE THOMAS HORN, M.A."

"H.M. Gunboat Netley, Wick, Scotland. "Dear Sir,—Having had a most distressing and severe cough, which caused me many sleepless nights and restless days, I was recommended by his lordship the Earl of Caithness to try your most valuable Balsam of Aniseed, and I can assure you with the first dose I found immediate relief, even without having to suspend my various duties, and the first small bottle completely cured me. Therefore, I have the greatest confidence in fully recommending it to the million. (Signed) "W. LINZELL, H.M. Gunboat Netley."

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT IT IN THE WINTER. Francis Murphy, Esq., of Woodstock House, writes to Mr. Conolly, chemist, Althy:—"I take leave to acquaint you that Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, which I purchased of you, and which you so highly recommended, is an effective cure of coughs. I have used it myself and in my family, and found it a certain remedy, and have known it to relieve inveterate chronic coughs amongst my friends, therefore I can in truth pronounce it an invaluable medicine."

TRULY AN EXTRAORDINARY EXPECTORANT. Mr. Edward M. Ullett, of Bury, Hants, writes to Messrs. Palmer and Son, Ramsay:—"Having been in the habit of using Powell's Balsam of Aniseed for a great number of years, I have pleasure in bearing testimony to its incomparable effects as an expectorant. I always find a single dose gives immediate relief, and a small bottle effects a perfect cure."

INVALUABLE for BRONCHITIS and ASTHMA.—The Rev. Wm. Lush writes from Stixwold Vicarage, Horncastle:—"For the past twelve years I have been in the habit of using myself, giving away, and recommending your Balsam. I should not be exaggerating if I said I have never known it to fail. Whenever I have had a cough I have used it in preference to anything else, and again and again it has cured me."

EXTRAORDINARY COUGH REMEDY.—A Lady writes:—"When you see Mr. Powell tell him that I would not be afraid to face a Russian winter with his Balsam of Aniseed for a companion, although my lungs are most susceptible."

An eminent clergyman in Lincolnshire writes:—"Having found Powell's Balsam of Aniseed a most excellent remedy for coughs, &c., I have been giving away bottle after bottle to the poor of my parish."

LOOSENS the PHLEGM IMMEDIATELY.—The Dean of Westminster's Verger writes:—"I was advised to try the Balsam of Aniseed; I did, and have found very great relief. It is most comforting in allaying irritation and giving strength to the voice."

Lionel Brough, Esq., the eminent actor, writes:—"I think it an invaluable medicine for members of my profession, and have always recommended it to my brother and sister artistes."

The Duc de Montabor writes:—"Chateau de Montabor, Aveyron, France.—From the first dose I felt great relief, the bad symptoms grew feebler, the irritation of the throat was calming down, and I recovered the sleep which had nearly left me."

The effect of one teaspoonful taken in a little water on going to bed is extraordinary.

The Rev. Dr. H. Roberts writes:—"14, Hart-street, Bloomsbury.—I think it only right to inform you that I have recommended to very many families, and have used it most efficaciously in my own, your Balsam of Aniseed; and the assurances I have received of its worth as a cure for coughs and asthma, under various guises, justify my communication of the fact to you."

MR. MARLANDE CLARKE, Dramatic Reciter, Crystal Palace, Alexandra Palace, Royal Albert Hall, Palais de la Bourse, Brussels, writes as follows:—"I attribute my being able to sustain on many occasions the great strain put upon my voice by continual teaching and reading in public, to a dose of your Balsam of Aniseed."

THE EFFECT of ONE TEASPOONFUL taken in a little water on going to bed is EXTRAORDINARY.

No family should be without it.

STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH. CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.

The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well-earned extensive sale has induced SPURIOUS IMITATIONS, some of which, in OUTWARD APPEARANCE, so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—

1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surry, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words "John Steedman, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey," printed thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.

HOSKING'S ESTATE, adjoining MACQUARIE FIELDS and GLENFIELD RAILWAY STATIONS, HAVING TWO MILES AND A HALF FRONTAGE TO THE GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY LINE—25 MILES FROM SYDNEY.

1600 ACRES, TO BE SOLD IN LARGE BLOCKS, SUBDIVIDED INTO SUITABLE AREAS FOR HOMESTEADS FOR SYDNEY BUSINESS PEOPLE, by HARDIE and GORMAN, by Auction, at their Rooms, Sydney, on MONDAY, the 30th day of AUGUST, 1880, at Eleven o'clock a.m. prompt.

GREATEST SALE OF THE YEAR.

In submitting this Property for sale, the Auctioneers cannot speak too highly of its valuable qualities. It must be seen to be appreciated, and inspection is strongly invited before the day of sale.

It is, without exception, the finest Property on the Railway line they have ever had in their hands for sale; and the attention of the Mercantile community of Sydney, Speculators, and Investors is earnestly requested to a few of the leading features of this splendid Estate.

It is one of the FIRST and VERY BEST SELECTIONS made in the early days of the colony, and must have had an immense amount of money expended upon it to bring it to its present condition. There are upwards of 600 acres of thoroughly cleared land, and the rest is beautifully studded and artistically sheltered with valuable Box and Ironbark Trees.

The Water supply is unlimited throughout the whole estate—the whole length of the Eastern boundary having the celebrated pure waters of George's River, and from the West to the East never-failing fresh water springs, forming one large creek, called "Bunburry Current Creek," which empties itself into George's River. There are NO DENSE SCRUBS OR MARSHY COUNTRY liable to floods on the Estate, but EVERY PORTION of it BEAUTIFULLY ELEVATED and available for use at all times of the year.

The SOIL is of the richest description, and the Farm and Dairy Produce from this Estate has always been recognized as the best in the County of Cumberland, and realized the highest market prices in the Sydney market.

The SCENERY and CLIMATE cannot be surpassed. The magnificent hills on the East side of George's River not only present a grand and romantic view, but modify to a pleasant degree the North-East winds prevalent in the summer months; and on the West the high hills of Macquarie Fields intercept and subdue the rough Westerly winds prevalent in the winter months. The reputation of this locality for HEALTH and BEAUTY is proverbial amongst all who know the place, and especially by some of our now leading colonists, who passed their schoolboy days at "M'Arthur's School." In fact, the Estate is the admiration of all who visit it.

It is well adapted as subdivided for residences for business people of Sydney. The journey only occupies ONE HOUR'S PLEASANT RIDE by railway to or from Sydney, and the certainty of time of departure and arrival of trains makes it more convenient and certain, and occupies no more time than travelling by omnibus to some of the suburbs—such as Waverley or Randwick. There are at present trains running continually THROUGHOUT THE DAY, calling at Glenfield, two of which run specially to suit Sydney business people—that is, one which arrives in Sydney at a quarter to 9 a.m., and leaves Sydney at half-past 5 every evening. It is by these two trains that large numbers of Sydney business people now travel to their homes daily, for several miles beyond Glenfield.

The Estate has a large frontage of TWO MILES AND A HALF to the GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY LINE, with TWO RAILWAY STATIONS thereon, namely, Macquarie Fields and Glenfield, and a SIDING now being constructed by the Government for the conveyance of heavy goods.

Building materials are easily procurable, there being a splendid STONE QUARRY ON THE GROUND, from which the Government purchased the stone used in construction of Railway Bridges. BRICKS can be had at easy distance, viz.:—at the Brick Works, Parramatta Junction, much cheaper than they are now in Sydney. SAND and HARDWOOD, for building purposes, are abundant.

There is a large and commodious HOMESTEAD on the Estate, massively built, containing 8 rooms, large kitchen, coachhouse and stables, splendid stone underground DAIRY, and other necessary out-buildings.

On the day of sale the whole of SECTION 16 (upon which is erected the HOMESTEAD) will be sold in one lot. Upon reference to Lithographic Plan, this will be found to comprise an area of about 52 ACRES.

The property is now being placed under "TORRENS' ACT," and the title is indisputable.

Terms:—One-third cash; balance extending over a period of two years, at 6 per cent. interest.

There will be NO RESERVE and Speculators and others are reminded that this is a chance that can NEVER BE EXCELLED for safely investing for a sure and certain remunerative return, as it must be apparent to all that, as population spreads along the main railway line, this property will become of treble its present value, and that in a very short space of time.

This being the largest sale of the season, and the lots numerous, the Auctioneers have appointed a special day for the sale of this property only. Intending purchasers are respectfully requested to be punctual, as the sale will commence promptly at advertised time.

The blocks are subdivided, pegged out, and numbered by Mr. Surveyor ATCHISON.
